PHILADELPHIA

and the University are closely related.

... the only city in the country where a water shortage would cause jubilation, presents a paradoxical picture to the newcomer.

On the one hand, it is the third largest city in the United States, a leading seaport, and a center of industry. On the other, it seems like no more than the colonial village it once was.

But to the curious student Philadelphia offers another side . . .

THE ACADEMY OF MUSIC and its acoustics are world famous. There is still another balcony in this ampitheatre where students gather, but our photographer got dizzy looking so high.

THE PURAL CLUB struts its stuff around City Hall during the annual Philadelphia Mummers' Day Parade. This colorful procession attracts people from all over the country who come to watch the antics.

... in which study and recreation are pleasantly mixed.

Beyond the University campus lie many places of interest which are part of Philadelphia and await exploration.

These range from music, science, and art to ...

SCIENTIFIC EXPERIMENTS and instruments are exhibited at the Franklin Institute where the motto of learning by doing is carried out to its fullest realization.

AT THE HEAD of the beautiful Benjamin Franklin Parkway stands Philadelphia's celebrated Art Museum patterned after the classic Doric architecture.

Boasting four legitimate theatres, an innumerable number of movie houses,

a score of havens for the gourmet, and countless places of refuge for a pleasant Saturday night,

Philadelphia also bears a city within itself

the University of Pennsylvania.

POCKET MONEY disappears rapidly with so many excellent attractions at the Forrest Theater. Eight performances a week are hardly enough to satiate the appetite of Penn's theater-goers.

CONVENTION HALL AND MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM are so much a part of the University, and so close, that Penn graduations are held here.

VISIONS OF PENN never escape patrons of Victor Tarello who boasts that he serves the finest food in the world.

JIMMY, the Zoo's only giraffe, turns his head from the allurements of Philadelphia's night life unlike Penn men who love the ginger ale served downtown.

THE CAMPUS

. . . lies on the west bank of the infamous Schuylkill River. Founded by Benjamin Franklin in 1740, Pennsylvania is the fourth oldest college and the oldest university in the United States. Through its heart at 37th and Spruce Streets runs the greatest volume of trolley traffic in the world, and this distinction vies for the affections of the fifty-three hundred male undergraduates with other singular attractions such as . . .

WHO WOULD ever dream that this romantic scene is Penn? It is.

COME ON NOW, fellows! Isn't this carrying Penn's separation of the sexes too far?

NEARLY EVERYBODY in Philadelphia reads the Bulletin, but at 37th and Woodland the Daily Form reigns supreme.

... the green serpentine stone which is so prevalent in many of the campus buildings and the mysterious atmosphere surrounding the Wistar Institute. Business establishments of all types make the school area sufficiently equipped to handle every need; some of these going concerns . . .

HAROLD STOTT raises flag in honor of one hundred per cent Alumni Giving Campaign participation for 1949-50 accomplished by Class of '06 Law.

ALTHOUGH RESIDENT students cry out against the PTC's Toonerville trolleys, commuters find Routes 11, 13, 34, 37, 40, and 42 necessary evils in the battle for that sheepskin.

THIS WAS obviously a quiet night for the denizens of Smokey's (for young men over one and twenty).

WHO IS PENN'S incomparable man? Hildergarde and Clay Boland conduct the search through the channels of Irvine and WXPEN.

THE TALENT that Munger longs for is right here in his own back yard—the Big Quad.

will never be forgotten
by the students.
Conveniently forgotten by many,
however, will be the fact that beautiful scenery is rare at Penn.
Hamilton Walk
and the Botanical Gardens stand alone in this respect.
But Penn offers other . . .

WHAT WOULD THE RECORD be without a photograph of the omnipresent statue of the founder of our University?

Within the next few years a dream will become a reality. The University's $32,000,000 re-development plan, in the formative stage for some time, will become a concrete actualization. Much of the credit for this plan and its enactment must go to the Board of Trustees of the University. The development program, as well as other directives of University action, was formulated under the guidance of this body of men which meets thrice yearly — in February, June, and October—in regular sessions and at other times at the request of the President. Basic problems confronting the University are settled at these times by men who represent all phases of business and professional activity. Although to most undergraduate students of the University, the Board of Trustees is manifested only in a semicircle of automobiles outside College Hall, it is the responsible, policy-making organ of the University administration.

The past accomplishments of Harold E. Stassen bear out the admirable qualities which he has exhibited as one of this era's foremost university presidents. He was elected governor of Minnesota, his home state, for three consecutive terms from 1938 to 1942, becoming the youngest man ever to hold that office. During the war, he served as a Naval officer, undergoing active service in the Pacific under Admiral Halsey. He was also a United States delegate to the United Nations Charter Conference in San Francisco. In September, 1948, upon his assumption of its presidency, he received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from this University in recognition of his past deeds.

GEORGE W.
McCLELLAND

Chairman of the University

Two of the present undergraduate classes of the University matriculated when Dr. McClelland was President of Penn; the other two know him solely as its Chairman. Relatively few students have had the added pleasure of receiving instruction in various English courses under this versatile figure. These few, however, can realize his twofold contribution to the University as administrator and scholar over many years, years which began in 1903 when he first joined the faculty and which have been enriched by his presence.

PROVOST PAUL H. MUSSER began his University career as a reader in English and rose from that position to become Dean of the College. After serving as administrative Vice-President, he assumed his present office in 1944.

THE EXECUTIVE VICE-PRESIDENT of a corporation is often an unknown figure to the people at large. An exception to this rule is William H. DuBarry whose day-to-day activities are largely responsible for the soundness of the University's position and receive wide commendation from the students.

AN OUTSTANDING undergraduate figure at the University for his wrestling and football exploits, Philip C. Pendleton has continued to work for Penn as its Treasurer and a lecturer in political science.

OFFICERS

CHARLES LONG, Jr., graduated from Yale in 1943 where he was editor of the literary magazine. Following graduate work at Yale and Virginia Theological Seminary, he became temporary University Chaplain in 1949.

THE POSITIONS OF Vice-Provost and Professor of Botany might seem incompatible, but Dr. John M. Fogg, Jr., has occupied both with remarkable ability. He is also President of the Philadelphia Botanical Association and has engaged in field work throughout the United States.

IT SEEMS FITTING that a graduate of Penn's own Wharton School should serve as Secretary of the University. Donald K. Angell, graduated in 1930, returned first to aid with the Bicentennial Fund and was elected Secretary in 1946.

Form 17
STUDENT'S COPY

This is to certify that HAS BEEN ADMITTED TO THE CLASS, COURSE IN WITH ENTRANCE CREDITS, AS NOTED BELOW.

BY CERTIFICATE	EXAMINATION

PRESERVE THIS CERTIFICATE for presentation when you matriculate.
Students entering the Freshman Class will be expected to meet the appointments listed on the accompanying "Freshman Week" roster. This certificate is for registration only at the hours designated, and if presented later may be returned.

(Signed) _____ Date of Admission _____

THOSE WHO REMEMBER the panelled walls in the dorm rooms could tell this new student what to expect.

Nothing ever looked quite as good as did that Certificate of Admission. But during those first few days of Freshman Week with their accompanying headaches and "lost feeling" many felt the urge to tear up the certificate and try something easier for the next four years. But gradually everyone became oriented to his new situation . . .

IT'S AMAZING how many times one wanders to the Office of Admissions during the first week and how few times thereafter.

EVERYONE'S RECORD is safely filed away here where it collects information and dust during its owner's four year stay at the University.

THE PROBLEMS that pile up outside this door seem overwhelming at first, but gradually they are all resolved.

... which called initially for such things as attending a luncheon given by the administration, having an identification photograph taken,
and becoming another card
in the University's file.
But other things . . .

GENE D. GISBURNE, Dean of Admissions, and his assistant, James A. Newpher, discuss an important issue.

PROVOST MUSSER and Deans Gisburne and Henry put on their identification badges for the benefit of the entering freshmen during the luncheon.

DOROTHY LACEY adds another important statistic to one of the thousands of file cards at the Office of Admissions.

FOR WOMEN ONLY—as the new female undergraduates meet the administration and faculty.

THE UNIVERSITY photographer snaps a picture for the records with his modern device.

Orientation

THE VETERAN'S CONTACT Office handled more business during that first week than the stores—or, at least, it seemed to when the weary student started filling out those forms.

... like filling out that seemingly endless stream of cards and papers which disappear immediately into some drawer and paying the tuition, deposit, general fee, and rent
 never quite wound their way into the freshman's heart.
 After these were done,
 however, each student settled down to the serious business of becoming a member of a larger group found in each of the schools.

THE BURSAR'S window also marks the beginning of a line where students cash checks and pay bills.

CLASS ADMISSION cards remain one of the most ingenious devices ever construed, and here Wharton students exchange their bills (paid) for these cards.

THE SMALLER enrollment at the Towne School makes the registration procedure much simpler and much pleasanter.

THE VETERANS are still filling out those forms as the end draws near.

DR. ROBERT KNOX BISHOP, assistant to the Dean of the College, is treasurer of the University of Pennsylvania chapter of Phi Beta Kappa. He is also faculty adviser to Pi Delta Phi, French National Honor Society. His works include books on Goethe and on German and French Literature.

DR. GLENN R. MORROW, dean of the College since 1944, has studied in America and abroad at the Universities of Paris, Munich, and Vienna. He was a lecturer on philosophy at Cornell where he received his Ph.D. in 1921.

A member of the American Philosophical Association, he was elected president of the western division in 1939.

Dean Morrow is the author of "Ethical and Economic Theories of Adam Smith," 1923, and "Plato's Law of Slavery in Its Relation to Greek Law," 1939.

Even the present development program being undertaken by the University hesitates to remove the College from the confines of College Hall. The traditions and tales which live within the walls of this ivy-covered building and stalk the floors of its musty classrooms are in large measure the real spirit of Pennsylvania. The liberal arts are expounded here, and the word "liberal" takes on new meaning when Dr. Harbeson lectures in English 44—literature and the other arts—or when Dr. Clarke discusses the use of intellect in the philosophy of St. Thomas Aquinas. It even causes consternation as to whether or not it has a meaning when the history mid-term asks one to discuss the statement, "Franklin D. Roosevelt was the greatest conservative since Alexander Hamilton." But such things are what make the College a unique part of the University. And it has been unique for one hundred and ninety-four years now. Ever since Provost William Smith began the system of liberal education in 1756 by offering a great variety of courses, the College has been constantly expanding its curriculum to meet the expansion of civilization.

The first class enrolled in 1753, consisting of fifteen students—six of which graduated four years later. The mortality rate was high even then. Presently, sixteen hundred and fifty-three full-time undergraduates are on the rolls; while practically all of the fifty-three hundred male and twelve hundred female undergraduates make use of the courses offered by the College. Today this school stands as the nucleus of the University, enjoying a colorful and historic past and a bright future.

IT COMES OUT the same way again and again; and even though everything was done correctly, the answer is still wrong. So we try once more because this experiment is part of the required work in Chem I lab.

The College

IT'S A LONG WAY down from the fourth floor of College Hall, but it's even a longer trek up. Many students have wished that the University would install elevators as they walk up for one class, walk down for another—then back up for the third.

116, COLLEGE HALL, is the workroom of these smiling secretaries who are responsible for the efficient handling of transcripts, transfers and a myriad of other details necessary to the administration of the College.

COMMENTS ABOUT exams and professors and signs on the bulletin board pertaining to this and that are the main points of interest as the students go about their between-class business in the basement of College Hall.

THE INSTRUCTOR supervises in a Psychology I lab session as his students exert pulls at certain time intervals, noting and measuring the effects of fatigue on the efficiency and caliber of work.

THESE STEPS ARE climbed day in and day out by many thousands of students in their quest for knowledge.

IN MEMORY OF . . .

DR. JOHN LAMONTE

DR. JOHN LAMONTE, Henry C. Lea Associate Professor of Medieval History, came to the University of Pennsylvania in 1940.

An authority on the Crusades, he was given the editorship of a four volume history of this period, being written by some sixty specialists. His last book, "The World of the Middle Ages," was published in 1949.

At Pennsylvania, Doctor Lamonte lectured in the undergraduate course, History I, which he originated, and taught the course in medieval history. By his untimely death on October 2, 1949, at the age of 46, the University has lost a distinguished historian and one of the most popular teachers in the College.

ROBERT K. POLLIARD

IN THE EARLY morning hours on Sunday, February 26, 1950, a tragedy struck the Pennsylvania campus when a fire obliterated the life of a young campus leader. Robert K. Polliard, 22, President of the Junior Class, died when he was trapped in the burning upper story of his fraternity house. The entire campus was stunned because Robert Polliard was the kind of leader who was everybody's friend, and nearly everyone on campus either personally knew him or had heard of his services to the University. Death took a life which was active and stopped a career which was promising, but those those who knew Robert Polliard will long remember him.

The School of EDUCATION

DEAN E. DUNCAN GRIZZELL has a wide range of experiences in the field of education. He was a teacher and principal of schools before receiving his doctorate at Pennsylvania in 1922. Among his many educational activities is his membership in the "Survey of Public and Industrial Schools".

DR. THOMAS E. McMULLIN, Vice-Dean, is in charge of the five-year curriculum for students. He received his doctorate at Columbia University and came to Pennsylvania in 1937.

The satisfaction of teaching comes with the knowledge that it is through the teacher's efforts that the child, youth, and adult are better prepared to face the difficulties of life. As do most professional people, prospective teachers know that this is what they want to do for the rest of their lives. But the desire for a teaching career is not enough. Greatly specialized training is required, and it was for this purpose that the School of Education was founded in 1892 as a department of the College. A greatly increased enrollment in later years prompted the Trustees of the University to grant a large appropriation for the establishment of an independent school. In 1914, the School of Education became a separate school in the University. In 1933, the school devised its present curriculum and introduced a five-year-plan, thus lengthening the undergraduate course beyond the normal four years. The purpose of this plan was to broaden the student's cultural background, while making greater gains in the specialized and professional fields by student teaching and graduate studies. At present, the plan is under the supervision of Vice-Dean Thomas E. McMullin.

During the 1949-50 school year, 1,329 students were enrolled in the undergraduate school and 729 in the graduate curriculum. The school is headed by Dean E. Duncan Grizzell who succeeded John H. Minnick in 1948. The graduate division is a school of specialization for graduate teachers who want to further their command of educational techniques and practices. They have any number of fields from which to choose, from Latin-American teaching to Psychological Test Administration. The Illman-Carter Unit, an outstanding school for kindergarten and primary teachers, was affiliated with the University in 1936. Because of the progressive attitude displayed by its administration, faculty, and curricula, the School of Education enjoys a position of prestige among similar institutions and commands respect from leaders in education.

THE INFORMAL atmosphere in this "Ko-ed Kindergarten" should be more widely adapted around the University. Perhaps student attention wouldn't be as great, but school would be more fun.

SINGING IS A great morale booster, and the elementary school teacher must learn some music in order to be able to lead classes in singing later.

A YOUNG PUPIL is instructed at the blackboard in writing and spelling by Dr. Elizabeth G. M. Ludwig in the School of Education.

ILLMAN'S VERSION of a "fraternity sing." Technically, singing means to produce harmonious sounds, but just as at a fraternity party this is of not too much importance here.

The School of FINE ARTS

DEAN GEORGE S. KOYL has headed the administration of the School of Fine Arts for nineteen years, weathering a depression and a world war. The distinguished dean has many accomplishments to his name; among them are designing the Denver city courthouse and winning the Rome Prize in architecture.

Why charette always comes with the big social weekends and right before vacations is one of the very few problems that are unsolvable in the School of Fine Arts. Day in and day out the architecture students grapple with the subject, but in the end they always return to their drafting boards. These budding Frank Lloyd Wrights pursue their studies in a school which traces its history back as far as 1870 although the modern School of Fine Arts, as Pennsylvanians know it today, was not established until 1920. The first step occurred when architectural engineering was offered for credit; this grew into a four year degree course soon afterwards. The first course in music appeared on the rolls in 1875, but it was not until 1903 that art courses were offered.

1920 saw the coordination of the departments of architecture, music, and fine arts under a single dean; thus, the modern day School of Fine Arts came into being. During the lean years of the depression, the entire enrollment of the school consisted of thirty-six students. Another sharp decline was felt during the recent war when there were only one hundred and three undergraduates in the three departments—and most of these were women. Today there are more than four hundred and fifty students on the rolls of the Fine Arts School. Ranked as one of the outstanding schools of this type in the United States, it excels especially in architectural drawing training and possesses countless volumes in its library for the edification of its students. Year after year the School of Fine Arts instills into the budding architect the essence of what Dr. Sternfeld calls "the grand cosmic interplay of architecture forces."

Fine Arts

ARCHITECTURE students look over the model home display in the Fine Arts Library and note the new functional approach.

HERE IS a real beauty; look at that kitchen—fifteen square inches. All this for just twenty-five thousand dollars.

CHARCOAL SKETCHING is a basic requirement for Fine Arts students. But who is going to draw the profile of a skeleton?

PROFESSOR DEAM does the honors with a difficult assignment as his art students look on.

WHERE STUDENTS in other branches of the University do term papers, these girls work on term sketches.

WHO WANTS to paint that old-fashioned way with a brush when these modern methods are available?

THE MOORE SCHOOL

DR. CARL C. CHAMBERS, Dean of the Moore School, is a native Philadelphian who joined the Moore School Staff in 1933 after association with RCA and the Bartel Research Foundation. Dr. Chambers' special interest is in process control and electronic circuits. Having been active in teaching, research projects at the Moore School, and as consultant to industrial firms, Dr. Chambers became in July, 1948, the supervisor of research. One year later he was appointed Dean of the Moore School.

DR. HAROLD PENDER, now Consultant of the Moore School, was its Dean from the time of its founding in 1924, until July, 1949, when he reached the retirement age.

Ohms, amperes, and volts are meaningful terms to most high school students who have enjoyed the mysteries of elementary physics; but to the average Moore School student they represent the basis of four years study in electrical engineering. From this seemingly elementary base of operations arises the ability which produces such a machine as the ENIAC. While this latter product of our civilization is a pretty intelligent "animal," it is always one step behind the student of electrical engineering who works in the new building at the corner of Thirty-third and Walnut Streets. Things were not always so, however; back in 1893 the electrical engineering branch of the University consisted of one course—and that was given as part of the Towne School curriculum! It took twenty-one years for this course to come of age and develop into a full-fledged department, but in 1914 Dr. Harold Pender was appointed chairman of the new offspring of the Towne School.

The present independence of the Moore School owes its birth to the late Alfred Fitler Moore, a cable manufacturer, who provided in his will for the founding of a school of electrical engineering in memory of his parents. In 1923 the trustees of the estate invoked the approval of the Orphans Court for a plan whereby the existing department of electrical engineering at the University of Pennsylvania might, with the concurrence of the University trustees, become a separate undergraduate school. The Court approved the plan; and after further modifications by both groups of trustees, a fund of more than one and one-half million dollars was given to found the Moore School of Electrical Engineering.

TELEPHONE OPERATORS really have it easy compared to these electrical engineering students. The instrument that is shown here might be anything from a switchboard to a new mechanical brain which translates ten foreign languages.

COORDINATION is the keyword in electrical matters. A cue missed can mean a slight shock to the system and an awakening of the desire to take an easy course in the Wharton School.

THIS COULD be the Moore School's practical application of Einstein's unified field theory of gravity; it would aptly illustrate the rate of progress in this branch of the University. Alas, it's just a power relay system which is being explained.

ETA KAPPA NU. The purpose of Eta Kappa Nu is to honor scholarship among the students of the Electrical Engineering department and to advance the interests of the students, school and profession. First Row: E. DR. S. REID WARREN, JR. has achieved honors in the field of radiological physics.

ELECTRONIC TUBES in three volumes—this certainly points up the fact of the increasing complexity of our civilization, doesn't it? It wasn't so long ago that no one could write one sentence on electronic tubes; now mere students are expected to expound for pages on the subject.

AS IS THE CASE in the other undergraduate schools, the Moore School has its own library where its students may peruse writings peculiar to the ways of its special subjects. Imagine just working problems in electricity, let alone reading the theory behind them!

THE TENSENESS of their expressions indicates the magnitude of their work. Anyone who has ever taken apart a radio—especially a large one—can understand the problem involved in all those wires; yet how such results are produced is seemingly beyond the comprehension of mortal man.

THE TOWNE SCHOOL

DEAN JOHN A. GOFF has many varied accomplishments in the engineering field. His research in thermodynamics is well known and his published text, "Notes on Thermodynamics" is widely used. He is the chairman of a special research committee in the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. He came to the University in 1938, was appointed Dean of the Towne School, Director of the Mechanical Engineering Department, and received the Whitney Professorship of Dynamical Engineering.

ASSISTANT DEAN Lee N. Gulick received his B.S. degree at the University of Pennsylvania in 1916. He returned to Pennsylvania in 1927 to assume a Professorship after serving as supervisor of the Midvale Steel Company.

Not all the surveyors seen amid the P.T.C. tracks and parking lots are working for the University development program. Most of these men are budding engineers doing work required for their degree by the Towne Scientific School. It looks and sounds like pleasant work, but don't be fooled; it's difficult. The five departments of the school—Chemistry, Chemical Engineering, Mechanical Engineering, Civil Engineering, and Metallurgical Engineering—give way to none in the quality of their work; and the results are seen in the productions of some of America's best chemists and engineers. The Towne School even preceded the scientific revolution begun by Darwin although its establishment as a separate branch of the University came twenty years after the first offering of a scientific degree by Penn in 1852.

The Department of Science, organized in 1872, changed its name to the present one three years later in honor of John Henry Towne who endowed the school in his will. As the University grew, so did the Towne School until today it provides for four hundred and twenty-four undergraduates and one hundred and fifty graduate students. The Engineering Building, which houses the Towne School, is one of the most modern and complete physical plants of its kind in the country with improvements being made every year, improvements such as new lighting, a public address system, and revamping of lecture rooms. It also contains a lounge for the students' relaxation. The study of science in the Towne School is an enjoyment equalled by few other academic processes.

THE WHARTON SCHOOL

DR. C. CANBY BALDERSTON, dean of the Wharton School since 1941, is one of the foremost experts in industrial management in the country. He is a director of three large industrial corporations and a director of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia in addition to being co-author of Management of an Enterprise, a professor of industry, and a member of the Society for the Advancement of Management.

Everyone who attends the Wharton School will long remember the many unusual aspects of his four year stay: trudging up four flights of stairs to get to an eight o'clock accounting or business law class, listening to Sol Huebner's fist-slamming lectures on the value of life insurance, sitting comfortably in 17 Logan Hall while various lecturers entertain and instruct. Geography lives on in Mike Dorizas' movies on Russia; industry comes alive in the lectures by Dean Balderston. All of these aspects of the Wharton scene are characteristic of the finest school of finance and commerce in the United States.

Joseph Wharton little dreamed what he was creating when, in 1881, he provided for the establishment of a school of business at the University of Pennsylvania. Yet to present-day students it is difficult to conceive of the Wharton School as being anything but full-grown from the moment of its conception. The school has survived over fifty years at its present site in Logan Hall at the corner of Woodland Avenue and Thirty-sixth Street; only now are plans being made for its transfer. The new building has top priority under the University's expansion program and will be much larger in physical structure in order to handle the increased enrollment of recent years, an increase which has necessitated the utilization of the adjoining Hare Building for classroom and office space. But Logan Hall will live on in the memories of the thousands of Wharton graduates who received their Bachelor of Science in Economics at the close of their sojourn there.

Together with changes in size has come a change in the curriculum from those early days. Today a multitude of courses in many departments present a bewildering array of material from which the student can and may select topics of interest. Many of these courses, ranging in difficulty from elementary Accounting to advanced Statistics, are required for graduation, while other elective subjects are chosen by the students according to their special interests.

THE MYSTERY of economics is unraveled by that master magician, Dr. Paul Gemmill, as Wharton freshmen exhibit a variety of poses. Interpretation of these latter is open for discussion.

THIS STUDY OF MANKIND, a familiar scene enacted twice a year throughout the halls of Logan, is unequalled for its clarity of expression and emotional fervor.

TOO BAD THAT clock is hidden, but a good guess might be 12:55. Coming down the stairs and smiling can only mean that classes are out for the morning, lunch is in view.

SOME PEOPLE actually think this course is difficult; but really, when all one has to do is push a little button a few times, how hard can things be?

THE MAIN LIBRARY

Proposed masters of the "Dewey Decimal System" look for the book that must be somewhere among the 1,150,000 volumes listed. Finally, the card is found; but the exhilaration of such an achievement might soon be dampened by the discovery that the only copy of the desired book is located in the Fine Arts Library.

Undergraduates and graduates alike, however, can consult the librarians at the circulation desk when they get into difficulty.

Another service to the students besides the regular book stacks are the 3,000 periodicals regularly received. These cover every field of human endeavor.

WHERE TO SIT is not the main problem in the reading room of the Main Library where some students come to study, while others apparently just come to watch.

ALTHOUGH BUNDLES, suitcases, and other objects are checked at the inspection desk, don't ask the attendant, as one woman did, to hold a baby. There just isn't enough room.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

As Emil Preiss reiterates so often, "You boys must be tough!" And it is with this in mind that thousands of undergraduates have worked their way through the eight credits of physical education required for graduation ever since the Gates Plan went into effect. When the initial swimming requirement is passed, one moves on to Mr. Preiss and gymnastics. Then come volleyball, boxing, handball, wrestling, and other required courses. There are few happier days than that one when the upperclassman registers for bowling and actually enjoys a semester of physical education.

CAPTAIN H. STEVENS, Professor of Naval Science, at his desk in Decatur Hall.

The Army, Navy, and Air Force all maintain R.O.T.C. units at Penn. Each Monday and Wednesday all over campus you can hear cries of, "Hey bus driver!" "Where's your mail route?" "Hi ya Admiral!" "Hey General, your belt is showing!" as the R.O.T.C. students wend their weary way down to the Palestra field for weekly drill. Between their third and fourth years the boys either go to summer camp or take a cruise. During the last two years of the R.O.T.C. course, trainees receive about ninety cents a day and a full private's pay while at summer camp. Most men look forward to summer camp, and in the fall when they come back to school the other students are forced to sit back and listen while "Junior" tells war stories.

"FIRE IN BURSTS OF THREE" became a familiar order on the firing line of the heavy machine gun range. During summer camp the cadets fired many weapons for familiarization.

R. O. T. C. HONORS

Cadet Council, Scabbard and Blade.

Along with the growth of Pennsylvania's R.O.T.C. units has come the inauguration of several national military honor societies designed primarily for reasons of advancing military preparedness and establishing an esprit-de-corps through a program of social and professional activities.

Each society is associated with and chooses members from its corresponding military training unit. The Quarterdeck Society is made up of juniors and seniors in Naval training; Pershing Rifles consists of freshman and sophomores in the Army program; Prop and Wing derives its membership from juniors and seniors in the Air Corps unit; Scabbard and Blade, however, is composed of outstanding men from all of the units, Army, Navy, and Air Force.

Flag raising and Armistice ceremonies, lectures, and a combined Armed Forces Military Ball are but a few of the unique and varied activities in which these societies have engaged during this past term. Each of these activities is designed to promote and develop the future of the Officer Training Corps on Penn's campus. Also, an attempt is made to integrate the various units all over the country into one common bond by means of correspondence, lectures, and summer camps. The net result has given the public a closer view of the purposes and accomplishments of R.O.T.C. training at Pennsylvania.

CADET COUNCIL—A liaison between officers and men in the R.O.T.C. training units, the Cadet Council consists of men selected as outstanding Army officer candidates. Their purpose is to coordinate the various Army function, pass on the quality of suggestions offered by students in training, and integrate these suggestions into the R.O.T.C. courses.

One plan that was considered and passed on favorably by the council was the wearing of separate insignia, rather than the one standard emblem now worn by all.

Specialized Departments for STUDENT HEALTH

DR. H. D. LEES reads an X-ray picture while carrying out his duties as director of Student Health.

"AND WHAT'S YOUR main maladjustment?"

Two attendants register students for Student Health services. This yearly occurrence is just one more headache to add to the madcap life of the incoming students.

TWO PATIENTS are subjected to medical care by two of the staff maintained by the University. A complete staff of nurses and doctors, including specialists, are available for the study and treatment of the illnesses of students.

STUDENT AID and PLACEMENT

ALTHOUGH MANY STUDENTS would prefer to accept a job right here in the student agencies office, they manage to confine themselves to other opportunities such as running the photography service, ushering at sports events, and guiding parking operations during University functions. This able efficient office is under the direction of Mr. William Gardiner whose advice has been invaluable to undergraduates seeking part time employment.

A STUDENT PARKING attendant gets his instructions from the Director of Student Agencies, and is shown the station he will occupy during a coming football game.

TWO FAMILIAR FACES to graduating seniors are Dr. Clewell and Mr. Sweeten, Director and Assistant Director of Penn's Placement Service. These men procure interviews with America's leading companies for the graduating members and attempt to place them as well as possible.

TWO TOWNE SCHOOL students prepare to enjoy that between class snack of candy and chewing gum at one of the local candy stands maintained by Student Aid, operated by and for self-supporting students.

Formed to be the official representative for the male student body, Undergrad Council has quietly gone about its duties this year with little fan-fare. Off to an early start, the Council sponsored a freshman orientation night, discussed the activity point system to limit monopolization, laid plans for better control of the student elections. Working under the direction of the Council, the Vigilante Committee did a vastly improved job; the Spirit Committee sponsored orderly night rallies during football season in order to advance Penn esprit.

COMMITTEES encourage Penn Spirit

THIS MAMMOTH REPLICA of a cash register on the platform opposite Houston Hall helped to encourage the students to contribute to the Campus Chest.

STEP RIGHT UP, ladies and gentlemen, and lay your money on your favorite college! Don't be bashful, it all goes to charity!

THERE ARE MORE ways than one to put out a lighted cigarette at the Campus Chest Carnival—as this young lady demonstrates.

ENTERING A NEW AND DECIDEDLY UNUSUAL WORLD—THE DORMITORIES.

THE DORMS

Every Freshman spent his first weeks in the dormitories becoming acclimated, making new friends, and finding out about dinks. By the time he had learned the art of dodging Vigilantes he was an old hand at water fights and allnight bull sessions.

SPIRIT RAN HIGH in Memorial Tower Dorm before the Penn-Virginia football game as Jeff Davis dangled over Memorial Tower Gate.

THE CONSTANT studying and preparing for classes by dorm residents caused University officials to worry about mass eyestrain.

THREE TIMES A DAY the dormitory post office is a beehive of activity as the mail is distributed. When these three brief, but hectic periods are over, this room resumes a more even tempo. Every few minutes thereafter students come in, look in their mail boxes, and depart with either a letter and a smile or empty handed.

The Dorms

Residents especially enjoyed the fire-lit night rallies preceding the football games and the beer parties afterwards. As graduating seniors, they like to recall the rough and tumble inter-dorm football and baseball games, the political fights for election to the Dorm Council, the beautiful P-ladies, and the chants of "Freshman on the Field".

THE FIRST BEER PARTY in the dorms was held by Robert Morris Dorm to celebrate Penn's victory over Navy.

FRESHMEN OFTEN DROP into the Quad Shop to take advantage of the many services offered and to meet their friends.

DORMITORY COUNCIL consists of one man elected from each dormitory. It arranges social affairs and inter-dorm athletic events. First Row: G. Keating, J. Stiffler, H. Morris, S. Kaplan, E. Semel. Second Row: J. Flinchbaugh, J. Wettig, G. Kappes, J. Farrell, M. Trout. Third Row: D. McCaulley, D. Johnson, M. Goldman, W. Watkins, D. Kaufman, S. Weinberg.

RUSHING POLICE kept the freshmen informed of rushing regulations and tried to prevent illegal rushing before 7 P.M. and after 10 P.M.

UPPER CLASSMEN sometimes forego the pleasures of wine, women, and song to catch up on their extracurricular reading. The pleasant atmosphere of their snug burlap-covered rooms offers them a cozy retreat where they can curl up in bed with a good book. With the soft music of the "Trolley Song" echoing in their ears, slumber will soon claim them and bring them dreams of future conquests.

Social Season Opens with JUNIOR PROM

There is never a dull moment on the Penn campus from the social standpoint. The calendar of events begins during football season and maintains a hectic pace until final examinations in the spring write finis to the year's activity. Cocktail parties and dances are featured after the Saturday gridiron extravaganzas are over; Junior Weekend, the highlight of the fall semester, begins with the prom on Friday night and is climaxed by the Penn-Navy football game the next day. In the spring, Interfraternity Weekend and the Ivy Ball hold the spotlight as girls from schools all over the country descend upon the campus.

JUNIOR PROM COMMITTEE—First Row: S. Dennis, O. Shay, R. Wilkins, Chairman; W. Baugh, G. Kersting. Second Row: R. McKersie, M. Barasch, B. McLoud, R. Mullins, J. Burley:

PENN'S JUNIOR CLASS presented their annual prom on Friday evening, October 21, at the Broadwood Hotel in Philadelphia. Six hundred couples testified to the social success of the occasion as they danced to the melodies of Vincent Lopez (inset). The fraternity booths, as usual, were jammed, and the dance floor was crowded right up to the last minute.

About midnight the Queen of the Junior Class Prom was crowned—she was Miss Leila Gabrilowitz (left) from Brooklyn.

The Junior Prom was preceded on Friday morning by the traditional Junior Cane March (inset) headed by Penn's junior honor society, Phi Kappa Beta, which led the way to the chapel services.

JACK KELLY AND BEBE SHOPP talk over plans for the biggest weekend of the year.

PLANS FOR THE preceding week included a series of beer parties to build up the spirit on the campus among the fraternities and sororities.

FRIDAY EVENING rolls around and Jack hurries to the station to meet Bebe—the weekend is finally under-way.

THE FIRST JOB is to register at a hotel—which can prove difficult since most of the dates are "imported" for the occasion.

JACK AND BEBE drive around the campus, while he shows her some of the points of interest.

THEY STOP to have dinner with a fraternity brother of Jack's at one of the downtown clubs.

AFTER TAKING BEBE back to the hotel, Jack returns to the "house" to dress for the dance.

MOST PEOPLE prefer to use a clip-on bow tie, but Jack does pretty well by himself.

JACK HELPS BEBE to adjust the orchid corsage which he has especially selected for the occasion.

ARRIVING AT THE DANCE, they are met at the door by a bored door-man who wearily takes their tickets.

EAGER TO GET into the act, two hat-check girls slowly take Jack's and Bebe's coats.

THE COUPLE STOP in the lobby to talk with a friend of Jack's who is also on his way to the dance.

A PHOTOGRAPHER SNAPS a souvenir picture for Bebe to take back with her to New York.

SITTING OUT A DANCE, Jack and Bebe tell a joke to his brothers and their dates at the fraternity booth.

THE TRI-DELT president, Janet Musser, and Barbara Ann Bowman, the best woman pledge of the year, receive awards from Joe Scott, president of PiKA.

JACK AND BEBE talk to Dick Winfrey, the weekend chairman, who tells Bebe about the IF queen.

THE COUPLE DANCE to one of their favorite songs as played by Sam Donahue and his orchestra.

BEBE, MISS AMERICA OF 1948, presents the annual fraternity queen award to Elizabeth Bell, a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority.

JACK AND BEBE say good-night at the door of her hotel room, looking back on a wonderful day and forward to a happier day tomorrow when they will join the brothers and their dates at the annual Kappa Sig party presented by their pledge class.

ON SATURDAY MORNING, Jack, Diamond Sculls champion, takes Bebe down to the river to watch the Varsity crew in action.

THEY BUY TICKETS to the new musical, "The Consul," prior to its New York engagement.

BACK AT THE HOUSE, Bebe plays some old songs while the group joins in singing.

UNDERNEATH the colorful circus decorations, they spend the evening quietly talking over the gay times just past.

BEBE LEAVES WITH HAPPY MEMORIES OF A TYPICAL WEEKEND ON THE CAMPUS.

A gala affair follows, SOPH HOP

A CLOSE-UP of dancing partners at the Soph Hop which indicates some pretty fancy footwork. Anyway, everybody's having a good time.

EDDIE KARPEE'S ORCHESTRA and singer in action at the Soph Hop. The band gave out both hot and sweet for those who wanted it, satisfying all. There were even a couple of polkas.

REFUGEES FROM THE DELLA ROBIA ROOM crowd onto the dance floor in the ballroom of the Penn Sheraton Hotel. Hop Queen, Phyllis Fitterman, and her date, Bob Topchik, made one of the happiest couples on the floor.

SOPHOMORE HOP COMMITTEE: First Row: J. Snellenberger, B. Redding, D. Rech, T. Troitino (Chairman), H. Liss, R. Block, D. Hillman. Second Row: B. Kopp, A. Danon, F. Wilcher, L. Craig, S. ...then the FRESHMAN WEEKEND featuring

THE MASK AND WIG Club's spring production, the Freshman Show, was presented before a full house on Friday evening, April 28th. Friday and Saturday afternoon Franklin Field was packed for the 56th running of the Penn Relays. Saturday evening, Walt Simpson and his orchestra serenaded the Freshman Class at their annual dance.

ROSEMARY CLOONEY

The social season at Penn came to a close on May 19th, when the seniors presented the Ivy Ball. Russ Morgan (left) and his orchestra played before eight-hundred couples. Rosemary Clooney (right) treated the audience to many vocal renditions. Chuck Gordon's band shared the dancing spotlight.

THE MOST COMMON of all sights in the West Wing Lounge is that of the weary student sleeping peacefully amidst numerous conversations around him in the plentifully furnished hall. When soft music is not being played over the loudspeaker system, the piano ramblings of some student are conducive to slumber.

MANUFACTURER'S AGENTS have established the Houston Hall Store as a vital spot to which they can bring their yearly smoker's bargains and be sure that they will reach the bulk of Pennsylvania's men.

MANY AN IDLE conversation has passed between tables in the Soda Grille, which caters to the Pennsylvania man from nine to five every day. Convenience for the student is the aim of the free check cashing service, open to all students of Pennsylvania, and the Book Store which handles the biggest rush of any of the University's departments, possibly excepting the Cashier's office.

of the University

BOASTING AN elaborate set of weights, the Grandfather Clock in the Lounge serves as a check on the passing of the hours. Its mahogany case matches the darker furnishings of the room, and its pleasant-sounding chimes can be heard the entire length.

Every undergraduate is a member of the Houston Hall Student Union, the first one established in America. Built with the funds provided by the thoughtful parents of Howard Houston, Jr., Class of '78, the institution was intended to be the center of undergraduate activities. Today it has fully accomplished this purpose. Through its well-knit organization it provides social life and a meeting place for organizations.

Houston Hall

A GOOD PIANIST will attract a crowd; a fair pianist will probably be listenable, and the mediocre pianist enjoys himself. But someone is always entertained at the Steinway Grand in the Lounge. Soothing music is almost always available here for those who enjoy it.

WITH HIS GOOD FRIEND, Robin Farrow, Bill Vidal ponders a perplexing problem of the day. Mr. Vidal, Assistant Director of Houston Hall, devotes all his energy to the Houston Hall organization. It is partly through the efforts of these two men that the front-office work of the Student Union is done so efficiently.

AFTER A LATE BREAKFAST or an appetizing lunch, the tables at the Soda Grille are filled to capacity with talkative male undergraduates. The efficient staff of the Soda Grille is experienced in the competent operation of this pleasant eating place.

STUDENTS ALL OVER CAMPUS avail themselves of the services of the convenient, official United States Post Office in the Houston Hall Store. Mailing packages, registering letters, selling stamps; all the ordinary services are performed here in great volume. Perhaps its greatest service is the mailing of laundry cases for hundreds of Pennsylvania students. In keeping with its position at the University, the Post Office is particularly experienced in handling books and printed matter.

THE HOUSTON HALL STUDENT BOARD of Directors is formed of men elected after a rigorous heeling and service program. It promotes each year a schedule of events both in the recreational and educational fields that are of utmost interest to the student body during the academic year. First Row: J. Smith, S. Dysart, J. Hughes (Secretary), E. Mathis (Chairman), R. Schroter (Vice-Chairman), J. Armstrong, S. Moyer. Second Row: D. Pious, D. Knapp, F. Wilcher, R. Mullins, J. Hackney, E. Kersting, J. Bickelhaupt, J. Baker.

LOUIS DeV. DAY, Director of Houston Hall, initials a check which his secretary has just registered for an undergraduate. Students may cash a check for more than thirty dollars once a term, if they have it approved by Mr. Day's office.

MANY DISPLAYS are exhibited throughout the year at Houston Hall. Civic, University, and local projects are all viewed by the great number of speculative students passing through the building daily. Of special interest to every student is the tremendous new Campus Development Program.

Houston Hall

TAIT MacKENZIE used Pennsylvania oarsmen for his famous Crew Statuette. Today students study by the light shining from their likenesses in the Bowl Room in Houston Hall. Pennsylvania is fortunate in possessing the work of such a renowned athletic sculptor. The Bowl Room is also furnished with many comfortable chairs and the famous class bowls for which past classes competed.

"I'LL MEET YOU AT THE BELL!" This statement has been made by a great number of undergraduates who can always be found about the Bell in Houston Hall. The historic piece hung for many years in College Hall; it was used to signal the end of the academic hour. Classes at the University no longer feel the need for the pealing bell, but it is pleasant to have this symbol of ancient tradition in the center of modern activities.

BESIDES SELLING CANDY, cigarettes, postcards, and news papers, the Information Desk often handles the tickets to current social and cultural events. It is also at the Information Desk that prospective "wheels" sign their names to the lists which organizations place there.

The Hub of STUDENT AFFAIRS

The by-laws of the University state that the Office of Student Affairs shall deal with all matters concerning students and students' welfare. These two categories cover a myriad of things. Scholarships of the undergraduate students and graduate students in all but Wharton and Arts and Sciences are controlled by this office, as are the foreign scholarships. Loans to students in financial need and deferments are also parts of the University's financial program which fall to this body.

ARNOLD K. HENRY, Dean of Student Affairs, led a full undergraduate life. A member of Sphinx, he has since served as Director of Admissions, and is also a Transportation Professor.

ASSISTING DEAN HENRY are Robert Pitt and George B. Peters. Bob graduated last year from the Wharton School. Mr. Peters was soccer manager and Assistant Director of Houston Hall as an undergraduate.

ASSIGNMENTS of dormitory rooms in both male and female dorms and the supervision of these dormitories is all achieved by the Student Affairs Office. All extracurricular activities of a non-athletic nature are supervised by Dean Henry and his able staff. However the office is one of both amusing and perplexing situations. Such cases as objectional landlords, students' mishaps with local authorities, and misinterpretations by foreign students are all straightened out by this office.

The Fourth Estate at Pennsylvania

THE FRANKLIN SOCIETY is the honorary society for those students who have done meritorious work on the campus publications. First Row: D. Boyd; L. Craig; A. Cramer, Jr.; H. Rubin, Treasurer; J. Oransky, Secretary; E. Gentino. Second Row: J. Beneman; T. Ateto; W. Walkup; J. Scott; C. Maguire; W. Baugh; G. Cella.

COLLEGE HUMOR at Pennsylvania is expressed through Penn Pics, the pictorial humor magazine. The Pennsylvania Triangle, a member of the Engineering College Magazines Associated, is the publication of the two engineering schools. The Daily Pennsylvanian, which does its best to keep undergraduates abreast of campus news, had its beginning in 1885. One of the finest yearbooks in the East, The Record, comes out on Hey Day each year.

1950 Record

ON OCCASIONS not too far apart, the more than seventy members and heelers of the "Record" staff met for the purpose of giving assignments and turning in finished material. It was on more than one occasion that the session started Monday night and saw the light of Tuesday morning without a break. It was work; It was fun.

MASK AND WIG presents sixty-second production

Mask and Wig Production
"Adamant Eve"

Music by
CLAY BOLAND

JOHN C. HACKNEY, the undergraduate chairman of the Mask and Wig Club, has danced his way into the annals of Mask and Wig all-time greats by appearing in the Freshman show and three subsequent Wig-ger productions. He has also helped to train Freshman hoofers as they prepared for their own shows. John's musical abilities do not end with his dancing, however, for he penned several of the hit numbers that appeared in this year's show.

THE ENTIRE COMPANY OF "ADAMANT EVE":
First Row: J. Smilgin, E. Kaprowski, N. Landry, B. Byer, S. Dunn, J. Rankin, J. Drake, J. McHugh, A. Prange.
Second Row: T. Robbins, S. Dysart, E. Whitney, Jr., S. Stroud, A. Demos, J. Hackney, P. Corbin, E. Mathis, J. Murphy, D. Brown.
Third Row: J. Germaine, G. Cheston, W. McKinney, J. Crocco, G. Odell, F. Powell, D. O'Connell, W. Jarrett, J. Wilson, T. Stoycos, W. Wells, R. Biddle.

Mask and Wig

THE BUSINESS BOARD: Phil Corbin, Ed Mathis, Norm Daly, and Bob Wilkins talk over plans for the year's production. The tremendous amount of behind-the-scenes work which these boys carry on is quite a burden when one considers that they must attend school, too.

THESE MASK AND WIG WOMEN puzzle the members of the cast almost as much as they do the unsuspecting audience which perplexedly wonders how it is done. Well, the secret is finally out—it's all in the imagination, son, all in the imagination.

THIS IS BILL JARRETT, no, this is "Jill". Well, anyway, it's both in one as this Mask and Wig cast member stars in the leading role of this year's production. Note that decolleté.

COACH WALTER KEENAN puts the dancing chorus through its paces in an attempt to perfect a certain step at the clubhouse on Quince Street. There is no room for shirkers here as the pace is fast and torrid. The Rockettes may be the pride of the world, but that world doesn't include those who have witnessed the precision of these dancers.

There is little doubt whom Maxwell Anderson favors in his drama "Mary of Scotland" where he seizes upon the famous conflict between Mary and Elizabeth, portraying the former in a most sympathetic light.

ALL IS NOT the limelight in a dramatic organization. In fact, for every player on the stage before the footlights there must be one or two others backstage to do the "men's" work.

Season

This past year Penn Players instituted a number of firsts which developed into great successes. A Christmas program was inaugurated that included Dicken's "Christmas Carol," and three major productions were given instead of the usual two. They were Maxwell Anderson's "Mary of Scotland," Sidney Howard's "The Silver Cord," and "Heaven Can Wait" by Harry Segal. A revival series of Elizabethan and early American drama was given during the winter at Houston Hall auditorium.

ONE OF THE more fascinating aspects of the dramatic field is the training one receives in the art of costuming. Here the costume directors and one of the featured stars discuss a problem that has arisen in this matter. Dior or Fath would probably shudder at this regal garment, but it aptly depicts the garb of the sixteenth century.

THE GLAMOUR FADES again as the stage crew works on scenery for a forthcoming production. It's amazing how much fun this is when one isn't forced into working, but just let it become an order . . . ! Parents, take note.

MARY is continually tossed between alternating poles of hope and despair; and here one of the royal messengers communicates a message which may resolve the issue at last. It is to be life or death?

AN IMPORTANT part of any radio station is the announcer. He has to keep the programs going and make sure that the entire show ends within the allotted time.

THE PROGRAMS would never reach the public unless the engineers, the unsung heroes, have the mechanism functioning correctly.

MANY EDUCATION and serious programs dot the schedule of WXPB, which proves to be beneficial, as well as entertaining to the students.

RELIGIOUS GROUPS sponsor interesting

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION CABINET promotes the spiritual welfare of the Protestant students of the University by encouraging fellowship and cooperation. The religious and recreational facilities are open to all students in the hope that they will find spiritual satisfaction during off school hours.

This year, several one-day retreats were held during which those attending had an opportunity to discuss problems pertinent to their lives at the University.

FEW SPORTS rival ping-pong when it comes to spectator interest; the players seem to exist solely for the purpose of arousing those seated by the table. These two boys, however, seem to be having quite a game in itself.

VOICES RAISED in song resound through the C.A. as some of the student members try their vocal chords. The pianist does double duty by both singing and accompanying as music fills the air.

activities

NEWMAN CLUB offers its services to the Catholic students on the Penn Campus. Besides offering spiritual guidance by means of discussion groups, prominent speakers, and religious services, Newman enlivens the lighter side of the student's life with dances, outings, and the use of the club relaxation room with its television set and reading shelves. Shown around table are: R. Skelly; P. Maloney; Father John Donnelly; M. McCarthy; R. Dougherty.

HILLEL FOUNDATION—Religion, culture and relaxation are all stressed by the Hillel Foundation in its attempt to provide a home away from home for the Jewish students at Pennsylvania. Numerous activities carried on by the Foundation include religious services every Friday night, sponsoring athletic teams, maintaining book and record libraries, and the holding of "open houses" and dances throughout the year. Front Row: W. MUSIC IS ALSO a favorite pastime of the members of Hillel. Here in the music room one can find records to suit every taste and fancy and machines to play all the available kinds of discs.

NEWMAN'S MEMBERSHIP drive is in full swing as a daily record is chalked up on the blackboard. Members help around the office and keep the records in efficient condition to enroll the new members.

Enthusiastic ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

DR. E. LEROY MERCER is the Dean of the Department of Physical Education. This former All-American has contributed much to Penn athletics.

If Penn teams during the 1949-50 sports year were not outstanding in skill, they showed plenty of that old Quaker fight. The men of the gridiron will always be remembered by the fans for their heroic stand against the Black Knights from West Point on November 12 when they were edged out 14-13. Capping a turnabout season were the selections of John "Bull" Schweder to numerous All-American teams, Harry Wettlaufer to the All-East team, and co-captain Ray Dooney to the All-Catholic eleven. Other unforgettable highlights of the schedule were the blocked kick in the final seconds of the Pitt game and the surprising second half upsurge of the Big Red of Cornell on Turkey Day. The outlook for the 1950 season seems fair with newcomers California, Brown, and Wisconsin added to the list of opponents. Meanwhile, down on the soccer field the booters of Coach Scott started off the season by giving themselves a five game handicap; but they bounced back to finish with four wins and six losses. Another Penn man hit the news when Walter "Bud" Lownes was selected to the All-American soccer team; at the same time next year's captain, Bob Calquohoun, received honorable mention. The harriers of the cross-country team enjoyed only a fair season as did the men of the wrestling squad under the leadership of captain Bob Gilford.

The Palestra was jammed to overflowing time and time again this year as a fighting Penn quintet teamed with the outstanding Villanova Wildcats to present a popular series of double-headers. Although posting only a 10 and 15 record and gaining fourth place in the Ivy League, the basketball team was more successful than the record indicates. Howie Dallmar, in his second year as head coach, tutored his charges to high-scoring honors in the league. The Red and Blue ranked first in number of points scored as well as fouls converted. Furthermore, center Herb Lyon ended a star-studded, four year basketball career, in which he broke virtually all Penn scoring records, by being named to the All-Ivy first team. 1950 also saw the inauguration of a Christmas Florida trip. As guests of the Orange Bowl, the team dropped three games by the heartbreaking total of seven points. The Junior Varsity and Freshman squads posted satisfying records of seven victories, four losses and eight victories, two losses respectively. A host of fine sophomore basketeers and many promising freshmen make next year's outlook bright.

The minor indoor sports hit the extremes with coach Lajos Csiszar's fencing team compiling one of the year's finest records. Climaxing a most successful season was the selection of three men to compete in the national tournament at Detroit. The steady improvement of the quality of Penn fencing is remarkable when one considers the short time in which the sport has been in existence. Reversing this accomplishment, the swimming team permitted its new scoreboard in Hutchinson Pool to register only two Penn victories—these being over Columbia and a traditionally strong Navy aggregation. The bright spots in Coach Medica's season were the sparkling diving exhibitions of senior George Frazier and the consistent performances of captain George Scanlon in the freestyle events. The squash team went down the middle in results. After winning all their matches in club competition, the Johnson men were unable to score a win in intercollegiate competition.

As spring sports got underway, "building" was again the keynote for track coach Ken Doherty and his assistant, "Boo" Morcom, recently the nation's number one pole-vaulter. Led by co-captains Tom Kirwan and Ben Kreitzberg, the team responded early in indoor competition and indicated the beginning of a highly successful season. It was then that Kirwan posted a 4:12.4 mile, Penn's fastest since the days of Gene Venzke, and Kreitzberg equalled the existing University record in the sixty yard dash. Coupled with numerous underclassmen of high abilities, these two led Penn into a season which heralded a great advance over last year's when two University records were surpassed at the colorful Penn Relays and the team engaged in a victorious post-season tour of Puerto Rico in which they defeated the Puerto Rican University and Olympic teams. Upon their return Coach Doherty was able to present the University with four trophies.

Out on the Schuylkill crew coaches Rusty Callow and Dick Jordan had good reason to anticipate their traditional opener with Rutgers. The 1949 sweep-swingers had piled up one of the most enviable records in recent years. High point of the year came in the Eastern Intercollegiate Sprint Championship at Syracuse when Penn took second place behind a great Harvard crew. Although six men had graduated from that boat, the coaches were counting heavily on a boatload of returning Junior varsity oarsmen to bolster the first shell. Living up to these hopes, the Callowmen stroked by Jack Kelly, Jr., swept Rutgers off the river by winning all three races in good times and by wide margins. Looking ahead, the crew men ran into strong opposition at the Callow Day Regatta when Princeton and Columbia came to town. For the second straight year over five thousand strawhatted Pennsylvanians lined the river banks to cheer the crew. Climax of the season was the traditional Regatta held this year at Marietta, Ohio, instead of Poughkeepsie, on June 17.

The baseball team began practice early in the spring term, but due to inclement weather it saw little action on River Field prior to the opener with LaSalle. Coach Dallmar came up with a predominantly experienced lineup, the infield representing the only rookie group. The season appeared to be a hard one, but strength down the middle is considered the main factor in the success of any ball club, and on this basis the Red and Blue stacked up favorably. Veteran catcher "Snakey" Graham was on hand to steady southpaws Archie Nicholas and Bob Brooks, and the team got off to a head start by winning eight of their first eleven games.

The minor spring sports seemed to be well on the way to duplicating the record of their indoor counterparts. The golf team, led by Ray McCabe, Herman Bode, and sophomore Dick Lipsey began by winning five and losing one and gave notice of compiling Penn's best sports record for the year. The lacrosse team, however, feeling the loss of key men in the close attack positions, started poorly. Depth in the defense and center spots led Coach Thomsen to hope for a brighter showing as the season wore on. Halfway ranked the tennis team which got off early to open its season with three straight wins. But the problem of choosing a winning team from twenty-five candidates gave Coach Johnson many a headache and bade fare to cause some losses, particularly to teams such as Yale and William and Mary.

Under able PENNSYLVANIA COACHES

FOOTBALL COACH George Munger, a Penn grad himself, has had an enviable record while with the Red and Blue. Last season marked his twelfth year as gridiron tutor.

OFTEN SAID to be the most popular man at Penn is the grand old man of crew, Rusty Callow. In recognition of this Callow Day is fast becoming a tradition in honor of a guy who really deserves it.

HOWIE DALLMAR faces the not easy task of being both basketball and baseball coach. In his second year at Penn in this capacity the former Penn athlete had considerable success.

TRACK COACH, Kenneth Doherty, formerly of Michigan, is experiencing great success with the cinder men in his second year in that capacity.

POPULAR CHARLIE SCOTT, soccer coach and father of three future Pennsylvanians, ended his fourth year with the Penn booters this year.

FENCING MAESTRO Lajos Csiszar, assistant coach of the last Olympic team, has done a job seldom equalled in his first three years at Penn, placing three men in the National championships this year.

TENNIS AND SQUASH coach Wallace Johnson, a former great athlete himself, has earned himself a name as the head of the Quaker courtmen along with his fame as an outstanding tennis player.

A FORMER OLYMPIC CHAMPION, Jack Medica is the popular and successful coach of the swimming team. Some say Jack's main worry is getting men past the swimming requirement for graduation.

A LANDMARK around the Penn campus is John Brennan, wrestling coach. Many a championship grappler has learned under his watchful eye.

FERRIS THOMSEN has a double role as coach of the 150-lb. football team and lacrosse mentor. He is responsible for the recently revived interest in lacrosse here at Penn.

GOLF GUIDE Bob Hayes has seen some outstanding men on the green for Penn and has had much to do with the Quakers' recent successes on the links.

F O O T

BERNIE BARKOUSKIE'S perfectly timed blocked kick marked the turning point of the season for the Quakers. The resulting last minute safety gave the Pitt Panthers a one point victory margin.

PENN	7	7	0	7	= 21
DARTMOUTH	0	0	0	0	= 0

ON OCTOBER 4th, the 1949 football season opened as Dartmouth bowed to a powerful Penn eleven 21-0. A first period Deuber pass to Lou Roberts accounted for the Quakers' first tally. Late in the second period "Snakey" Graham added another score after seven consecutive line plunges. The final marker was made by Billy Rhoads when he outran the Indian secondary during the closing minutes of the final quarter. The line play of Herb Agoos was outstanding throughout the entire game.

PENN	7	7	0	0	= 14
PRINCETON	6	0	0	7	= 13

FIRST OF THREE games to be decided by a single point was the Princeton encounter at Palmer Stadium, in which the Quakers emerged victorious, 14-13. Two perfect placements by the unerring Herb Agoos spelled the difference since both squads were even on their touchdowns. An 18-yard pass from Bagnell to Wertlauffer put the Red and Blue ahead, 7-6, in the first period, and Dooney smashed across for the next score early in the second quarter. Sophomore Dick Kazmierer scored twice for the Tigers.

PENN	7	0	13	7	= 27
COLUMBIA	0	0	0	7	= 7

THE QUAKER eleven scored their third straight victory at the expense of the Columbia Lions, 27-7. Deuber intercepted in the first quarter and on a spectacular run scored the first Penn touchdown. The second half opened with Reds Bagnell intercepting a Lion pass and racing down the sideline to pay dirt. Matching Bagnell touchdown for touchdown, Deuber passed 30 yards to Roberts for the third Penn score. In the final seconds Bagnell hit Power in the end zone with an aerial for the Quakers' last score.

PENN	7	7	7	7	= 28
NAVY	0	0	0	7	= 7

RINGING UP their highest score of the year, the Quakers unclassified the Middies, 28-7. It was Penn's fourth in a row and their fourth straight over Navy. The Red and Blue scored in every period, with Agoos converting each time. Bagnell took an early Navy punt and returned it 74 yards for the first marker. Dooney plunged over for two other scores, and Rhoads scored the final on a Deuber pass. Defensive play was outstanding, Bull Schweider receiving AP recognition as "Lineman of the Week".

HERB AGOCS (82) and Joe Drigan break through the Big Green line of Dartmouth to chalk up a blocked kick. This set up the first of three Quaker touchdowns, over a hopelessly outplayed Dartmouth eleven which later bounced back to beat a favored Cornell team.

CO-CAPTAIN RAY DOONEY makes his own hole and churns through the Navy line in the second quarter to put the Quakers in the lead 14-0. Penn's offense looked extremely powerful both in the air and on the ground, and a strong defense kept Navy from scoring until the last period.

RAY DOONEY climaxes a sustained Penn drive, in which he carried the ball six straight times, by scoring the Quakers second touchdown early in the second quarter. It was a tightly fought contest, statistically about even; in the second half Princeton held the Red and Blue scoreless.

FLEET-FOOTED Quaker back Bill Rhoads dashes around end for a gain of nine yards early in the first quarter. He was finally stopped by Columbia end, Ed Straka. This was one of a series of plays leading to Penn's first of four touchdowns.

PENNS	0	14	7	0	= 21
WYOMING	0	7	7	0	= 22

A DECEDED PENN and Wyoming early game. Penn a few minutes through field. The Panthers caught them in a 100 yard, but Penn pulled to run 34-17 at halftime. Downey scored on a 37 yard dash and Menden added on a 17 yard run after a long pass from Baggett. Downey plunged for another score later, but Penn came back to make it 21-20. A great goal line stand in the final minutes sealed the game for the Panthers. Pen's defense ended the game.

PENNS	0	7	0	7	= 14
VIRGINIA	14	0	0	7	= 21

THE VIRGINIA CAVALIERS made Penn look seventh straight game, scoring 20-14. Virginia scored the first three touchdowns, Stuart changing from a punt and three plays after the Cavaliers recovered a fumble. Penn coming five yards to punt after and Owsik on a 10 yard pass from Mulick. Russell scored once on a pass intended for Owsik and the passed into his arms. Penn scored when Dyer ran the necessary yards after Krammel scored a fumbled punt and when Hunter straggled a Baggett pass from five yards out.

PENNS	0	0	0	7	= 14
ARMY	0	7	7	0	= 14

AND INSPIRED Red and Blue closer outscored and triumphed the great undefeated Army team but were down in defeat, 14-14. Penn drew first blood when Red Steuber smashed over Penn a yard out after a series of Baggett passes. Blue's placement was wide. The half ended with Penn on the Army one. Cain and Steptom ran scored for the Cadets who led 14-0 at the end of the third period. After having a long punt attempt blocked, the Panthers scored again and on a short Baggett to Haines run.

PENNS	7	14	0	0	= 21
CORNELL	7	0	0	16	= 23

A BRIGADE CORNELL team highly back team a 21-7 halftime deficit to conquer the Panthers 23-21 and take the Ivy League laurels. Penn scored in the first period when Downey plunged over after Schwinger recovered a Cornell fumble. In the second quarter Baggett passed to Wettlaufer in the end zone and Coulson ran for a touchdown with Downey's pass. But Cornell was not beaten. In the second half Harschman scored twice, Houser punted to Wendler, and Kirk kicked a field goal for the Bluebirds.

LOU CECONI, Pitt captain, returns a punt early in the first quarter. He was hindered by Harry Wettlaufer (81) and finally tackled by Penn's All-American, Bull Schweder (66). The Panthers then pushed all the way to tally their first score.

VIRGINIA'S JOHNNY PAPIT skirts around end for a short gain. Dave Coulson (23) looks about to be taken out of the play but evaded the Cavalier blocker to make the tackle. Virginia unleashed a spectacular passing attack, completing eleven out of fourteen, to spoil Penn's unblemished record of fourteen wins and no losses over the southerners.

HERE'S ONE of Cornell's second-half plays that set Penn back on its heels in that woeful Thanksgiving Day fracas. Cornell fought back to overcome what seemed an overwhelming deficit to cop the league title.

HARRY WETTLAUFER, chosen to play in the North-South game, catches a Bagnell pass on the Army one-yard line with seconds to go until the end of the half. Army's Brown brings Harry down just short of a much needed score. The referee disallowed Penn's request for time out, and before another play could be run off the half had ended. Wettlauffer's reception record for the day was ten for eleven.

FRANK SHEEHEY carried the ball in vain as Penn failed in its bid to gain the Eastern Intercollegiate 150 pound football championship by losing to Villanova 25-14. Charlie Schmucker scored both Quaker touchdowns, one the result of a 53 yard run.

BASKETBALL

DARTMOUTH'S WES FIELD (32) vainly tries to block a jump shot by Tom Davis. Topchick and Lyon await the rebound as Jefferies (7) looks on. Penn's attack, paced by Dick Dougherty and Herb Lyon, downed a stubborn Indian five 66-61.

PENN'S PAUL FITZPATRICK (17) goes high into the air to get the opening tap-off against Yale. Anxiously awaiting are Harry Wettlaufer (16), Bobby Brooks and Buckets Baumler (5). Yale's late rally downed Penn 57-51.

HARRY WETTLAUFER shows a lot of spring in an effort to regain possession of the ball for the Quakers. It was a tightly fought contest, Georgetown winning 78-71.

A DREAM WELL WORTH REALIZING

Here is the University of Pennsylvania—your University—as the architects have conceived it for the years ahead. Intersecting streets have been eliminated. New academic and administrative buildings dot a beautiful rectangular campus.

Even now, work is under way to make important parts of this great design come true quickly. A number of the University's distinguished departments cannot wait much longer for adequate housing.

Among the pressing needs is that for a real Philadelphia Medical Center, to train medical students, develop new knowledge, and serve a wider public. Equally urgent are the needs of the celebrated but underequipped Physics Department; of the Wharton School, which has striven against the handicap of Logan Hall for too many years; of the University Library—greatest collection of books between New York and Washington.

All these projects are included in the University of Pennsylvania Development Fund. When you are asked to give toward one of these pressing needs, remember that the University is a means toward a greater end—the creation of an informed and educated citizenry, able to deal with the problems of the modern world, living richer lives, and equipped with the highly specialized training necessary in so many fields.

The nation needs your university!
