DOLPHIN

The chimes of Irvine clearly resound across the Pennsylvania Campus above the din of city traffic and hum of construction work. Professors step up on the lecture platforms, students remove the caps from their fountain pens, and late comers hurriedly disappear into the ivy covered buildings. And so the day begins and passes, and the week, and the month. The academic year comes to an end, leaving behind the memories of classes, friends, and extra-curricular activities, touched by uncertainty, as the United Nations seeks to meet the challenge of aggressive countries. Looking back, however, we sense more than just a year of memories; to each of us it has been a wonderful experience, meaningful and integrated.

DEDICATED with

"Come right on in" were the friendly words that greeted us, when as Freshmen we stood on the door marked Anne B. Speirs, Assistant to the Dean of Women. From that moment of our Freshman Interview with Miss Speirs, we knew that we had a real friend in 114 Bennett Hall, one who was interested in us not only as a class, but as individuals.

In our infant days at the University it was to her that we came when we needed advice in planning teas, luncheons, and other class functions, and how many times have we listened to her famous lecture on "the manner and procedure of drawing money from the class treasury"! In our Sophomore year she counseled us on such matters as class blazers, Pirates Ball, and Soph Supper. As Juniors we passed to another advisor, but by that time we needed no official claim to stop in to see her when our numerous weighty problems needed solutions.

Now, as we leave the University, we carry with us many memories of Miss Speirs—clutching a freshman list in her hand, laughingly accepting at Undergrad Camp the title of "the walking dictionary," and sitting up a night at Freshman Camp, because upper classmen had accidentally mislaid her bedding.

In appreciation of her guidance, understanding, and unselfish service to us in our years at Pennsylvania, we dedicate this yearbook to Anne B. Speirs.

..... The Mainsprings

Under the leadership of Dr. Stassen, the administration of the University has continued to expand the curricular opportunities for women, as well as to give impetus to the development of the new campus. In closer contact with the women students is the personnel of 114 Bennett Hall. Dr. Hottel and her staff have been so helpful guiding the numerous extra-curricular activities and assisting each co-ed to find her place in the University.

Honors We Have Won --

CLASS OF '51

FRESHMAN YEAR 1947-1948

We were 150 people . . . the largest freshman class to weekend at Green Lane . . . We scurried through freshman program . . . as '51, our first accomplishment was the officers' elections . . . Nancy Horlacher, Joan Williams, and Doris Cherksey became president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer, respectively . . . the first frosh to win acclaim were the winners of the Baby Contest at the Big Sister party . . . Blue ribbons went to Mary French, Mimi Hemphill, Elizabeth Lang, Dot Dawson, Squeaky Brown, and Polly Shook . . . In the beginning of October, we were threatened with impending torture at Pirates Ball . . . Holland was in the thoughts of those who themed the C.A. Bazaar along Pennsylvania Dutch lines . . . Rushing began in November . . . and so did Joan Williams' cartooning for the PN . . . Four flights up, Bennett Club celebrated its second birthday . . . Peggy Joyce became WXPB's songstress, and Pat Lynn, its jack-of-all-trades . . . In January, journalistically inclined frosh—Barbara Brown, Pat Bellwoar, Doris Cherksey, Ellen Edvar, Pat Hoffman, Betty Hopkins, Nancy Horlacher, Carolee Orr, Janet Shand, Joan Williams, Adele Szezurowski, and Mary Jane Tobin—were taken on the PN staff . . . "Trend," a creative writing mag, made a unique debut, but died shortly after its second issue . . . NSA was established as a recognized organization on the Penn campus . . . Student-faculty relations received a boost at the first Student-Faculty dinner . . . In April, a nostalgic note accompanied the retirement of Dr. Minnick, Dean of the School of Education from 1921-1948 . . . Dr. Grizzell became our new dean . . . we found Hey Day and Ivy Day about the most exciting time of the year.

This year we slung the mud and greasepaint at Pirates Ball . . . Dr. Stassen became the president of our university . . . Mickey McCracken won the joint DP and PN shmoo contest . . . the C.A. Bazaar slid off on a Mexican tangent . . . Shmoos were imported to help solve the rising cost of textbooks . . . The nine welfare agencies were coordinated into Campus Chest . . . Remember the Carnival? . . . Joan Williams' Soph Soap Box continued to be a leading source for Soph information . . . the PN, Dolphin, and Red and Blue established the first women's Publications Union . . . the PN and DP joined issues to celebrate the 209th anniversary of the U of P . . . meanwhile our class leaders Darthea Smith, Virginia Matzke, and Ruth Woll kept the class sailing on an even keel . . . the "new look" was still holding its own in clothes and even spread to the WAA lounge, which was redecorated . . . a leadership clinic convened . . . new white Blazers held a special meaning for each class member . . . as well as Hey Day ceremonies which saw the entrance of many of our class into honorary societies . . . the end of the year meant the halfway mark for many of us, and the beginning of a fuller life for those embarking on the marital trail.

JUNIOR YEAR 1949-1950

Undergrad camp . . . 22 out of 65 were Juniors . . . we returned fully aware of new responsibility to our sister freshmen . . . and conscious of the opportunities for Juniors . . . for one thing we'd get better football seats . . . secondly, we felt that college was made for Juniors who knew their way around by now, but weren't as yet burdened by employment problems or conference courses . . . Betty McKaig, class prexy and chief Big Sister, announced a new system for assigning big sisters . . . WXPB completed expansion and modernization of the studio facilities . . . the C.A. Bazaar turned into a "49 Gold Rush Bonanza" . . . Dean Hottel returned from a 72-day trip around the world still hopeful that a major war would be averted . . . Pan Hel's new rushing system enabled women students to rush either Jewish or Christian houses . . . Philadelphia and Penn celebrated the Goethe Bi-Centennial . . . Squeaky Brown, Sue Budd, Eleanor Bidwell Dietz, Betty McKaig, Rocky Nelson, Marty Rice and Gayle Meacham emerged as outstanding athletes . . . Hail Joan Giambalvo, the most loyal cheerleader a class could want . . . Penn women thumbed down both simplified spelling and a proposed Honor System . . . Government Council voted unanimously to have the Freshmen wear dinks . . . the Franklin lectures, A Revolt in the Arts, brought Peter Viereck, William Shuman, James Michener, and Lewis Mumford to Penn . . . "Rusty" was honored at Callow Day . . . June . . . finals . . . summer.

SENIOR YEAR 1950-1951

As Seniors, the Class of '51 undertook the leadership of the undergraduate women . . . new faces were seen on campus . . . with seven new, feminine administrative appointments . . . the PN closet was enlarged and became the new Dolphin office . . . Crusade for Freedom hit the campus . . . students were asked to sign

VALEDICTORY

Webster defines graduate "to admit to an academic degree at the end of a course." All of us are aware of the value of this degree we are about to receive. But how many have thought seriously of the greater significance of arriving at the end of a course? We are apt to become engrossed in the excitement of these approaching days: Tensions are released; examinations terminated; responsibilities vanish. At such a time it is easy to under-value the privilege of four years of university experience. Let us not allow this moment in our lives to pass without the honest appraisal, that its importance demands.

One who comes to the end of a course has the opportunity to look back. Much has happened since those first days at Freshman Camp. The delightful language of poetry and of music has been learned. Outstanding personalities have opened our minds to the vistas of great art and literature. To us has come the pleasant surprise of seeing for the first time the shape of the mist that shrouds some of the enigmas of life. Countless opportunities have been available to develop our talents. The University community has offered association with many persons differing in religion, race, and ideas. Rewarding friendships have been formed. Brief thoughts are these, but each Pennsylvania girl has cut her own pattern and must weave her own unique memories.

Four years in retrospect must summon more than an enumeration of events. Inherent in such a review is the challenge to evaluate these experiences and choose wisely those values that will long outlive our undergraduate days. Basically, college has been a preparation for enjoying productive lives. There must be an increasing awareness of the fundamentals of living. Their importance demands that three of these fundamentals be noted. The enthusiasm for life developed in youth is a priceless quality to carry into later years. Those wise will recognize the virtue of honest work; for persevering labor is the common factor in all great successes. And these two are built upon the third which is freedom: freedom that makes opportunities and abilities meaningful; freedom that recognizes religious tolerance and racial integrity; freedom that allows stimulating interchange of ideas and pursuit of truth. As prospective Pennsylvania graduates it is our right to look back and mark well the merits of this fine experience.

The end of a course is also and inevitably a beginning. And every beginning centers attention on what lies ahead. Never was there a time when the future was more doubtful or seemed less inescapable. Much of the strife in the past half-century has not entered our sheltered lives. But the day is past when power politics is a phrase meaningful to statesmen only. Although the foreshadowing of the future may be frightening, youth need not cower. Youth that knows the heritage of the past and the great values of the future is fortified with hope—with courage. As graduates we shall be assuming new and untried roles. In them there will be opportunity to translate our faith into action, to redeem our times and buy a better future for ourselves than our elders are wont to bequeath us.

It is useful to look back, unavoidable to look ahead, but life is lived neither in the past nor the future. By all means come to terms with the present. Time provides a frame for the accomplishments of man. What better satisfaction than to trade time for accomplishments? Thoreau said in his immortal book, Walden: "I know of no more encouraging fact than the unquestionable ability of man to elevate his life by conscious endeavor. If one advances confidently in the direction of his dreams, and endeavors to live the life he has imagined, he will meet with a success unexpected in common hours." "A success unexpected in common hours" is possible for those who refuse to permit a darkening future to rob them of the present—for those who capitalize upon the contributions to character and skill made by the four years that are about to end.

TIME . . . Marches on

TIME—1976

PLACE—La Guardia Airport

DESTINATION—Iceburg in the Aleutians

Separated by wind, time, and water the class of '51 has at last decided to have a little get together at some convenient location. All rush to the scene of departure.

"Flight 1951 scheduled to leave La Guardia Airport for the Aleutians at 2500 will now leave at 2550." The voice of Nancy Horlacher came clearly over the PA system from the control tower. Up in the tower they were having all sorts of aeronautical difficulties. However, with the aid of Janice Auritt, the two managed to get the feet of the pilot, Doris Cherksey, down to earth. Cherk was anxious to take off but Nancy and Janice finally persuaded her to wait for her passengers.

Down the runway Ruth Woll, the co-pilot, was taking a straw vote among the mechanics as to whether or not they would take a fire extinguisher on board. All decided in favor of the idea when they realized how many Balls of Fire would be on board.

In the radio room Tina Janeway was handling live wires who were becoming stars on Broadway, while Betty McKaig, the very able navigator, shot these stars with her sextant to plot our course.

The plane was fabulous. The designer, Joan Williams, had installed all of the most modern conveniences, and had fitted each passenger with a special mink-lined iceburg suit to be put on just before arrival.

"All passengers for Flight 1951 may now board plane at Gate 12." People started showing their tickets to Betty Pike, the gate attendant, who directed Elaine Shocket, Joan McAdoo, Mary Jo Kindig and the others towards the stewardess, Helen Hogg. "Last call for Flight 1951." Whoops, here comes Janet Harper who left a U.N. conference early with Helen Shapiro to make the flight.

Inside the plane Peggy Hill, the other stewardess, was handing out dramamine pills like mad, especially to such landlubbers as Demetra Chios, Sally Burden, and Anne Hayes. Just before the take off, Pat Hoffman helped her seatmate Ella Batiste fasten her safety-belt, because Ella was "all thumbs" at the prospect of soon seeing Mary Donis, Rosemary Skelly, and Jean Thompson, Joyce MacMullen and Joann Binns, co-winners of the Nobel prize, were chatting intently about pathogens.

As the plane gained altitude, there could be heard the clickety-clack of two typewriters as their owners attacked them with vigor. One was Kristin Eggleston's, world famous poetess who was pounding out an epic or two, while the other's was Struthers Joyce's, author of the latest history text—"The Bubonic Teutonic." Sue Budd, who was sitting next to first lady of the land, Joan Robinette, was clutching the cardboard container holding her prize painted turtle. The turtle, Sue called to Lea Day, was a high jumping, speedy reflection of the age, having just won the Kentucky Derby. Asked by sports enthusiast Gayle Meacham for the turtle's pedigree, Sue told her he was Ulcers out of Neuroses by Frustration.

Seated at the other end of the plane quietly talking to her agent Mildred Payne, was Evelyn Punchard, famed illustrator of three childrens' magazines. Nearby, Warren Shafer, the brains of Tin Pan Alley chatted with Thelma Barab, the Voice of Tomorrow, about the phenomenal operatic success of Muriel Remaley, as Isolde.

Up with the navigator, Nancy Beane and Posy Matzke were engineering the pick-up of several thespians who couldn't make the airport due to their various tours. They skillfully lowered a rope ladder over Pocatello, Idaho to haul up Jane Borden and lowered it again over Vancouver for Evelyn Tabachnick.

Quite a group was gathered around the water cooler gabbing about days at the Penn Lunch. Among them were Janet "in from Maine," Shand, and Margie "the car" Jones. All were delighted that Gloria Kleinman's daughter had just made Phi Bete. Polly Shook, Ambassador to France, came up with Tike Smith, National Mortar Board President, who kept wondering why the wings didn't flop up and down.

The light flashed on to fasten seat belts and to stop smoking as the plane was circling to land. Veteran flyer, Betty Gosnay reminded Angie Manno to suck a life saver so her ears wouldn't bother her when they lost altitude. All of a sudden, Dottie Bickert shouted "there's an iceberg!" "Lettuce see" retorted comic Ginny Beaumont.

As the door opened, the cold Aleutian air rushed into the plane, but nothing could dampen the spirits of the Class of '51. Coming to warmly greet us, and thank goodness, for baby it's cold outside! was Jane Gladfelter, head of the welcoming and welfare committee, ably assisted by Elizabeth Peterson, official hostess, and Joan Giambalvo, chairman of cheer.

Also on hand were Rocky Nelson and Marty Rice, co-coaches of the Iceberg Snowball League, and Joann Diehl, searcher of sociological significance with her assistant Faith Lillibridge. The Snowball League hadn't had any worry about filling up the teams since Helen "Mother of the Year" Sterling had been keeping it supplied from her brood of twelve.

All accommodations were made in advance by Carolyn Simon, manager of the Tiltin' Hilton Hotel. Featured in the hotel's famous Icebox Room were dancers Joan Kielholz and Mimi Hemphill from the Frigid Follies, produced by Claire Mamourian and Mary Ellen Musser.

Everything was grandly planned
That week of talk and mirth,
And to quote the mighty Barnum
'Twas the "grandest show on earth."
And as they left, each homeward bound,
So chic, so smart, such style,
Their old friends viewed, their youth renewed,
Each faced the future with a smile.

SCHOOL OF FINE ARTS

Programs in architecture, fine arts, and music are offered women enrolled in the School of Fine Arts. Students have the benefit of technical training as well as a liberal arts education, and some are under the coordinated plan with the Pennsylvania Museum School of Industrial Arts and the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts. Dr. Williams of the Graduate School served temporarily as Dean until the Spring Term, when the School welcomed Dr. Perkins as its new head.

This year two new undergraduate schools for women were established. The School of Nursing offers a degree upon the completion of three years of nurses' training and two years of academic work. Extra-curricularly, the Nursing Education Association presents outstanding speakers in the nursing profession and affords close contacts among the students socially. After four years of training, students in the School of Auxiliary Medical Services are awarded degrees in Occupational Therapy and Physical Therapy. Dr. Wesley G. Hutchinson serves as Dean. This year there were no graduates.

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

The School of Education provides training in elementary through to secondary teaching. Dr. Grizzell with offices in Eisenlohr is Dean of the school. This year the Illman Carter curriculum also was planned on a five year basis. With the cooperation of the Philadelphia and Suburban schools students have had the opportunity to observe and to try out their class room theories. A Student Advisory Board and Teachers of Tomorrow work with the administration to plan social events and sponsor outstanding speakers in the field of education.

COLLEGE FOR WOMEN

The largest number of undergraduate women are enrolled in the College for Women. An excellent liberal arts program and preprofessional training are offered by this school which is directed by Dr. Miller. As Personnel Officer, Dr. Brownlee guides students in planning rosters and is constantly aware of the curricular needs through frequent meetings with a group of class representatives known as the Student Advisory Board.

ATHLETIC SAGES

A broad intra-mural program was emphasized by the W.A.A., headed by Squeaky Stull. Either I.F. or class games were played in volley-ball, basketball, and softball. The annual spring swimming meet was also planned by this group of class officers, team captains and managers, and Athlon. Class trophies, current team pictures, and individual plaques will be placed in the W.A.A. lounge.

Sportsmanship and scholarship are equally stressed in the Woman's Athletic Honorary Society. President Gayle Meacham and the other six members of Athlon have undertaken several projects this year. One was the codification of a strong managerial system and equally beneficial was a food concession during I.F. basketball contests to purchase sports equipment for University Camp for Girls.

FIELD DAY

Newcomers to Penn invaded the hockey squad last fall and exhibited enough skill to become active on all three teams. Particularly impressive was Eussie Thayer, freshman center forward, who along with Peggy Smythe, Sue Budd, and Andy Anderson, contributed the majority of varsity goals.

The final hockey scoreboard shows that Penn succumbed to Swarthmore, Bryn Mawr, and Beaver, but the only decisive victory was Beaver's 5-0 upset. In the other two games, both teams were so evenly matched that it was a toss-up in the minds of the spectators. The outstanding contest of the season was the Temple game, which ended in a 3-3 deadlock. For Penn, however, it was still a moral victory.

Noteworthy among the newcomers were Frances Hessert, Mary Ellen McNichol, Lois Dilks, Barbara Scott, Eussie Thayer, and Sally Gerlach. Although the backfield will bemoan the loss of stalwarts McKaig, Stull, and Nelson, the future looks far from dim.

Lack of time caused by scholastic pressure and outside activities did not dampen the enthusiasm of the sixty girls who came out for the 1951 team. Coaches Welsh and Funk spent many hours conscientiously screening for the final varsity list. Judged on skill, spirit, and attendance, the remaining players diligently practiced three days a week, and even parted with Saturday morning sleep.

The formidable trio, Squeaky Stull, Betty McKaig, and Rocky Nelson proved an iron block for even the trickiest forwards. The colossal combination of Hawk, Johnson, and newcomer O'Rourke became proficient in mid-court, hook, set, lay-up, and free shots. O'Rourke's dodging skill and accurate eye, Hawk's speedy rebound recoveries, and Johnson's domination under the basket made Penn's hoopsters a strong challenge to all who opposed them.

R. Funk, M. Stull, and Mrs. Welsh look confident.

BULLS-EYE!

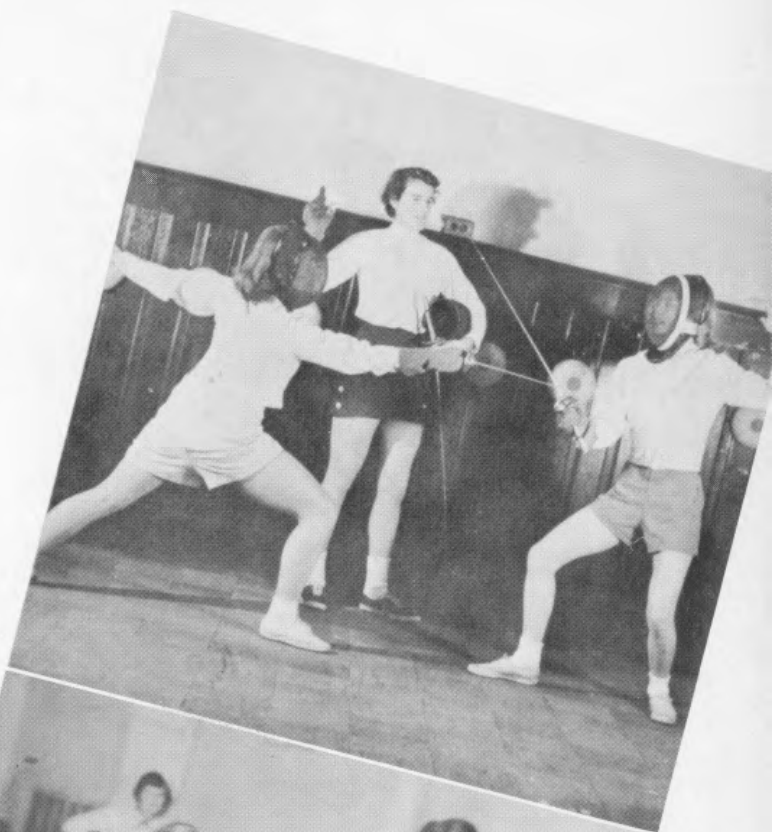

This season, the women's rifle team distinguished itself by becoming the first women's group to be admitted to the American Rifle Association. Led by captain-manager Polly Shook, the team, comprised of nine other sharpshooters, met New Hampshire, Penn State, and Ohio State in a series of postal matches.

TOUCHE!

Encouraged by new jackets, foils, and masks, the fencing team opened this year's schedule with a match against Bryn Mawr, later including Tyler and New Jersey State Teacher's College in its six-match season. Captain Lois Benson, Dodie Thayer, and Eileen Sallom returned from the 1950 team to strengthen the duellists.

STRIKE!

The Walnut Street bowling alleys were kept active by Penn's bowling team practicing to improve its scores before meeting Temple and Drexel. Helen Payne captained the 1951 team, which aided by Mrs. Farquhar, also included Angela Manno, Betty Sheen, Sandra Nippon, and Ruth Moore.

BADMINTON—First Row: E. Nelson, M. Rice, M. Stull. Second Row: R. Woll, S. Budd (Capt.), A. Savage. Third Row: M. Musgrave.

GOLF—C. Johnson (Co-Capt.), M. Jones, M. Hunsberger (Co-Capt.), Miss Lyle.

SWING TIME

MODERN DANCE—E. Day, S. Gillette, D. Spencer, N. Davis. Missing: E. Dietz, D. Barish, L. Bretherick, J. Brodsky, L. Blengensee, M. Russell, A. Murphy, R. Yeskin,

Winter brought the badminton courts back into full swing—Sue Budd in the spotlight as captain. Eight of last year's point-collectors returned to Coach Lyle for another swat at the birdie. The season concurred with varsity basketball and swimming—still, more girls came out than ever before. Twenty-five girls remained on the squad.

All four of last year's golfers are again crying "fore!" on Miss Lyle's golf team. They spend most of their club-wielding career practicing at the St. Martin's course of the Philadelphia Cricket Club. They only match tees with Beaver and Swarthmore.

Seven performances, highlighted by an appearance with the Philadelphia Orchestra, has comprised the modern dance group's most provocative season. On campus, they entertained for the faculty wives, a Bennett Club Dance, Pi Lambda Theta, and the undergraduates.

LACROSSE—First Row: D. Troncelliti, B. Kling, G. Meacham (Capt.), J. Shelley, N. Beck, J. Harper. Second Row: P. Savidge, C. Mamourian, N. Perry, N. Hall, J. Dickson, D. Humphrey. Third Row: L. Hib-

INJUN' GAMES

In the Robin Hood Department, all looks bright for Mrs. Farquhar, the coach, and Sue Budd, captain of the archers. A successful season is anticipated against Swarthmore, Rosemont, Chestnut Hill, and Drexel, since all but one squad member is returning.

All-American Gayle Meacham captained the lacrosse team to a hard-working but scoreless season. The team lacked experience, but gained in skill through competition with Swarthmore, Ursinus, and other formidable opponents. No balls across the crease—next year this will cease!

ARCHERY—M. Stull (Capt.), M. Rice, E. Dietz, J. Diehl.

DAVY JONES' HAREM

Three teams, instead of the usual two, enabled more promising swimmers to compete this year than previously. The new workshop begun last fall opened the pool three days a week to help the old and prospective members in fundamentals. The aquacade, meeting once annually, is comprised of six colleges and two high schools. This winter, Penn made an exceptional showing—unusual since the team was composed primarily of freshmen and sophomores. Co-Captains Jackie Taylor and Martie Rice see equally fine possibilities for the coming season due to the younger spirit of the team.

BELLES OF

Andy delivers the pill.

A rainy, six-week softball season found the “Slugging Nine” completing the year with an even tally of wins and losses. Despite the heavy opposition always found in Ursinus and Temple, the team showed marked improvement over previous games with these schools.

Spring, tennis, and victory have become synonymous terms to the Racquettes of “Riverside Courts.” Debbie Welsh, possessor of both the captaincy and the Inter-Collegiate Tennis Trophy, led her team to an undefeated season. Sue Budd played steady second singles, as did Ann Dietrich in third singles. The doubles combination of Bierly-McKaig and Savage-Vollmer was a reliable quartet which helped keep the opposition scoreless.
