KEEPING FRANKLIN'S PROMISE

In the words of one elegiac tribute, "Great men have two lives: one which occurs while they work on this earth; a second which begins at the day of their death and continues as long as their ideas and conceptions remain powerful."

These words befit the great Benjamin Franklin, whose inventions, innovations, ideas, writings, and public works continue to shape our thinking and renew the Republic he helped to create and the institutions he founded, including the University of Pennsylvania.

Nowhere does Franklin feel more contemporary, more revolutionary, and more alive than at the University of Pennsylvania. His startling vision of a secular, nonsectarian Academy that would foster an "Inclination join'd with an Ability to serve Mankind, one's Country, Friends and Family" has never ceased to challenge Penn to redefine the scope and mission of the modern American university.

When pursued vigorously and simultaneously, the two missions – developing the inclination to do good and the ability to do well – merge to help form a more perfect university that educates more capable citizens for our democracy.

Penn has embodied and advanced Franklin's revolutionary vision for 279 years. Throughout its history, Penn has extended the frontiers of higher learning and research to produce graduates and scholars whose work has enriched the nation and all of humanity.

The modern liberal arts curriculum as we know it can trace its roots to Franklin's innovation to have Penn students study international commerce and foreign languages.

The first medical and business schools in the United States were launched here.

And the first general-purpose electronic, digital computer – ENIAC – was invented right here at the University of Pennsylvania.

The Penn community's extraordinary, ongoing support is at the heart of The Power of Penn: Advancing Knowledge for Good. The Campaign will advance Penn's goals to grow inclusion by building a diverse community for living, learning, and service; to spark innovation by inspiring inventive thinking across disciplines; and to accelerate impact by sharing the benefits of new knowledge and discoveries through active engagement with our local and global communities.

Today, Penn proudly graduates a class of women and men who have shown the intelligence, drive, integrity, and character to become engaged citizens who will serve humanity with distinction. Our Penn graduates are poised to take their place as productive democratic citizens and as just and humane stewards of our world.

In these challenging and perilous times, a world in need of young women and men who are willing to shoulder the moral responsibilities of leadership can look to Penn.

Franklin wrote: "We may make these times better if we bestir ourselves. The noblest question in the world is 'What good may I do in it?'"

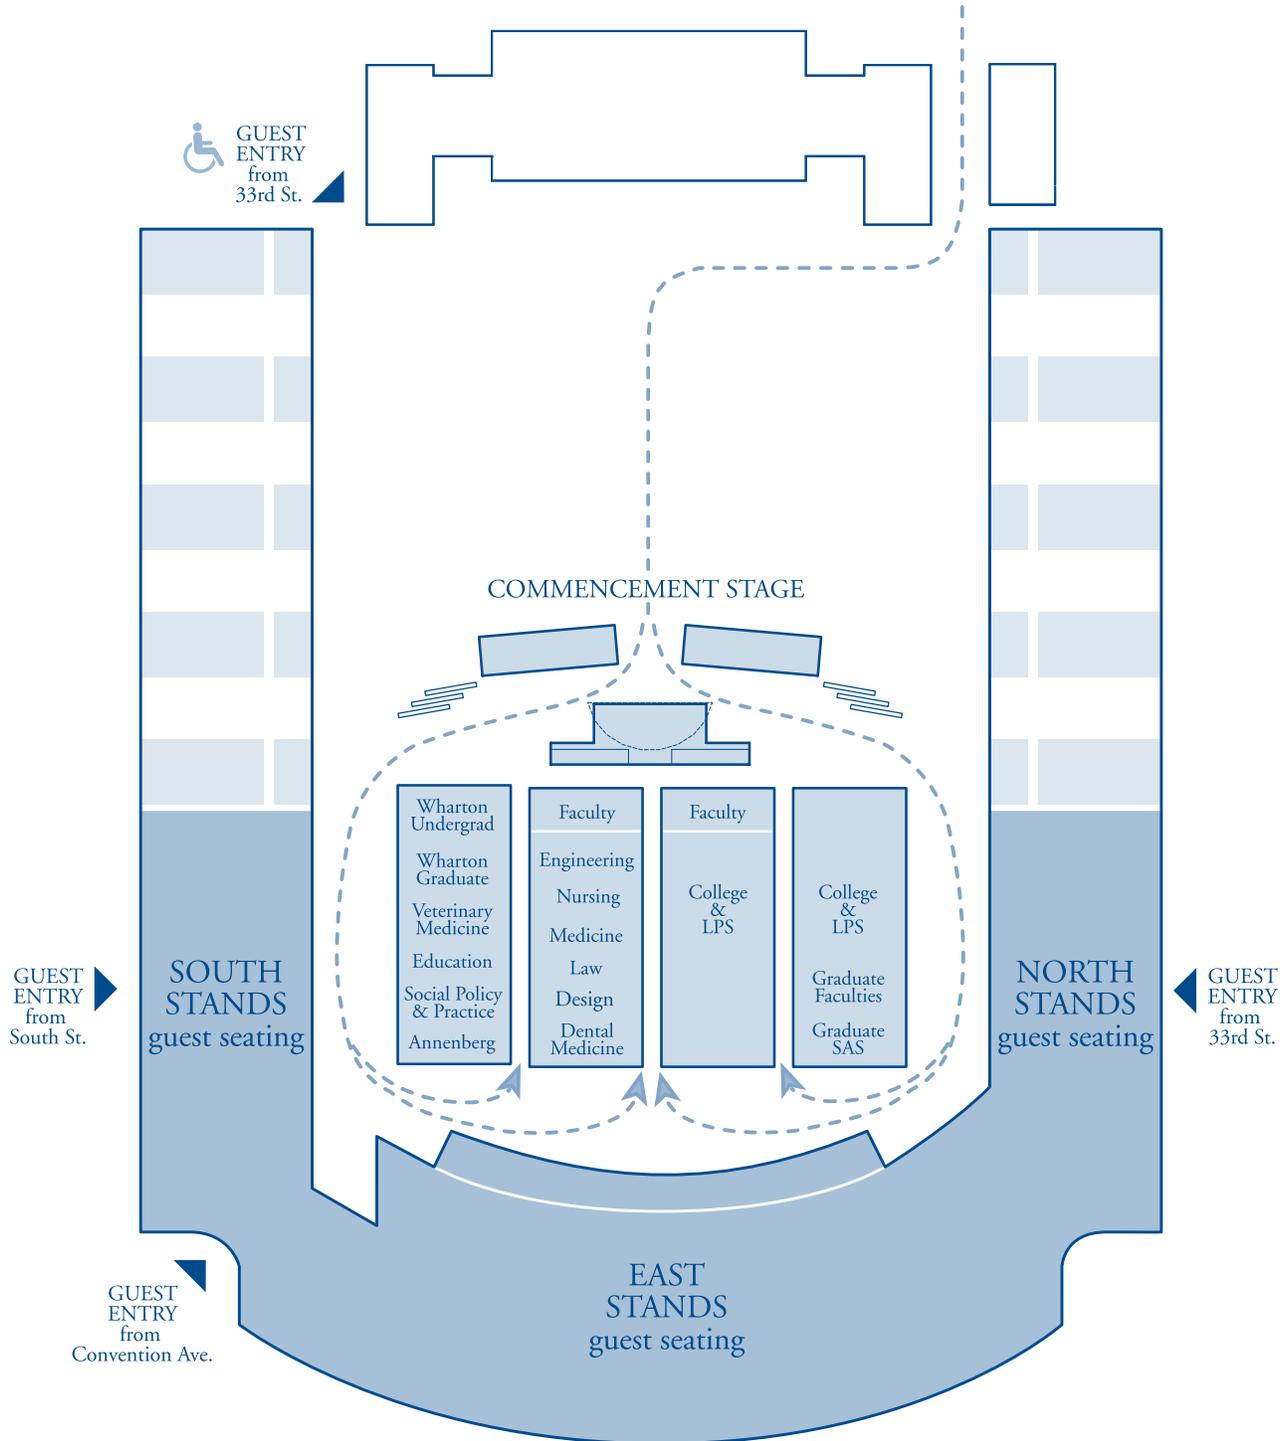

The answer to this question will be furnished by Franklin's newest heirs, the graduates of 2019.

THE NATIONAL ANTHEM

Shiv Nadkarni, C'19
Oh, say, can you see, by the dawn's early light,
What so proudly we hailed at the twilight's last gleaming?
Whose broad stripes and bright stars, thro' the perilous fight
O'er the ramparts we watched, were so gallantly streaming.
And the rockets' red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there.
Oh, say, does that star-spangled banner yet wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave?

THE RED AND BLUE

By William J. Goeckel, Class of 1896, and Harry E. Westervelt, Class of 1898
 Come all ye loyal classmates now, in hall and campus through,
 Lift up your hearts and voices for the royal Red and Blue.
 Fair Harvard has her crimson, old Yale her colors too,
 But for dear Pennsylvania, we wear the Red and Blue.
 (Chorus)
 Hurrah! Hurrah! Pennsylvania!
 Hurrah for the Red and the Blue;
 Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!
 Hurrah for the Red and the Blue.

RECESSIONAL

ACADEMIC REGALIA AND TRADITIONS

Today – May 20, 2019 – is the University of Pennsylvania’s 263rd Commencement. Penn traces its origins to a deed of trust executed in 1740 and is celebrating its 279th birthday this year. President Amy Gutmann will confer bachelor’s, master’s, and doctoral degrees upon some 6,000 graduates of the University’s 12 schools. Honorary degrees will be awarded to eight individuals of distinction in varied fields, as you will note on pages 11 - 15 in this program.

The practice of sporting signs on caps and gowns as a form of public proclamation at Commencement dates to the early 1760s and recalls an even more ancient tradition, originating in the practice of medieval universities. Penn’s archives contain several 18th century broadsides, printed in Latin, which were distributed to Commencement guests along with the regular programs. The broadsides contain a series of propositions classified under various academic headings. Presumably, the graduating students were willing to defend these theses against any assertions to the contrary. On the eve of the Revolution, however, statements such as “the rights of the people are as divine as the rights of their rulers” must have met with widespread sympathy.

ACADEMIC CEREMONY AND REGALIA

Commencement exercises at American universities and colleges traditionally are composed of three essential elements: the Academic Procession, the conferring of degrees, and the Commencement address. This practice has been codified since 1895, when a national conference on academic costume and ceremony was proposed and a plan known initially as the “Intercollegiate System” was formally adopted. The Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania incorporated this code into the Statutes of the University in November 1896. Now under the aegis of the American Council on Education, the “Academic Costume Code and Academic Ceremony Guide” was revised in 1932 and 1960.* Throughout the 20th century, and today Commencement at Penn has, with minor modifications, followed the dictates of the code and its revisions.

By 1896, however, Penn had been granting degrees for nearly 140 years. Like other American colonial colleges, Penn borrowed its 18th century commencement rituals directly from the English universities. In England the history of academic dress reaches back to the early days of the oldest schools. As early as the second half of the 14th century, the statutes of certain colleges prohibited “excess in apparel” and required the wearing of a long gown. It is still an open question as to whether academic dress finds its sources chiefly in ecclesiastical or in civilian dress. It is often suggested that gowns and hoods were the simplest, most effective method of staying warm in the unheated, stone buildings that housed medieval scholars. In any case, academic regalia had evolved to contemporary familiarity by the time Benjamin Franklin was awarded an honorary Doctor of Laws by the University of St. Andrews in 1759.

TRADITIONS AND CURRENT PRACTICE AT PENN

In April 1887, on the recommendation of a committee of the faculty, the Trustees adopted the “‘Pennsylvania’ System of Academic Costume.” The colors and trimmings of hoods and caps were regularized according to faculty and degree. Beginning with the Commencement of 1887, the “‘Pennsylvania’ System” was published in each year’s program and adherence to its rules was expected of trustees, faculty, and students alike. Beginning in 1896, the “‘Pennsylvania’ System” was superseded by the “Intercollegiate System,” which has continued in effect to the present time.

The gowns used in American academic ceremonies vary according to the highest degree awarded to the wearer. The gown for the bachelor’s degree has pointed sleeves; it is designed to be worn closed. The gown for the master’s degree has an oblong sleeve, open at the wrist. The sleeve base hangs down in the traditional manner. The rear part of its oblong shape is square cut and the front has an arc cut away. The master’s gown may be worn open or closed. The doctoral gown is a more elaborate costume faced down the front with black velvet and across the sleeves with three bars of the same; these facings and crossbars may be of velvet of the color distinctive to the field of study to which the degree pertains. The doctoral gown has bell-shaped sleeves and may be worn open or closed. Some institutions have authorized doctoral gowns in colors other than the customary black; holders of the University of Pennsylvania doctorate may wear red and blue gowns.

The hoods are lined in silk with the official color or colors of the college or university which granted the highest degree held by the wearer; more than one color is shown by division of the field color in a variety of ways, such as by chevron or chevrons. The binding or edging of the hood is in velvet, with widths of two inches, three inches, and five inches for the bachelor’s, master’s, and doctoral degrees, respectively. The color of the border indicates the field of study to which the degree pertains. University of Pennsylvania graduates wear a hood lined in red with a blue chevron. The mortarboard cap is standard, though soft square-topped caps are permissible. Recipients of doctorates may wear a gold tassel fastened to the middle point of the top of the cap; all others wear black.

Degrees shall be conferred today according to the following order:

Arts & Letters, white
Science, golden yellow
Business Administration, mustard
Nursing, apricot
Medicine, green
Law, purple
Fine Arts (including Design), brown
Dental Medicine, lilac
Veterinary Medicine, gray
Education, light blue
Social Work, citron
Philosophy, dark blue

ACADEMIC PROCESSION

The order for today's Academic Procession is as follows:

Mace Bearer
President and Provost
Chair of the Board of Trustees
Commencement Speaker

Candidates for Honorary Degrees
Deans
Trustees
Officers of the University Faculty
Overseers
Visiting Dignitaries

UNIVERSITY MACE

The Secretary of the University carries the University mace, the symbol of authority of the University, at the head of the Academic Procession. It was a gift of the family of William Murray Gordon, M.D. 1910. It is adorned with the seal and arms of the University, the Penn and Franklin coats-of-arms, a depiction of the Rittenhouse Orrery, and a thistle symbolizing the early ties of the University with Scotland.

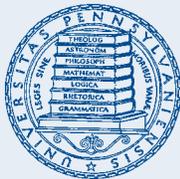

PRESIDENT'S BADGE OF OFFICE

The President wears as a badge of office a silver medallion of which one face is engraved, like the mace, with the University seal. The obverse of the President's medal bears the "orrery seal," designed in 1782 by Francis Hopkinson, A.B. 1757, a signer of the Declaration of Independence. The medal, suspended on a chain composed of silver links, was given by the late Trustee Thomas Sovereign Gates, Jr., A.B. 1928, LL.D. 1956, on the occasion of Sheldon Hackney's inauguration as President in October 1981.

UNIVERSITY SEAL AND SYMBOLS

SEAL OF THE CORPORATION

The Trustees of the University have an official seal that is, in effect, the signature of the Corporation. It had its origin at a meeting of the Board of Trustees in 1755 with Benjamin Franklin as Chairman. Though the seal underwent changes over the years, the most recent design, approved in 1932 and adopted in 1933, returned it to virtually its original form.

The seal is composed of seven books stacked on a slanted desktop, with the books bearing the following titles, representing the curricula of the day: Theolog, Astronom, Philosoph, Mathemat, Logica, Rhetorica, Grammatica. On the periphery of the stack of books appears the University motto, Leges Sine Moribus Vanæ, and the whole is encircled with the inscription Universitatis Pennsylvaniaensis.

MOTTO: LEGES SINE MORIBUS VANAE

The motto of the University, Leges Sine Moribus Vanæ, means "Laws without morals are useless." It comes from the longer quotation from Horace, "Quid leges sine moribus vanæ proficiunt?" the sense of which is "Of what avail are empty laws without (good) morals?"

PENN COAT-OF-ARMS

The Penn coat-of-arms was derived by combining the coat of arms of Benjamin Franklin and that of William Penn's family. The dolphin on the red chief was part of Franklin's coat-of-arms and the three silver plates on a blue chevron were a part of Penn's. The two were combined on a white shield along with two open volumes representing the University's educational purpose.

SCHOOL COLORS

Eighteenth century American academic institutions did not have colors. The earliest known representation of the combined Penn colors, red and blue, is on the incised lid of the 1871 College Hall cornerstone.

One legend traces their origins to an early track meet at Saratoga, New York, between Penn, Harvard, and Yale. When asked by the officials what colors would be representing the Penn team, the Pennsylvania captain reportedly replied, "We're going to be wearing the colors of the teams we beat," i.e., Harvard Crimson and Yale Blue. We shall assume that Penn was victorious and thus remained loyal to the Red and Blue.

* This and additional material which follows is taken from "An Academic Costume Code and Academic Ceremony Guide" in American Council on Education, American Universities and Colleges, 14th ed. (New York: Walter de Gruyter, 1992).

SCHOOL OF ARTS AND SCIENCES (1755)

The School of Arts and Sciences (SAS) is the direct descendant of the College of Philadelphia, where Benjamin Franklin established the first modern arts and sciences curriculum in the English colonies. Undergraduate programs for men date to the chartering of the College in 1755; the College of Liberal Arts for Women was founded in 1933. The Graduate School was established in 1882 with the appointment of a Faculty of Philosophy. The College of Liberal and Professional Studies (lifelong learning) traces its roots to 1892. The School of Arts and Sciences was born in 1974 with the merger of the College of Arts and Sciences, the College for Women, the Graduate School, and four social science departments from Wharton. Today SAS is the largest of the University's 12 schools, providing a liberal arts education for all Penn undergraduates and supporting graduate studies, basic research, and continuing education across the full range of the humanities, natural sciences, and social sciences. The School has 27 departments with 516 standing faculty, 25 research centers, four interschool institutes, and 10,000 students.

PERELMAN SCHOOL OF MEDICINE (1765)

Established in 1765 as the nation's first medical school, what is now known as the Raymond and Ruth Perelman School of Medicine at the University of Pennsylvania continues a rich tradition of providing the nation's best medical training and education, with service to its community as a cornerstone. Today, the school, which has been named to the top five medical schools in the nation by U.S. News and World Report for the past 20 consecutive years, honors its longstanding commitment to advancing knowledge and improving health close to home and across the world through research, patient care, and the education of trainees in an inclusive culture that embraces diversity. More than 780 students are pursuing medical degrees in the Perelman School, and over 600 are studying toward doctorates in biomedical sciences, with nearly 200 more enrolled in joint MD/PhD programs. Across the school's affiliated hospitals, 1,300 residents and fellows are completing their medical training. Over the past decade, the Perelman School of Medicine has consistently been ranked among the top recipients of research funding from the National Institutes of Health.

LAW SCHOOL (1790)

Penn's engagement in legal education began in 1790 with a series of lectures to President Washington and his cabinet by James Wilson, the University's first law professor, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, and one of the original justices of the Supreme Court of the United States. A formal program of instruction in law was established in 1850 under George Sharswood, and innovative legal education has been part of the Penn fabric since that time. Today, Penn Law provides a cross-disciplinary, globally-focused legal education taught by preeminent scholars, approximately 70 percent of whom hold advanced degrees in fields in addition to law. Students augment the teaching provided by Penn Law faculty with classes taken — and certificates of study and joint degrees earned — in sister schools and departments throughout the University. In the 2018-2019 academic year, Penn Law has over 900 students and 67 full-time faculty. Penn Law awards five degrees: the Juris Doctor; Master of Laws for internationally trained lawyers; Master of Comparative Laws; Doctor of Juridical Science; and a Master in Law for non-lawyers.

SCHOOL OF ENGINEERING AND APPLIED SCIENCE (1852)

The School of Engineering and Applied Science is one of the oldest in the United States, tracing its beginnings to the establishment of the School of Mines, Arts and Manufactures in 1852. The first graduate of the School received a Bachelor of Science degree in 1854. For the past 150 years, engineering has been a vibrant and collaborative community of innovation at Penn. Our world-acclaimed faculty, state-of-the-art research laboratories and highly interdisciplinary curricula offer an experience for our students that is unparalleled. From the time ENIAC, the world's first computer, was developed and introduced on campus in 1946, Penn Engineering has continued a tradition of leadership and cutting-edge research. Innovation and technology drive our every program and Penn Engineers play a critical role in posing and answering the questions that will improve lives and transform our world. The Penn Engineering community consists of 131 standing faculty, approximately 2,000 undergraduate students, 1,900 graduate students and 13 research centers and institutes.

STUART WEITZMAN SCHOOL OF DESIGN (1869)

Although the School of Design dates its founding from 1890, architecture courses were first offered at the University of Pennsylvania in 1869, making Penn's architecture program the second oldest in the United States. In 1921, the Department of Architecture joined with the Department of Music and Fine Arts to create an independent undergraduate School of Fine Arts modeled on the French École des Beaux Arts. In 1958, the School was renamed the Graduate School of Fine Arts, reflecting the shift to graduate degree offerings in architecture, city and regional planning, landscape architecture, and fine arts. In the 1980s, a program in historic preservation was added. To more accurately capture the School's sphere of influence, it was renamed the School of Design in 2003. In recognition of both his lifetime philanthropic support of Penn and his active engagement with its academic activities, the School was named for award-winning designer and footwear icon

Stuart Weitzman, W'63, in 2019. Today, with a standing faculty of 43, approximately 170 lecturers and associated faculty, and more than 700 students, the School prepares students to address complex sociocultural and environmental issues through thoughtful inquiry, creative expression, and innovation.

SCHOOL OF DENTAL MEDICINE (1878)

Established in 1878 as the Dental Department of the University of Pennsylvania, the School of Dental Medicine is among the oldest university-affiliated dental institutions in the country with a history deeply rooted in forging precedents in dental education, research, and patient care. In 1897, Thomas W. Evans, a Philadelphia native and clinician who spent most of his life in France as the dentist to European nobility, left his estate to create a dental school that was “second to none.” Evans’ bequest would become one with the University, creating the Thomas W. Evans Museum and Dental Institute, which opened in 1915. Today, the Evans Building remains the site of much of the School’s clinical instruction. The dental campus also includes the Robert Schattner Center and the Leon Levy Center for Oral Health Research, home to the basic sciences and extensive research activities. Penn Dental Medicine is a major provider of care in West Philadelphia and through outreach programs, students log nearly 13,100 hours each year serving approximately 15,200 residents in the surrounding Philadelphia neighborhoods. Penn Dental Medicine offers the degrees of Doctor of Dental Medicine, Master of Science in Oral Biology, Doctor of Science in Dentistry and trains postdoctoral students in endodontics, oral medicine, oral and maxillofacial surgery, orthodontics, pediatric dentistry, periodontics, periodontics/orthodontics, periodontal/prosthesis and prosthodontics. In the 2018-2019 academic year, Penn Dental Medicine has 594 DMD students, 117

Post-Doctoral Students, 11 of which are enrolled in the Doctor of Science in Dentistry with Certificate and 31 of which are in the Master of Science in Oral Biology Program with Certificate, four are in the Doctor of Science in Dentistry stand-alone program and 17 postdoctoral researchers. Penn Dental Medicine has 425 faculty members, including 48 standing faculty.

WHARTON SCHOOL (1881)

Founded in 1881 as the world’s first collegiate business school, the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania is shaping the future of business by incubating ideas, driving insights, and creating leaders who change the world. With a faculty of more than 235 renowned professors, Wharton has 5,000 undergraduate, MBA, executive MBA and doctoral students. Each year 18,000 professionals from around the world advance their careers through Wharton Executive Education’s individual, company-customized, and online programs. More than 98,000 Wharton alumni form a powerful global network of leaders who transform business every day.

SCHOOL OF VETERINARY MEDICINE (1884)

Ranked among the top 10 veterinary schools worldwide, the University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine (Penn Vet) is a global leader in veterinary education, research, and clinical care. Founded in 1884, Penn Vet is the first veterinary school developed in association with a medical school. The School is a proud member of the One Health initiative, linking human, animal, and environmental health. Penn Vet serves a diverse population of animals at its two campuses, which include extensive diagnostic and research laboratories. Ryan Hospital in Philadelphia provides care for dogs, cats, and other domestic/companion animals, handling nearly 35,300 patient visits a year. New Bolton Center, Penn Vet’s large-animal hospital on nearly 700 acres in rural Kennett Square, PA, cares for horses and livestock/farm animals. The hospital handles nearly 5,300 patient visits a year, while the Field Service treats more than 38,000 patients at local farms. In addition, New Bolton Center’s campus includes a swine center, working dairy, and poultry unit that provide valuable research for the agriculture industry.

GRADUATE SCHOOL OF EDUCATION (1914)

The University of Pennsylvania Graduate School of Education (Penn GSE) is one of the nation’s premier schools of education, consistently producing top-ranked researchers and educational leaders. The University of Pennsylvania created its first professorship in education in 1894 and established the full-fledged School of Education in 1914. The School’s first graduating class in 1915 comprised three women and three men, who received the School’s first Bachelor of Science in Education degrees. In 1961, the School was restructured and renamed the Graduate School of Education. Penn GSE launched an Administrative Leadership Program in 1971 to prepare school administrators for creative and dynamic leadership. This was the first in a long line of successful leadership programs. Today, Penn GSE offers thirty-five programs leading to the PhD, EdD, MPhil Ed, and MS Ed degrees in more than thirty fields of education. Reflecting a deep commitment to urban education, Penn GSE’s students and researchers are involved in schools across every catchment area of the School District of Philadelphia, including robust partnerships with two West Philadelphia schools. Penn GSE is also home to the Milken-Penn GSE Education Business Plan Competition, intended to spark innovations that improve education by bringing together entrepreneurs and funders for sustained collaboration. No other education school enjoys a university environment as supportive of practical knowledge building as Penn GSE.

SCHOOL OF NURSING (1935)

Nursing Education at Penn began in 1886 when the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania started a nurse training program. In 1935, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania established a nursing degree program within the School of Education, and in 1950 the School of Nursing was established. The Master of Science in Nursing program was instituted in 1961, the Doctor of Nursing Science program in 1978, the Doctor of Philosophy program in 1984, and the Doctor of Nursing Practice program in 2016. These innovations and a curriculum which progressively reflects changing health care delivery patterns have advanced the School into the first rank of American schools of nursing. The School has two departments, Biobehavioral Health Sciences and Family and Community Health. It is widely recognized for its leadership in nursing research in the areas of health outcomes and policy research, nursing history, biobehavioral health sciences, global women's health, health equity, aging, and transitions in health. It also has a global reputation for innovations in nurse-managed clinical practice and is a World Health Organization Collaborating Center for Nursing and Midwifery Leadership. The School of Nursing has 59 standing faculty and 1,330 students.

SCHOOL OF SOCIAL POLICY & PRACTICE (1948)

The School of Social Policy & Practice began in 1908 as a private school that opened its doors to five students in the field of child welfare. The School affiliated itself with the University in 1935 and became a formal school in 1948. In 2005, it changed its name from the School of Social Work to the School of Social Policy & Practice. The School offers the Master of Social Work, Master of Science in Nonprofit Leadership, Master of Science in Social Policy, Doctor of Philosophy in Social Welfare, and Doctor of Social Work degrees. The School is devoted to advancing human welfare, promoting social justice, and developing effective societal responses to global human need. Building on the School's century-long commitment to social work and social change, the School educates clinicians, policymakers, scholars, researchers, and leaders who work to advance the human welfare of local, national, and global communities. The School houses a number of research centers and programs, including: Center for High Impact Philanthropy; Center for Mental Health and Aging; Center for Social Impact Strategy; Field Center for Children's Policy Practice and Research; Ortner Center on Violence & Abuse in Relationships; Actionable Intelligence for Social Policy (AISP); Annual Homelessness Assessment Report; Curiosity@Penn; Critical Policy Studies; Health Ecologies Lab; Penn Restorative Entrepreneurship Program; Program for Religion and Social Policy Research; SexGen Policy Lab; Social Impact of the Arts Project; Social Justice and Arts Integration Initiative; Goldring Re-entry Initiative; Ann Nolan Reese Penn Aging Concentration; Child Well-Being & Child Welfare Specialization; Criminal Justice Specialization; Social Work in Healthcare Specialization; and Cohen Veterans Network MSW Scholars Program. The School has 27 standing faculty and 555 students.

ANNENBERG SCHOOL FOR COMMUNICATION (1959)

Founded through the generosity and vision of diplomat and philanthropist Walter Annenberg, the Annenberg School for Communication (ASC) at the University of Pennsylvania is devoted to furthering our understanding of the role of communication in public life through research, education, and service. At the School's founding, Ambassador Annenberg identified its unique mission: "Every human advancement or reversal can be understood through communication. The right to free communication carries with it responsibility to respect the dignity of others — and this must be recognized as irreversible. Educating students to effectively communicate this message and to be of service to all people is the enduring mission of this school." With strengths in health communication, political communication, culture and communication, media institutions, digital media, visual communication, and global communication, ASC is ranked as the top communication school in the nation. The Annenberg School has 19 standing faculty members, 30 additional research and teaching faculty and associates, more than 80 graduate students, and nearly 200 undergraduate Communication majors. The School offers the degree of Doctor of Philosophy as well as a Bachelor of Arts major run through the College of Arts and Sciences. The School is home to the Annenberg Public Policy Center; Center for Media at Risk; Center for Advanced Research in Global Communication; Communication Neuroscience Lab; Network Dynamics Group; Institute for the Study of Citizens and Politics; Media, Inequality and Change Center; Center for Health Behavior and Communication Research; and Institute for Public Service, among many other projects pursuing innovative communication research and teaching.

HONORARY DEGREE CITATIONS

JON BON JOVI

Ever the consummate “front man” for your eponymous band Bon Jovi, over four decades you have commanded the world’s largest musical venues, performing in over 50 countries before 37 million fans. In your highly-participatory concerts, you lead the choruses of Bon Jovi’s much-loved anthems – accompanied by 60,000 exuberant backup singers. It all appears nearly effortless, yet you have said that you still practice your craft every day. Your lifelong determination for growth and improvement drives your music, as well as your efforts to serve your community.

A native of Sayreville, New Jersey, you embarked on your career as a musician, singer-songwriter, producer, and actor as a young recording studio “go-fer.” Persistent, optimistic, and always willing to take a chance, you formed Bon Jovi in 1983, going on to earn a place as one of the world’s best-selling musical groups, with over 130 million albums sold. Your most recent album—your 13th!—This House Is Not for Sale, debuted at the top of the Billboard chart, and a huge world tour is now underway. A member of the Songwriters Hall of Fame and recipient of Grammy, American Music, and Golden Globe awards, your election to the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame in 2018 affirmed the admiration of your peers and your tremendous influence on popular music.

Though your career has often kept you far from home, you have always remained close to your roots. In 2006, moved to action when seeing firsthand a homeless Philadelphian’s desperate circumstances, you founded the Jon Bon Jovi Soul Foundation, dedicated to supporting innovative efforts to break the cycle of poverty and homelessness. The Soul Foundation works to meet the needs of the community in partnerships to support temporary shelters, transitional housing for teens, permanent supportive housing (including for veterans and special needs populations), and home ownership opportunities.

In 2011, recognizing the impossibility of separating twin issues of poverty – housing and hunger – you and your wife, Dorothea, debuted the JBJ Soul Kitchen community restaurant in Red Bank, New Jersey. The pay-it-forward model serves in-need and paying customers with dignity and encourages their active participation through volunteer service. In the aftermath of Hurricane Sandy the next year, a second location in Toms River opened. The restaurants have since served over 90,000 meals, and during this year’s federal government shutdown, furloughed workers were invited to dine free of charge as well.

Among many awards in recognition of your hands-on engagement for the benefit of your community, in 2010, President Barack Obama appointed you to the White House Council for Community Solutions. In 2014, you received Philadelphia’s Marian Anderson Award acknowledging your extraordinary service.

For your boundless energy and passion bringing the joy of music to millions and offering service on behalf of the wellbeing of all in your community, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Jon Bon Jovi, the degree of Doctor of Music, honoris causa.

TEMPLE GRANDIN

Over four decades ago, you first spoke publicly about your life with autism. Your profound insights and self-observations, and then advocacy, set science on a better path of understanding. Continuing now, at over 100 events each year, thousands of fans, many on their own journey with autism, and their families, gather to meet you and hear your pragmatic encouragement and counsel. You aim to respond to every question, every letter that you receive. You offer inspiration – and a roadmap. Instead of a spectrum of autism, you urge us to think of everyone abiding on a human spectrum, free to be ourselves, complete with strengths and challenges.

Diagnosed while a young child in Boston, you credit early intervention and your parents’ and teachers’ support as factors in your success. On your way to a unique career as a scientist, inventor, teacher, and author, you drew on your extraordinary tenacity and concentration, ability to solve problems as a visual, photographic thinker, and your deep connection with animals. Your dedication and perseverance in meeting obstacles head-on led to degrees from Franklin Pierce College and Arizona State University and culminated with a Doctorate in Animal Science at the University of Illinois-Urbana.

Today, you are Professor of Animal Science at Colorado State University and the founder of your own firm consulting on humane animal treatment and livestock facilities design. You are renowned for methods to reduce stress for animals, and your expertise has been sought worldwide by farms, animal parks, and even sheep shearers in New Zealand. Over half of the cattle of North America are handled in stress-reducing facilities of your design. You freely offer that your contributions would have been impossible without the qualities imparted by your autism.

Many learned about your remarkable career through the award-winning HBO film, Temple Grandin. You are also the author of over 400 articles and 15 best-selling books, including your memoir Thinking in Pictures, autobiography Emergence: Labeled Autistic, and works such as Animals Make Us Human. In 2018's Calling All Minds, you combined personal history, inventors' stories, and intriguing projects to show young people that there is no one way to approach any problem – but that keeping an open, inquisitive mind is the key.

For your great achievements, you have received many honors, including awards from the Autism Society of America, the American Society of Animal Science, the American Veterinary Medical Association, and the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. You are also a member of the National Women's Hall of Fame and the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and a fellow of the American Society of Agricultural and Biological Engineers.

For your inspiring example and groundbreaking advocacy urging better understanding and support for unique, inquisitive minds of every kind and for advancing methods for the humane treatment of animals, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Temple Grandin, the degree of Doctor of Sciences, honoris causa.

RICHARD GREEN LUGAR*
(April 4, 1932- April 28, 2019)

In 36 years as a United States Senator, you never sought the limelight. Your colleagues and constituents, however, understood and respected the strength of your convictions, dedication, and leadership. Throughout your remarkable career, you have promoted American and world stability and prosperity on critical issues of global food security, nuclear non-proliferation, foreign policy, and trade.

A fifth generation Hoosier and U.S. Navy veteran, you graduated from Denison University. After study as a Rhodes Scholar, you managed your family's food production equipment business. Your political career began at the grassroots level as an Indianapolis School Commissioner, then two terms as the mayor of Indianapolis, where your plan to unify city-county government led to unprecedented economic growth.

First elected to the Senate in 1977 and always a proud Republican, for decades you would reach across the aisle to get things done. You led 1986 legislation imposing sanctions on South Africa, which marked a turning point in our country's apartheid response. As chair of the Senate's Agriculture Committee, you built bipartisan backing for farm program reforms, biofuels research, and initiatives supporting food stamps and school lunch programs.

Long regarded as the "Statesman of the Senate," as a member and twice Chair of the Committee on Foreign Relations, you played a decisive role in approval of critical arms-control treaties. Perhaps your most significant legislation, co-sponsored with Democratic Senator Sam Nunn, is the Soviet Nuclear Threat Reduction Act of 1991, known as the Nunn-Lugar Act. With a dangerously weakening Soviet Union, a cooperative program to secure and dismantle weapons of mass destruction led to the removal of all warheads from Ukraine, Kazakhstan, and Belarus. More than 7,600 nuclear warheads once aimed at the United States were deactivated.

In 2013, you left the Senate as its most senior Republican member. Today, as President of the highly-respected Lugar Center, you continue your work, leading a nonpartisan forum fostering productive research-driven dialogue on critical global issues and bipartisan governance. You also engage new generations of leaders as a Professor of Practice and Distinguished Scholar at the School of Global and International Studies at Indiana University, Bloomington and at the University of Indianapolis.

You have received the American Foreign Service Association's Lifetime Contributions to American Diplomacy Award, the J. William Fulbright Prize for International Understanding, Germany's Grand Cross of the Order of Merit, and been named an honorary Knight Commander of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire. President Barack Obama bestowed on you the Presidential Medal of Freedom.

In recognition of your steadfast leadership over a lifetime of public service and our appreciation for your tireless work in support of the security, health, and prosperity of our country and the world, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Richard Green Lugar, the degree of Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.

DENIS MUKWEGE

The eastern Democratic Republic of the Congo is one of the most violent regions on Earth. In 2014, the United Nations named DRC the world's worst place to be a woman. Over 100 armed groups and militias terrorize civilians; tens of thousands of rapes occur there each year. You have made it your life's work to heal both your country and those harmed by its brutal warfare. By actions and advocacy, you have brought global attention to your fight for one of the most basic of human rights, freedom from violence.

As a child in Bukavu, you visited the sick with your pastor father. Inspired to become a doctor, you studied abroad, completing gynecology training and earning your medical sciences doctorate from the Université Libre de Bruxelles. Returning home, you practiced in a hospital first begun in a tent. It was attacked and destroyed in 1996, resulting in the tragic loss of friends and colleagues. Undaunted, by 1999 you had founded Panzi Hospital. Intended for maternal care, it instead quickly became a center for treating overwhelming numbers of sexual violence victims.

Despite the dangers, Panzi has remained open for over two decades, treating more than 50,000 women and children. Known as “Doctor Miracle,” you are regarded as a world-leading expert on repairing the horrific injuries of wartime rape, performing lifesaving operations each day. Panzi also devised a pioneering model to treat survivors, integrating psychological and medical care, legal assistance, literacy and skills training, and socioeconomic support.

Through the years, you became an outspoken advocate for change, human rights, and gender equality, resulting in constant threats to your safety. Speaking around the world about the devastating effects of war crimes and the hope of peace, you have been critical of your government and others for not doing enough. You also stress that “justice is everyone’s business,” calling on the international community to hold perpetrators to account and “draw a clear red line” on sexual violence as a weapon of war and armed conflict.

To expand the hospital’s efforts, you established the Panzi Foundation in 2008 and created a nurse training program to ensure quality of care. You are also the founder of the Mukwege Foundation, which seeks to raise global awareness for these issues.

It is fitting that when word arrived you had been awarded the 2018 Nobel Peace Prize, you were performing surgery. Recognized globally for your work, you have received the United Nations Human Rights Prize and Sweden’s Olof Palme Prize. In 2014, the European Parliament granted you its highest honor of Sakharov Prize Laureate. In 2016, Penn Nursing was thrilled to present you with its Renfield Foundation Award for Global Women’s Health.

For your courageous and tireless example of healing and helping the most vulnerable, and for your advocacy for human rights and an end to sexual violence, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Denis Mukwege, the degree of Doctor of Sciences, honoris causa.

LAURIE OLIN

In 1976, relatively new to the University of Pennsylvania’s School of Design, you collaborated on a ground-breaking project: design of a 25-year landscape architecture campus master plan. As it happened, you were tapped to lead this galvanizing endeavor that would set Penn apart for its beautiful campus, showcase its faculty’s incredible talents, including your own, and energize what is now the University of Pennsylvania Stuart Weitzman School of Design.

Generations of students and everyone here today have benefited from that early master plan and your continuing efforts to create one of the country’s most beautiful urban campuses. Whether strolling with friends on Locust Walk, taking in the 125 Years of Women at Penn Walkway at Hill Field, or reflecting on life from a bench on College Green, everyone finds calm and connection to the natural world and to others.

Penn and Philadelphia always remained home for you. After over 40 years’ teaching, you retired in 2017 as Practice Professor Emeritus of Landscape Architecture. The world over treasures your transformational work as one of the most exceptional landscape architects ever, and as an artist, educator, and author. To name just a fraction of your critically acclaimed, award-winning spaces of purpose: New York City’s Columbus Circle and Bryant Park; the Washington Monument grounds and National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C.; the Getty Center in Los Angeles; Apple Park in Cupertino, California; London’s Canary Wharf; and your home city’s Barnes Foundation, Independence Mall, the Philadelphia Museum of Art, Fairmount Water Works, and the Rodin Museum.

Raised in Alaska, you studied civil engineering at the University of Alaska and completed architecture studies at the University of Washington. You are the founder and principal of the highly-respected firm OLIN in Philadelphia, begun in 1995. Partnering for decades with the best-known architects, engineers, artists, and designers of your time, you are revered for your generous collaboration, mentorship, focus, and optimism. In your always popular Penn classes, you urged students to take up your own instrument of choice – a pencil – and go outside to draw and better understand the most essential elements of their work.

Through the years, many schools have enjoyed your expertise, including as Department Chair of Landscape Architecture at Harvard University, and in visiting professorships and lectures across the country. A Guggenheim Fellow and Fellow of The Athenaeum of Philadelphia and the American Academy of Rome, your innumerable awards include the 2012 National Medal of Arts, the National Building Museum’s Vincent Scully Prize, and the highest lifetime recognition of the American Society of Landscape Architecture, the Design Medal.

The author or co-author of many lyrically-titled books, your works encompass essay, memoir, theory, and history, and blend text and visual arts, from your first, 1973's Breath on the Mirror, and including Across the Open Field, Placemaking, and 2018's Be Seated.

In recognition of your visionary life's work to create uncommonly welcoming spaces that unite us in community and offer respite for the eyes and the soul, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Laurie Olin, the degree of Doctor of Arts, honoris causa.

BRYAN STEVENSON

In your critically-acclaimed bestseller, Just Mercy, you first describe yourself as a somewhat ambivalent Harvard Law student, struggling to find relevance in your studies. But during an internship at Atlanta's then Southern Prisoners Defense Committee, you experienced the realities of a prisoner condemned to death row. Your future of compassionate service became immediately clear to you. For over two decades, as a renowned lawyer and foremost advocate for social justice, you have addressed and challenged bias in the United States criminal justice system against the poor, minorities, and children. For your work's immeasurable impact for both individuals and society, you are considered one of the most transformational leaders of your generation.

Growing up in rural, mostly segregated southern Delaware, you took to heart your mother's deeply held belief in the value of education. With Philadelphia family roots, you made your way to nearby Eastern University for undergraduate studies. Then at Harvard, you pursued degrees from Harvard Law and the Harvard Kennedy School of Government.

In 1994, at 29, you founded the non-profit Equal Justice Initiative (EJI) in Montgomery, Alabama, where you are Executive Director. In 2005 and 2009, EJI won landmark U.S. Supreme Court rulings against the death penalty for juvenile offenders and life sentences for juveniles in non-homicides. Sparing over 125 prisoners from execution, EJI has succeeded in legal challenges on excessive sentencing, exonerating innocent death row prisoners, and abuse of the incarcerated.

Seeing the darkest threads of our country's past within today's criminal justice practices, you believe that we must open even our most painful chapters to the light, pushing back against those who would leave these unexamined. You urge us to engage in an open, honest narrative about slavery, lynching, and racial segregation and discrimination, so that we can move forward from, as you say, "the shadows that follow us."

Your reasoned message, given freely through your writing and public speaking, and as a Professor of Law at New York University, clearly resonates. Your 2012 TED talk, We Need to Talk About Injustice, has over 5,000,000 online views, and your outreach grows.

In 2018, EJI opened The Legacy Museum: From Enslavement to Mass Incarceration. On the site of a Montgomery warehouse once used in slave commerce, visitors examine America's history of racial injustice and its legacy in today's criminal justice system. Nearby, the National Memorial for Peace and Justice offers testament for victims of American racial terror lynchings.

Your well-deserved awards are many, including the MacArthur Foundation Fellowship, the ACLU National Medal of Liberty, and the American Bar Association Medal, its highest honor, as well as its Thurgood Marshall Award. In 2018, you received the Martin Luther King, Jr., Nonviolent Peace Prize from The King Center in Atlanta.

In recognition of your extraordinary life of hope, ceaseless dedication and service seeking justice and equality for those in need, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Bryan Stevenson, the degree of Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.

NEVILLE EARL STRUMPF

To know you is to know perseverance. After seeing firsthand the frightening, humiliating, and then-common practice of restraining older patients in care, you set out to see what you could do. Then came two decades of work with research partner and Penn nursing peer Dr. Lois Evans to establish a scientific basis for restraint-free care. You published research, testified before Congress, and tirelessly advocated with professional organizations and regulatory agencies. By 2000, restraint-free care was widely recognized as the standard of practice, a revolution in the care of older adults.

You joined Penn Nursing in 1982, after receiving your doctoral degree at New York University, and soon began to make your mark. Through your leadership, Penn Nursing was among the first to integrate gerontology into the undergraduate curriculum. For 15 years, you directed the School's top-ranked Gerontology Nurse Practitioner Program, a model for other schools. You founded and directed the School's Center of Gerontologic Nursing Research and its John A. Hartford Foundation Center of Geriatric Nursing Excellence. Your interdisciplinary research also addresses clinical and social issues of end-of-life care, fall prevention, and access to services.

A consummate University citizen, you lent guidance through active participation in and leadership of dozens of committees and panels. You chaired the Faculty Senates of both Penn Nursing and the University, led the Penn Association of Senior and Emeritus Faculty, and served on the Trustees Council of Penn Women Advisory Board. As Interim Dean of the School, you advanced strategic initiatives and Penn Nursing's reputation for scholarship. Though you retired as Professor of Nursing in 2008, your Penn engagement has not dimmed.

The impact of your outreach is immeasurable. You are famed for your generous mentorship of students and peers, continuing to coordinate the school's Faculty Mentorship Program and participate in strategic planning. You have been a prolific author, award-winning educator, peer reviewer for leading journals, and for decades consulted internationally with hospitals and health systems, agencies, nursing homes, and family caregivers to improve care for older adults.

You remain passionately connected with quality of life concerns of older adults, including board membership on the Mercy Life West Philadelphia PACE Program and as Board President of Ralston Center, a provider of services to older adults in West Philadelphia. You also offer your service as a national Senior Evaluator for the Hartford Foundation Geriatric Nursing Center of Excellence Program.

Named an Honorary Alumna of Penn Nursing, you are a fellow of the American Academy of Nursing and the Gerontological Society of America. Other recognitions include Penn's Lindback Award for Distinguished Teaching and its Claire M. Fagin Distinguished Researcher Award, and election to the Nurse Researcher Hall of Fame by Sigma Theta Tau International.

For your pioneering scholarship and dedication as an educator transforming both standards of care and quality of life for older adults, and for your decades of enthusiastic service to the University community, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Neville Earl Strumpf, the degree of Doctor of Sciences, honoris causa.

JILL CORNELL TARTER

For time beyond measure, humans have looked up to the sky and asked: "Are we alone? What would it mean if we knew the answer?" For all but a sliver of human existence, we could do no more than wonder. However, seizing the opportunities of technological advances unimaginable to earlier generations, you have made it your life's work to seek our answer – in a message from the stars.

You were adamantly drawn to the sciences early in your education, supported by your family even as you were actively discouraged by teachers. As an engineering undergraduate at Cornell University, you were often the only woman in the classroom. Undaunted, you were drawn to male-dominated fields of astronomy and then radio astronomy, earning your master's and Ph.D. at the University of California, Berkeley. Your interests soon connected you with like-minded colleagues curious to search what has been called a "cosmic haystack" for signals from an advanced civilization seeking us.

A pathbreaker, you served as a Project Scientist for NASA's SETI (Search for Extraterrestrial Intelligence) program. When governmental funding was scarce or even terminated, you learned how to stitch together funding sources and helped compose the charter for the SETI Institute in Mountain View, California. In your career spanning over four decades, you have conducted numerous observational programs at radio observatories worldwide and worked to design and build California's Allen Telescope Array. Scouring millions of radio frequencies and analyzing resulting data, there have been a few moments of breath-catching excitement when a captured signal was not immediately diagnosed as "earth noise." Efforts have not paid off – yet – and you are determined that the search continues.

Your work was introduced to the public when actor Jodie Foster portrayed a character inspired by you in the 1997 film Contact, from the book by your friend Carl Sagan. Throughout your career, you have proudly served as an inspirational role model for generations of women pursuing careers in the sciences. Retiring in 2012, you are now Emeritus Chair for SETI Research at the SETI Institute, lecturing worldwide on behalf of expansion of research and continued funding for SETI, and for strong fundamental science education for all.

In recognition of your achievements, you were named one of Time's 25 Most Influential People in Space, a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and were awarded a Lifetime Achievement Award by Women in Aerospace. Upon winning the Ted Prize in 2009, your wish was to draw others into SETI through innovative ideas like open sourcing so that "citizen scientists" could participate in the search. Moreover, the Asteroid 74824 Tarter was named in your honor.

For your steadfast dedication and enthusiasm in the quest to listen in on the stars and to magnify our understanding of what it means to be human beings, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Jill Cornell Tarter, the degree of Doctor of Sciences, honoris causa.

As final action cannot always be taken by the time this program goes to press, these lists of degree and prize recipients are tentative only. The appearance of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person has received a degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Conversely, the absence of a student's name herein does not necessarily mean that the person has not been awarded a Penn degree. The student's transcript is the official record of the University.

As final action cannot always be taken by the time this program goes to press, these lists of degree and prize recipients are tentative only. The appearance of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person has received a degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Conversely, the absence of a student's name herein does not necessarily mean that the person has not been awarded a Penn degree. The student's transcript is the official record of the University.

As final action cannot always be taken by the time this program goes to press, these lists of degree and prize recipients are tentative only. The appearance of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person has received a degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Conversely, the absence of a student's name herein does not necessarily mean that the person has not been awarded a Penn degree. The student's transcript is the official record of the University.
