KEEPING FRANKLIN'S PROMISE

In the words of one elegiac tribute, “Great men have two lives: one which occurs while they work on this earth; a second which begins at the day of their death and continues as long as their ideas and conceptions remain powerful.”

These words befit the great Benjamin Franklin, whose inventions, innovations, ideas, writings, and public works continue to shape our thinking and renew the Republic he helped to create and the institutions he founded, including the University of Pennsylvania.

Nowhere does Franklin feel more contemporary, more revolutionary, and more alive than at the University of Pennsylvania. His startling vision of a secular, nonsectarian Academy that would foster an “Inclination join’d with an Ability to serve Mankind, one’s Country, Friends and Family” has never ceased to challenge Penn to redefine the scope and mission of the modern American university.

When pursued vigorously and simultaneously, the two missions – developing the inclination to do good and the ability to do well – merge to help form a more perfect university that educates more capable citizens for our democracy.

Penn has embodied and advanced Franklin’s revolutionary vision for 276 years. Throughout its history, Penn has extended the frontiers of higher learning and research to produce graduates and scholars whose work has enriched the nation and all of humanity.

The modern liberal arts curriculum as we know it can trace its roots to Franklin’s innovation to have Penn students study international commerce and foreign languages.

The first medical and business schools in the United States were launched here.

And the first general-purpose electronic, digital computer – ENIAC – was invented right here at the University of Pennsylvania.

Taking inspiration from Penn’s pioneering legacy, President Amy Gutmann’s Penn Compact 2020 advances the University’s quest to become continually more inclusive, innovative, and impactful. Its bold strategy reinvigorates Franklin’s founding mission at a time of increased global connectedness and rapid technological advancement. The Penn community’s extraordinary support of the University’s strategic priorities, as expressed in our record-setting Making History campaign, enables Penn to work toward the Penn Compact 2020 goals of expanding access for bright students from all backgrounds, integrating cutting-edge research and teaching across the disciplines to promote revolutionary new discoveries, and sharing the benefits of these discoveries through ongoing engagement with our local and global communities.

Today, Penn proudly graduates a class of men and women who have shown the intelligence, drive, integrity, and character to become engaged citizens who will serve humanity with distinction. Our Penn graduates are poised to take their place as productive democratic citizens and as just and humane stewards of our world.

In these challenging and perilous times, a world in need of young men and women who are willing to shoulder the moral responsibilities of leadership can look to Penn.

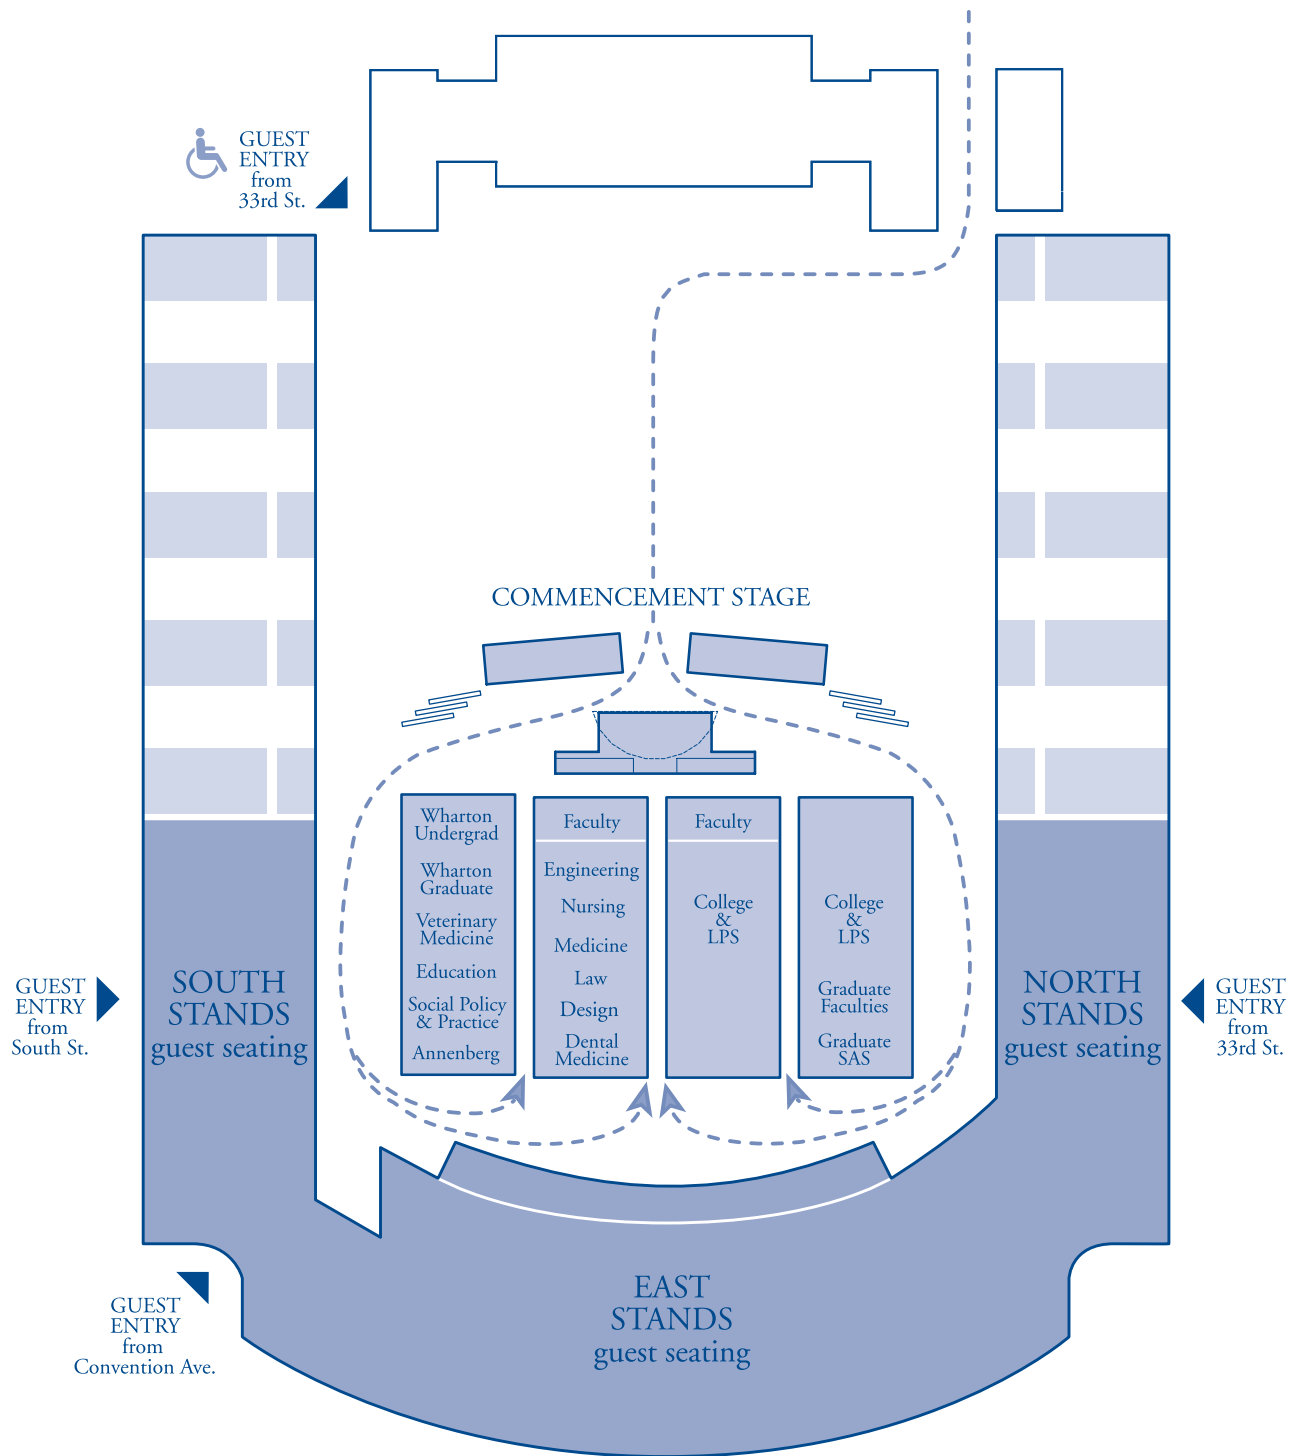

Franklin wrote: “We may make these times better if we bestir ourselves. The noblest question in the world is ‘What good may I do in it?’”

The answer to this question will be furnished by Franklin’s newest heirs, the graduates of 2016.

COMMENCEMENT SEATING

Guests will find this diagram helpful in locating the approximate seating of the degree candidates. The sequence in which the candidates are presented for degrees is shown on the next page. The list on page 6, detailing the colors of the candidates' hoods according to their fields of study, may further assist guests in identifying the locations of the various schools.

In case of emergency, evacuation procedures will be announced.

THE NATIONAL ANTHEM

Lilly Claar (C’16)
Oh, say, can you see, by the dawn’s early light,
What so proudly we hailed at the twilight’s last gleaming?
Whose broad stripes and bright stars, thro’ the perilous fight
O’er the ramparts we watched, were so gallantly streaming.
And the rockets’ red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there.
Oh, say, does that star-spangled banner yet wave
O’er the land of the free and the home of the brave?

THE RED AND BLUE

By William J. Goeckel, Class of 1896, and Harry E. Westervelt, Class of 1898
Come all ye loyal classmates now, in hall and campus through,
Lift up your hearts and voices for the royal Red and Blue.
Fair Harvard has her crimson, old Yale her colors too,
But for dear Pennsylvania, we wear the Red and Blue.
(Chorus)
Hurrah! Hurrah! Pennsylvania!
Hurrah for the Red and the Blue;
Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!
Hurrah for the Red and the Blue.

RECESSIONAL

ACADEMIC REGALIA AND TRADITIONS

Today – May 16, 2016 – is the University of Pennsylvania's 260th Commencement. Penn traces its origins to a deed of trust executed in 1740 and is celebrating its 276th birthday this year. President Amy Gutmann will confer bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degrees upon some 6,000 graduates of the University's 12 schools. Honorary degrees will be awarded to eight individuals of distinction in varied fields, as you will note on pages 11, 12, 13, and 14 in this program.

The practice of sporting signs on caps and gowns as a form of public proclamation at Commencement dates to the early 1760s and recalls an even more ancient tradition, originating in the practice of medieval universities. Penn's archives contain several 18th century broadsides, printed in Latin, which were distributed to Commencement guests along with the regular programs. The broadsides contain a series of propositions classified under various academic headings. Presumably, the graduating students were willing to defend these theses against any assertions to the contrary. On the eve of the Revolution, however, statements such as "the rights of the people are as divine as the rights of their rulers" must have met with widespread sympathy.

ACADEMIC CEREMONY AND REGALIA

Commencement exercises at American universities and colleges traditionally are composed of three essential elements: the Academic Procession, the conferring of degrees, and the Commencement address. This practice has been codified since 1895, when a national conference on academic-costume and ceremony was proposed and a plan known initially as the "Intercollegiate System" was formally adopted. The Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania incorporated this code in the Statutes of the University in November 1896. Now under the aegis of the American Council on Education, the "Academic Costume Code and Academic Ceremony Guide" was revised in 1932 and 1960.* Throughout the 20th century, Commencement at Penn has, with minor modifications, followed the dictates of the code and its revisions.

By 1896, however, Penn had been granting degrees for nearly 140 years. Like other American colonial colleges, Penn borrowed its 18th century Commencement rituals directly from the English universities. In England the history of academic dress reaches back to the early days of the oldest schools. As early as the second half of the 14th century, the statutes of certain colleges prohibited "excess in apparel" and required the wearing of a long gown. It is still an open question as to whether academic dress finds its sources chiefly in ecclesiastical or in civilian dress. It is often suggested that gowns and hoods were the simplest, most effective method of staying warm in the unheated, stone buildings which housed medieval scholars. In any case, academic regalia had evolved to contemporary familiarity by the time Benjamin Franklin was awarded an honorary Doctor of Laws by the University of St. Andrews in 1759.

TRADITIONS AND CURRENT PRACTICE AT PENN

In April 1887, on the recommendation of a committee of the faculty, the Trustees adopted the "'Pennsylvania' System of Academic Costume." The colors and trimmings of hoods and caps were regularized according to faculty and degree. Beginning with the Commencement of 1887, the "'Pennsylvania' System" was published in each year's program and adherence to its rules was expected of trustees, faculty, and students alike. Beginning in 1896, the "'Pennsylvania' System" was superseded by the "Intercollegiate System," which has continued in effect to the present time.

The gowns used in American academic ceremonies vary according to the highest degree awarded to the wearer. The gown for the bachelor's degree has pointed sleeves; it is designed to be worn closed. The gown for the master's degree has an oblong sleeve, open at the wrist. The sleeve base hangs down in the traditional manner. The rear part of its oblong shape is square cut and the front has an arc cut away. The master's gown may be worn open or closed. The doctoral gown is a more elaborate costume faced down the front with black velvet and across the sleeves with three bars of the same; these facings and crossbars may be of velvet of the color distinctive to the field of study to which the degree pertains. The doctoral gown has bell-shaped sleeves and may be worn open or closed. Some institutions have authorized doctoral gowns in colors other than the customary black; holders of the University of Pennsylvania doctorate may wear red and blue gowns.

The hoods are lined in silk with the official color or colors of the college or university which granted the highest degree held by the wearer; more than one color is shown by division of the field color in a variety of ways, such as by chevron or chevrons. The binding or edging of the hood is in velvet, with widths of two inches, three inches, and five inches for the bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degrees, respectively. The color of the border indicates the field of study to which the degree pertains. University of Pennsylvania graduates wear a hood lined in red with a blue chevron. The mortarboard cap is standard, though soft square-topped caps are permissible. Recipients of doctorates may wear a gold tassel fastened to the middle point of the top of the cap; all others wear black.

Degrees shall be conferred today according to the following order:

Arts & Letters, white
Science, golden yellow
Business Administration, mustard
Nursing, apricot
Medicine, green
Law, purple
Fine Arts (including Design), brown
Dental Medicine, lilac
Veterinary Medicine, gray
Education, light blue
Social Work, citron
Philosophy, dark blue

ACADEMIC PROCESSION

The order for today's Academic Procession is as follows:

- Mace Bearer
- President and Provost
- Chair of the Board of Trustees
- Commencement Speaker
- Candidates for Honorary Degrees
- Deans
- Trustees
- Officers of the University
- Faculty
- Overseers
- Visiting Dignitaries

UNIVERSITY MACE

The Secretary of the University carries the University mace, the symbol of authority of the University, at the head of the Academic Procession. It was a gift of the family of William Murray Gordon, M.D. 1910. It is adorned with the seal and arms of the University, the Penn and Franklin coats-of-arms, a depiction of the Rittenhouse Orrery, and a thistle symbolizing the early ties of the University with Scotland.

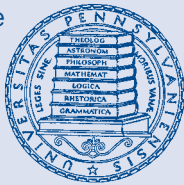

PRESIDENT'S BADGE OF OFFICE

The President wears as a badge of office a silver medallion of which one face is engraved, like the mace, with the University seal. The obverse of the President's medal bears the "orrery seal," designed in 1782 by Francis Hopkinson, A.B. 1757, a signer of the Declaration of Independence. The medal, suspended on a chain composed of silver links, was given by the late Trustee Thomas Sovereign Gates, Jr., A.B. 1928, LL.D. 1956, on the occasion of Sheldon Hackney's inauguration as President in October 1981.

UNIVERSITY SEAL AND SYMBOLS

SEAL OF THE CORPORATION

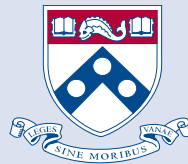

The Trustees of the University have an official seal that is, in effect, the signature of the Corporation. It had its origin at a meeting of the Board of Trustees in 1755 with Benjamin Franklin as Chairman. Though the seal underwent changes over the years, the most recent design, approved in 1932 and adopted in 1933, returned it to virtually its original form.

The seal is composed of seven books stacked on a slanted desktop, with the books bearing the following titles, representing the curricula of the day: Theolog, Astronom, Philosoph, Mathemat, Logica, Rhetorica, Grammatica. On the periphery of the stack of books appears the University motto, Leges Sine Moribus Vanæ, and the whole is encircled with the inscription Universitatis Pennsylvaniensis.

PENN COAT-OF-ARMS

The Penn coat-of-arms was derived by combining the coat of arms of Benjamin Franklin and that of William Penn's family. The dolphin on the red chief was part of Franklin's coat-of-arms and the three silver plates on a blue chevron were a part of Penn's. The two were combined on a white shield along with two open volumes representing the University's educational purpose.

MOTTO: LEGES SINE MORIBUS VANAE

The motto of the University, Leges Sine Moribus Vanæ, means "Laws without morals are useless." It comes from the longer quotation from Horace, "Quid leges sine moribus vanae proficiunt?" the sense of which is "Of what avail are empty laws without (good) morals?"

SCHOOL COLORS

Eighteenth century American academic institutions did not have colors. The earliest known representation of the combined Penn colors, red and blue, is on the incised lid of the 1871 College Hall cornerstone.

One legend traces their origins to an early track meet at Saratoga, New York, between Penn, Harvard, and Yale. When asked by the officials what colors would be representing the Penn team, the Pennsylvania captain reportedly replied, "We're going to be wearing the colors of the teams we beat," i.e., Harvard Crimson and Yale Blue. We shall assume that Penn was victorious and thus remained loyal to the Red and Blue.

SCHOOL OF ARTS AND SCIENCES (1755)

The School of Arts and Sciences (SAS) is the direct descendant of the College of Philadelphia, where Benjamin Franklin established the first modern arts and sciences curriculum in the English colonies. Undergraduate programs for men date to the chartering of the College in 1755; the College of Liberal Arts for Women was founded in 1933. The Graduate School was established in 1882 with the appointment of a Faculty of Philosophy. The College of Liberal and Professional Studies (lifelong learning) traces its roots to 1892. The School of Arts and Sciences was born in 1974 with the merger of the College of Arts and Sciences, the College for Women, the Graduate School, and four social science departments from Wharton. Today SAS is the largest of the University's 12 schools, providing a liberal arts education for all Penn undergraduates and supporting graduate studies, basic research, and continuing education across the full range of the humanities, natural sciences, and social sciences. The School has 27 departments with 494 standing faculty, 18 research centers, six interschool institutes, and 10,000 students.

PERELMAN SCHOOL OF MEDICINE (1765)

Established in 1765 as the nation's first medical school, Penn's School of Medicine, now the Raymond and Ruth Perelman School of Medicine, continues a rich tradition of providing pre-eminent training and education. Today, the Perelman School of Medicine at the University of Pennsylvania, a leader among the nation's medical schools, is committed to the highest standards in education, research, and patient care. It is continuously engaged in long-range strategic planning and implementation, focusing on programs and facilities that will take it well into the 21st century. In the current academic year, the School has 28 departments, 24 interdisciplinary centers and institutes, and 2,190 full-time faculty members. It educates 775 M.D. students, 186 M.D./

Ph.D. students, and 594 Ph.D. students, and trains 1,290 residents and fellows. Over the last decade, the Perelman School of Medicine has consistently ranked among the top recipients of monies granted by the National Institutes of Health.

LAW SCHOOL (1790)

Penn's engagement in legal education began in 1790 with a series of lectures to President Washington and his cabinet by James Wilson – the University's first law professor, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, and one of the original justices of the Supreme Court of the United States. A formal program of instruction in law was established in 1850 under George Sharswood, and innovative legal education has been part of the Penn fabric since that time. Today, Penn Law provides a cross-disciplinary, globally focused legal education taught by preeminent scholars, approximately 70 percent of whom hold advanced degrees in fields in addition to law. Students augment the teaching provided by Penn Law faculty with classes taken – and certificates of study and joint degrees earned – in sister schools and departments throughout the University. In the 2015-2016 academic year, Penn Law has 901 students, 65 full-time faculty, and more than 100 lecturers from legal practice. Penn Law awards five degrees: Juris Doctor; Master of Laws for internationally trained lawyers; Master of Comparative Laws; Doctor of the Science of Law; and a Master in Law for non-lawyers.

SCHOOL OF ENGINEERING AND APPLIED SCIENCE (1852)

The School of Engineering and Applied Science (SEAS) is one of the oldest in the United States, tracing its beginnings to the establishment of the School of Mines, Arts and Manufactures in 1852. The first graduate of the School received a Bachelor of Science degree in 1854. Since that time, the School has grown into a center of excellence in the creation of technology and in technology education. Its spirit of innovation led to the creation in 1946 of ENIAC, the first all-electronic, large-scale, general-purpose digital computer, making SEAS the birthplace of the computer age. Today, Penn Engineering offers a wide range of undergraduate and graduate programs, including the first alternative liberal arts program based in an engineering school. Penn Engineering is particularly distinguished by its interdisciplinary, cross-school programs such as Management and Technology, Digital Media Design, Biotechnology, and the Singh Program in Networked and Social Systems Engineering. Penn Engineering currently has 119 standing faculty, approximately 1,600 undergraduate students, 1,000 graduate students, four research institutes, 10 research centers, and one regional institute.

SCHOOL OF DESIGN (1869)

Although the School of Design dates its founding to 1890, architecture courses were first offered at the University of Pennsylvania in 1869, making Penn's architecture program the second oldest in the United States. In 1921, the Department of Architecture joined with the Department of Music and Fine Arts to create an independent undergraduate School of Fine Arts modeled on the French École des Beaux Arts. In 1958, the School was renamed the Graduate School of Fine Arts, reflecting the shift to graduate degree offerings in architecture, city and regional planning, landscape architecture and fine arts. The triumvirate of architecture, landscape architecture, and city planning shaped the core of the School in the 1950s and 1960s. In the 1980s, a program in historic preservation was added. Today, the School provides a rich environment for the study of the arts, architecture, landscapes, and urbanism. Its opportunities now include undergraduate study in fine arts, architecture, and digital media design. As a more accurate description of the School's major concerns and advancements made across a variety of fields, the School was renamed, in 2003, the School of Design. The School has a standing faculty of 38, approximately 160 lecturers and associated faculty, and more than 650 students.

SCHOOL OF DENTAL MEDICINE (1878)

Established in 1878 as the Dental Department of the University of Pennsylvania, the School of Dental Medicine is among the oldest university-affiliated dental institutions in the country with a history deeply rooted in forging precedents in dental education, research, and patient care. In 1897, Thomas W. Evans, a Philadelphia native and clinician who spent most of his life in France as the dentist to European nobility, left his estate to create a dental school that was “second to none.” Evans’ bequest would become one with the University, creating the Thomas W. Evans Museum and Dental Institute, which opened in 1915. Today, the Evans Building remains the hub of the School’s clinical instruction and patient care, presently undergoing a renovation that will transform all four levels of this historic structure. The dental campus also includes the Robert Schattner Center and the Leon Levy Center for Oral Health Research, home to the basic sciences and extensive research activities. Penn Dental Medicine is a major provider of care in West Philadelphia. Through its outreach programs, students log nearly 12,000 hours each year serving approximately 14,000 residents in the surrounding Philadelphia neighborhoods. The School offers the degrees of Doctor of Dental Medicine, Master of Science in Oral Biology, and Doctor of Science in Dentistry, and trains postdoctoral residents in endodontics, oral medicine, oral and maxillofacial surgery, orthodontics, pediatrics, periodontics, periodontics/orthodontics, and periodontal prosthesis. In the 2015-2016 academic year, Penn Dental Medicine has 533 DMD students, 108 postdoctoral residents (13 of which are enrolled in the Doctor of Science in Dentistry Program and 30 in the Master of Science in Oral Biology Program), 11 postdoctoral researchers, and 440 faculty members, including 41 standing faculty.

WHARTON SCHOOL (1881)

The Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, founded in 1881, is recognized globally for intellectual leadership and ongoing innovation across every major discipline of business education. The most comprehensive source of business knowledge in the world, Wharton bridges research and practice through its broad engagement with the global business community. The school has more than 5,000 undergraduate, MBA, and doctoral students; nearly 10,000 participants annually in its executive education programs; and a network of 94,000 alumni in 140 countries.

SCHOOL OF VETERINARY MEDICINE (1884)

Penn Vet is a global leader in veterinary medicine education, research, and clinical care. Founded in 1884, Penn Vet is the only veterinary school developed in association with a medical school. The school is a proud member of the One Health initiative, linking human, animal, and environmental health. Penn Vet serves a diverse population of animals at its two campuses, which include extensive diagnostic and research laboratories. Ryan Hospital in Philadelphia provides care for dogs, cats, and other domestic/companion animals, handling more than 31,000 patient visits a year. New Bolton Center, Penn Vet’s large-animal hospital on nearly 700 acres in rural Kennett Square, PA, cares for horses and livestock/farm animals. The hospital handles more than 4,000 patient visits a year, while the Field Service treats nearly 36,000 at local farms. In addition, New Bolton Center’s campus includes a swine center, working dairy, and poultry unit that provide valuable research for the agriculture industry.

GRADUATE SCHOOL OF EDUCATION (1914)

The University of Pennsylvania Graduate School of Education (Penn GSE) is one of the nation’s premier schools of education. Penn GSE has a long history of excellence in qualitative research, language and literacy studies, practitioner inquiry, and teacher education, and has more recently developed remarkable strengths in quantitative research, policy studies, evaluation, higher education, and psychology and human development. The school is also notable for its entrepreneurship, developing custom degree programs for practicing professionals and unique partnerships with local educators.

SCHOOL OF NURSING (1935)

Nursing education at Penn began in 1886 when the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania started a nurse training program. In 1935, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania established a nursing degree program within the School of Education, and in 1950 the School of Nursing was established. The Master of Science in Nursing program was instituted in 1961, the Doctor of Nursing Science program in 1978, and the Doctor of Philosophy program in 1984. These innovations and a curriculum that progressively reflects changing health care delivery patterns have advanced the School into the first rank of American schools of nursing. The School has two departments, Biobehavioral and Health Sciences, and Family and Community Health. It is widely recognized for its leadership in nursing research in the areas of health outcomes and policy, nursing history, biobehavioral health sciences, global women’s health, health equity, aging, and transitions in health. It also has a global reputation for innovations in nurse-managed clinical practice and is a World Health Organization Collaborating Center for Nursing and Midwifery Leadership. The School of Nursing has 55 standing faculty and 1,233 students.

SCHOOL OF SOCIAL POLICY & PRACTICE (1948)

The School of Social Policy & Practice began in 1908 as a private school that opened its doors to five students in the field of child welfare. The School affiliated itself with the University in 1935 and became a formal school in 1948. In 2005, it changed its name from the School of Social Work to the School of Social Policy & Practice. The School offers the Master of Social Work, Master of Science in Nonprofit Leadership, Master of Science in Social Policy, Doctor of Philosophy in Social Welfare, and Doctor of Social Work degrees. The School is devoted to advancing human welfare, promoting social justice, and developing effective societal responses to global human need. Building on its century-long commitment to social work and social change, the School educates clinicians, policymakers, scholars, researchers, and leaders who work to advance the human welfare of local, national, and global communities. The School houses a number of research centers and programs, including: the Field Center for Children's Policy, Practice, and Research; the Center for High Impact Philanthropy; the Social Impact of the Arts Project; the Program for Religion and Social Policy Research; the Goldring Re-entry Initiative; the Penn Aging Concentration; the Child Well-Being & Child Welfare Specialization; the Program in Mental Health Education Assessment, Recovery, and Leadership for Social Workers; and the Evelyn Jacobs Ortner Center on Family Violence. The School has 23 standing faculty and 472 students.

ANNENBERG SCHOOL FOR COMMUNICATION (1959)

Founded through the generosity and vision of diplomat and philanthropist Walter Annenberg, the Annenberg School for Communication (ASC) at the University of Pennsylvania is devoted to furthering our understanding of the role of communication in public life through research, education, and service. At the School's founding, Ambassador Annenberg identified its unique mission: "Every human advancement or reversal can be understood through communication. The right to free communication carries with it responsibility to respect the dignity of others — and this must be recognized as irreversible. Educating students to effectively communicate this message and to be of service to all people is the enduring mission of this school." With strengths in health communication, political communication, culture and communication, media institutions, digital media, and global communication, ASC is ranked as the top communication school in the nation. The Annenberg School has 22 standing faculty members, 30 additional research and teaching faculty and associates, more than 90 graduate students, and nearly 200 undergraduate students. The school offers the degree of Doctor of Philosophy as well as a Bachelor of Arts major run through the College of Arts and Sciences. The School is home to the Annenberg Public Policy Center, the Penn Tobacco Center of Regulatory Science, the Center for Global Communication Studies, the Scholars Program in Culture & Communication, the Project for Advanced Research in Global Communication, the Communication Neuroscience Lab, the Network Dynamics Group, the Institute for the Study of Citizens and Politics, the Center for Health Behavior and Communication Research, and the Institute for Public Service, among many other projects pursuing innovative communication research and teaching.

HONORARY DEGREE CITATIONS

HAWA ABDI

"I believe the world is one because we are all human beings. All our needs are one." Your words frame your extraordinary life's work as a physician and protector.

It might have been left to you to care for your siblings upon your mother's death due to complications in delivery, but your father supported your dream to be a doctor. As Somalia's first female gynecologist, you later earned your law degree and served on the medical faculty at Somali National University. In 1983, on family land, you opened a one-room clinic offering free obstetric services to rural women. Following governmental collapse, over 90,000 displaced by war and drought sought refuge on your land—mostly women, children, and the elderly, but all seeking shelter from violence and destitution. You maintained an island of peace, establishing self-governance and forbidding divisive clan allegiances.

Through the years, you faced grave danger with impervious resolve. Taken hostage by factional militants in 2010, you refused to relinquish the refugee camp. Following a week of armed occupation where little of value was left undamaged, you convinced the militants to leave. Such is the respect that you, Mama Hawa, carry, that you then demanded—and earned—a public apology.

Today, you and your physician daughters continue work at the Hawa Abdi Village, which encompasses a school for boys and girls, a 400-bed hospital, and agricultural efforts. Since its establishment, the Village has served an estimated two million people and saved tens of thousands of lives.

Though the strife of civil war has ebbed, there remains urgent work to build lasting institutions in healthcare, education, agriculture, and social entrepreneurship. It is your hope that Hawa Abdi Villagers can relocate and re-establish stability throughout Somalia, having learned models of self-sufficiency and cooperation as alternatives to a militarized society of exploitation and domination.

Your inspirational story was told in your 2013 memoir, Keeping Hope Alive: One Woman, 90,000 Lives Changed. Glamour magazine named you and your daughters to its 2010 list of "Women of the Year," declaring you "equal parts Mother Teresa and Rambo." Your efforts have also been recognized with the Roosevelt Four Freedoms Award, the Vital Voices' Women of the Year Award, and the John Jay Medal for Justice. The United Kingdom's Guardian in 2010 named you one of the Top 100 Women in Medicine and Science.

For your selfless courage and unfaltering efforts to provide the fellow citizens of your country with safety and shelter, and a path of hope through education, a sustainable livelihood, and an independent life, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Hawa Abdi, the degree of Doctor of Sciences, honoris causa.

ELIZABETH E. BAILEY

We do not bestow the descriptor of "trailblazer" lightly. Indeed, throughout your career you have resisted such labels even as your decades of research on economic regulation and deregulation, contestability theory, market structure, corporate governance, and social responsibility have become renowned. Your achievements are such that a New York Times profile once proclaimed you as "a woman who gets things done."

A native New Yorker, graduate of Radcliffe College and Stevens Institute of Technology, you were the first woman to receive a doctorate in economics from Princeton. You were also the first woman to head a department at Bell Laboratories—that of economic research—and to initially examine where technology was leading that venerable organization.

In 1977, President Carter named you the first woman commissioner of the Civil Aeronautics Board, and then President Reagan named you the first woman vice chair. During your term, you played an instrumental role in U.S. airline industry deregulation and successfully fought for protections for non-smokers in air travel.

In 1983, you were named the first woman to head a top-tier graduate business school, the Carnegie Mellon University Graduate School of Industrial Management. You said: "I want our students to feel as though they are on the threshold of a revolution." Your forethought propelled nascent efforts to integrate computers into the curriculum and the daily routines of students and faculty alike.

Joining Penn in 1991, you served as professor and chair of the Department of Business and Public Policy before retiring in 2010 as the John C. Hower Professor Emeritus of Business Economics and Public Policy at the Wharton School. At Wharton and throughout your career, you were known as a woman of strong convictions, an ebullient spirit, and little patience for barriers, such as the sexism encountered in male-dominated fields.

The author of numerous journal articles and books, you were inducted into the American Academy of Arts and Sciences in 1997. Through the years, many organizations have sought your advice and expertise. You served as a trustee of the Brookings Institution and as vice president of the American Economics Association, heading its Committee on the Status of Women in Economics. A former trustee of Princeton University, you were a member and president of the Eastern Economics Association, and chair of the National Bureau of Economic Research, and served on many corporate boards.

In recognition of your extraordinary example as a thoughtful crafter of forward-thinking policy, and as a scholar, educator, and mentor, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Elizabeth E. Bailey, the degree of Doctor of Sciences, honoris causa.

DAVID BROOKS

In your 2015 best-selling book, The Road to Character, you invited consideration of how personal identity is often cultivated through superficial success and achievements, much to the detriment of a satisfying inner life of depth and purpose. But this book is no prescriptive tutorial. From its earliest pages, you make it clear that you join us as a fellow traveler on this road, as we all seek answers for building and sustaining a meaningful life. In four decades as a journalist, commentator, and author, you have sought to provide a reasoned context for the challenging issues of our time—a foundation to help us consider and frame our own point of view.

A native of Toronto, Canada, your first job upon graduation from the University of Chicago was as a police reporter for the City News Bureau wire service. Later, during your nine-year tenure at The Wall Street Journal, you reported on affairs of international import from your post in Brussels.

Since 2003, you have offered your informed and distinctive voice in New York Times opinion-editorial essays covering an amazing breadth of topics, from the nature of gratitude and the loss of a healthy moral vocabulary in our culture, to the rise of anti-politics and narcissistic individualism. Widely read and admired by liberals and conservatives alike, your work unfailingly appears among the Times' most viewed and most forwarded articles. Your four books, including 2011's The Social Animal: The Hidden Sources of Love, Character, and Achievement, have received great popular and critical notice.

For many years, you also brought your thoughtful opinions to the public through regular appearances on the PBS NewsHour, NPR's All Things Considered, and NBC's Meet the Press. You also served as a senior editor at The Weekly Standard and contributing editor for The Atlantic and Newsweek, and your work has appeared in many periodicals, including The New Yorker, Forbes, and The Washington Post.

A speaker in great demand, we were honored to welcome you as our Baccalaureate speaker. You have served as a visiting professor at Duke and Yale universities, where you spoke on humility and building character. A member of the American Academy of Arts & Sciences, you were honored by the American Sociological Association in 2011 for Excellence in Reporting of Social Issues.

For exploring with expressive clarity and ethical purpose issues of the human condition that are both immediate and enduring, and for aiding a deeper understanding of ourselves and our roles in society, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, David Brooks, the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

RENÉE FLEMING

When conducting a 2009 master class at the Juilliard School, your alma mater, you told the assembled young artists: "I'm still a student; I'm still working; I'm still learning. Nobody's ever finished learning." It is this philosophy of dedication and personal evolution that has brought us one of the most celebrated musical artists of our time and all time. Beloved both at home and across the world, your soprano's crystal notes and your compelling presence have graced the world's greatest stages. From the Metropolitan Opera and Broadway to locales as varied as a Presidential inauguration, the Super Bowl, and the Brandenburg Gate on the 25th anniversary of the fall of the Berlin Wall, your artistic mastery is unmatched.

The child of music teachers, you enjoyed a childhood rich in melody. Following study at the Eastman School of Music and at Juilliard, in 1991 you made your debut at the Metropolitan Opera, the first of over 240 performances there. Though you described yourself as a shy child, through the years, you have been unafraid to explore many musical genres. You performed with Luciano Pavarotti and Plácido Domingo, with Elton John, Josh Groban, and Joan Baez. With an internationally renowned and Grammy Award-winning repertoire spanning classical, jazz, indie-rock, and pop, you are equally at home interpreting American standards, the works of Rossini and Verdi, or covering the latest hits of Death Cab for Cutie and Muse. Singing in eight languages, including Elvish on the film soundtrack of The Lord of the Rings, you have entranced fans of all generations.

While maintaining an active global performance calendar, as the first Creative Consultant at Chicago's Lyric Opera you curated creation of the 2015 world-premiere opera Bel Canto and have hosted numerous broadcasts for the Metropolitan Opera and Lincoln Center. Your 2004 book The Inner Voice offered a most intimate account of your career and creative process.

In bestowing the National Medal of Arts in 2012, President Obama acclaimed you as "the people's diva." Your myriad honors include The New York Public Library naming you a "Library Lion" for promoting literacy, Honorary Membership in the Royal Academy of Music, the Fulbright Lifetime Achievement Medal, the Chevalier de la Légion d'Honneur, Germany's Cross of the Order of Merit, and the Victoire d'Honneur, the highest award conveyed by France's Victoires de la Musique Classique. Your service includes the boards of the Asia Society, Sing for Hope, and the Polyphony Foundation, and as a Trustee of the Carnegie Hall Corporation.

For most generously sharing with us your works of uplifting and unparalleled artistic beauty and virtuosity, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Renée Fleming, the degree of Doctor of Music, honoris causa.

SYLVESTER JAMES GATES, JR.

Your first brush with your life's work began at home as you explored the family encyclopedias. The entries on the laws of physics fascinated you, and you innately sensed that anyone who understood them would certainly be on to something big. Owing to your dedication and determination, today you are a celebrated theoretical physicist renowned for your discoveries in supersymmetry, supergravity, and superstring theory.

Your MIT doctoral thesis was that institution's first to examine supersymmetry, and in 1984, you co-authored the field's first comprehensive textbook, Superspace. In the years since, as pursuit of a unifying theory of "everything" led to mathematics too complex for even the experts, you sought other ways to describe the possibilities of the universe. Your intellectual creativity has led you to adapt Adinkra, the pictorial language of the Ashanti of West Africa, as a possible tool to reveal the relationships of matter with the forces that act upon them.

A fervent educator and communicator for over four decades, your passion lies in sharing your intellectual journey, saying: "Great science belongs to everybody ... trying to understand the most fundamental structure and issues for our universe is a birthright for all of us." Through your career, you have sought to reveal the artistry of discovery in a way accessible to all. Your DVD series of 24 lectures for non-physicists carefully illuminates the complexities of your field for the layperson, and you are regularly featured on the PBS series NOVA and other science documentaries.

Today, you are a University System Regents Professor; the John S. Toll Professor of Physics at the University of Maryland, College Park; Director of its String and Particle Theory Center; and an Affiliate Professor of Mathematics. Dartmouth College also named you a Roth Distinguished Scholar for 2015-2016. A member of President Obama's Council of Advisors on Science and Technology, you helped inform last year's Every Student Succeeds Act, which aims to boost science, technology, engineering, and math education, as well as increase job opportunities for young Americans.

A member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and the American Philosophical Society, in 2013 you became the first African American physicist elected to the National Academy of Sciences in its 150-year history. President Obama awarded you the Medal of Science, our highest award given to scientists. You are also a fellow and past president of the National Society of Black Physicists, a Fellow of the American Physical Society, and a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

For your deep and abiding dedication to the exploration of science and the expansion of your field, and for your passionate efforts to share with us all your curiosity and love for your work, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Sylvester James Gates, Jr., the degree of Doctor of Sciences, honoris causa.

ASMA JAHANGIR

Born to a family of activists in Lahore, Pakistan, you organized your first protest on behalf of women's rights at age 16. Two years later, at great personal risk, you demonstrated against your father's arrest for defying military rule. This early activism led you to the study of law and your life of service promoting basic rights and enfranchisement for all your country's citizens. For over three decades, you have been at the forefront of Pakistan's human rights movements in court and in public protest, defending the most vulnerable: women, children, religious minorities, and the poor. Finding strength with others, including your sister, Hina, you have campaigned relentlessly against discriminatory laws and brought international attention to the abhorrent practices of honor killings, worker abuse, and forced religious conversion. Having courageously taken on very complicated cases and won, you have been imprisoned, assaulted, and subjected to years of surveillance and threats of assassination. In response, you have redoubled your efforts.

In 1981, with your support, Pakistan's Women's Action Forum campaigned against discriminatory laws devaluing a woman's testimony and the Hudood Ordinances that demanded victims of rape prove their own innocence or risk severe punishment. In 1986, you founded Pakistan's first legal aid center and women's shelter and partnered to form its first law firm established by women. A founding member of the Human Rights Commission of Pakistan and a former chair, you have also co-chaired the South Asia Forum for Human Rights and served with the International Federation for Human Rights.

As a mark of your contributions, in 2010 you became the first woman elected as President of the Supreme Court Bar Association of Pakistan. And for many years, you have promoted human rights internationally through the United Nations, serving as its Special Rapporteur on Extrajudicial, Arbitrary or Summary Executions and on Freedom of Religion and Belief, and most recently on inquiries into human rights abuses in Sri Lanka. Your two books, Divine Sanction? The Hudood Ordinance and Children of a Lesser God: Child Prisoners of Pakistan, have helped shine a light on these critical causes.

In recognition of your work, you have been named an Officier de la Légion d'Honneur by France, and received many awards, including the Millennium Peace Prize, UNESCO/Bilbao Prize for the Promotion of a Culture of Human Rights, the Martin Ennals Award for Human Rights Defenders, and the Hilal-i-Imtiaz and Sitara-i-Imtiaz awards, which are among Pakistan's highest honors.

For your example of unwavering courage and selfless efforts on behalf of the most vulnerable people of your country and the world, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Asma Jahangir, the degree of Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.

ERIC R. KANDEL

To an untrained observer, the simple life of the marine snail Aplysia would not appear to harbor deep insights about cognition. Yet, this creature's relative dearth of neurons rendered it ideal for your early explorations of learning and memory at the molecular level. For the first time, you were able to map a neural circuit with painstaking exactness, allowing us to glimpse behavior at its source. Throughout, your career has been defined by this passion for discovery and by the highest regard of your peers in international scientific communities. Today, your work continues to afford us all great insights into human behavior and learning.

Born in Vienna, you resettled with your family in Brooklyn in the days just before World War II. Your pursuit of knowledge led to your graduation from Harvard and the NYU School of Medicine, and with your training at the National Institutes of Health. Your varied interests could have led you in many directions, including a career in psychoanalysis, but you instead fell in love with the fledgling field of neurobiology. In 1974, you joined Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons as the founding director of the Center for Neurobiology and Behavior.

Today, you are a University Professor at Columbia University, Kavli Professor and Director at the Kavli Institute for Brain Science, Co-Director at the Mortimer B. Zuckerman Mind Brain Behavior Institute, and a Senior Investigator at the Howard Hughes Medical Institute.

Your Principles of Neural Science, now in its fifth edition, is the benchmark textbook for undergraduate neuroscience education. Your 2006 book, In Search of Memory: The Emergence of a New Science of Mind, won both the Los Angeles Times and National Academy of Science Awards for best book in Science and Technology and became a film documentary. And your 2012 work, The Age of Insight: The Quest to Understand the Unconscious in Art, Mind, and Brain, from Vienna 1900 to the Present, received critical acclaim and Austria's Bruno-Kreisky Award in Literature.

Your unparalleled career has earned you a multitude of accolades, including the 2000 Nobel Prize in Medicine, the National Medal of Science, the Albert Lasker Award for Basic Medical Research, the Harvey Prize and Wolf Prize in Medicine, and the American Philosophical Society's Benjamin Franklin Medal for Distinguished Achievement in the Sciences. The National Academy of Sciences and the National Science Academies of Austria, France, Germany, and Greece, as well as the Royal Society of London, are proud to claim you as a member.

For your devotion to probing the mysteries of the brain, learning, and memory, and for thereby illuminating our understanding of behavior and the human experience, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Eric R. Kandel, the degree of Doctor of Sciences, honoris causa.

LIN-MANUEL MIRANDA

In a business where it is said that you can't make a living, but you can make a killing, you have done something greater still. You have fomented a revolution. On Broadway, demand only rarely outstrips supply, yet your fans have overflowed the street and stopped traffic in their quest for tickets. Hamilton, for which you created the book, music, and lyrics, and play the title role, is a once-in-a-generation smash hit. An exuberant retelling of a revolution, the birth of a nation, and the larger-than-life founder who history seemed to forget, Hamilton has given a centuries-old tale new life and relevance. More than that, by employing the crackling energy of hip-hop and a magnificent multicultural cast, your genius has helped us all rediscover the truly revolutionary story of America's past.

Your passion to share that story led to an innovative program enabling 20,000 high schoolers to see Hamilton over the next year. You tested a pilot version before students and the First Family by special invitation of Michelle Obama at the White House. You said, "If we can excite curiosity in students, there's no telling what can happen next."

Your own story is one of inspiration and dedication. A native New Yorker, you began work on your first Broadway musical while still a Wesleyan undergraduate. After graduation, you taught school and wrote jingles to keep your dream going. In the Heights became a 2009 Pulitzer Prize Drama Finalist, received four Tony Awards, including Best Musical and Best Score, and won a Grammy Award as well.

This was an impressive opening act, but a "revolution" was in the wings. Captivated by Ron Chernow's weighty Alexander Hamilton biography, you set to realizing its theatrical potential. The next year, the show's opening song was a hit at the White House Evening of Poetry, Music, and the Spoken Word. Then, a sold-out run at New York's Public Theater resulted in 10 Lortel Awards, the Drama Critics' Circle Award for Best New Musical, and an Obie for Best New American Play. Hailed on Broadway for groundbreaking casting and irrepressible style, Hamilton has garnered a Grammy for Best Musical Theater Album and is an anticipated favorite at the 2016 Tony Awards. Most recently, the play was awarded the 2016 Pulitzer Prize in Drama.

Your collaborative nature is evident as co-founder and member of the hip-hop improv group Freestyle Love Supreme and co-composer and co-lyricist of the Tony-nominated Bring it On: The Musical. A 2015 MacArthur Foundation "Genius" Awardee, you have also received the recognition of your peers through ASCAP Foundation's Richard Rodgers New Horizons Award, the National Arts Club Medal of Honor, a Creative Arts Emmy Award, and the Dramatists Guild Frederick Loewe Award for Dramatic Composition.

For generously sharing your expressive brilliance and offering us the joy of imagining more expansive possibilities for American life, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Lin-Manuel Miranda, the degree of Doctor of Arts, honoris causa.

As final action cannot always be taken by the time this program goes to press, these lists of degree and prize recipients are tentative only. The appearance of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person has received a degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Conversely, the absence of a student's name herein does not necessarily mean that the person has not been awarded a Penn degree. The student's transcript is the official record of the University.

As final action cannot always be taken by the time this program goes to press, these lists of degree and prize recipients are tentative only. The appearance of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person has received a degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Conversely, the absence of a student's name herein does not necessarily mean that the person has not been awarded a Penn degree. The student's transcript is the official record of the University.

As final action cannot always be taken by the time this program goes to press, these lists of degree and prize recipients are tentative only. The appearance of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person has received a degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Conversely, the absence of a student's name herein does not necessarily mean that the person has not been awarded a Penn degree. The student's transcript is the official record of the University.

As final action cannot always be taken by the time this program goes to press, these lists of degree and prize recipients are tentative only. The appearance of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person has received a degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Conversely, the absence of a student's name herein does not necessarily mean that the person has not been awarded a Penn degree. The student's transcript is the official record of the University.

As final action cannot always be taken by the time this program goes to press, these lists of degree and prize recipients are tentative only. The appearance of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person has received a degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Conversely, the absence of a student's name herein does not necessarily mean that the person has not been awarded a Penn degree. The student's transcript is the official record of the University.

PRINCIPAL ACADEMIC HONOR SOCIETIES

PHI BETA KAPPA

Delta of Pennsylvania

Phi Beta Kappa is one of the oldest and most prestigious academic societies for undergraduates. The Delta Chapter of the University of Pennsylvania was founded in 1892 and continues to thrive in the twenty-first century. It honors those students who have distinguished themselves through undergraduate research and by breadth of study in the liberal arts.

MATTHEW CRYER HONOR SOCIETY (DENTAL MEDICINE)

The Matthew Cryer Honor Society was established in 1912. Membership in the Penn Dental Medicine's Cryer Society is the highest scholastic honor awarded to the highest-ranked students in each class at the completion of the second year. The Society honors the academic achievements of its members and acts as a resource to new students entering the Dental School.
