

UNIVERSITY of PENNSYLVANIA

264th COMMENCEMENT

May 22, 2022 | Class of 2020

Keeping Franklin's Promise

In the words of one elegiac tribute, "Great men have two lives: one which occurs while they work on this earth; a second which begins at the day of their death and continues as long as their ideas and conceptions remain powerful."

These words befit the great Benjamin Franklin, whose inventions, innovations, ideas, writings, and public works continue to shape our thinking and renew the Republic he helped to create and the institutions he founded, including the University of Pennsylvania.

Nowhere does Franklin feel more contemporary, more revolutionary, and more alive than at the University of Pennsylvania. His startling vision of a secular, nonsectarian Academy that would foster an "Inclination join'd with an Ability to serve Mankind, one's Country, Friends and Family" has never ceased to challenge Penn to redefine the scope and mission of the modern American university.

When pursued vigorously and simultaneously, the two missions –developing the inclination to do good and the ability to do well –merge to help form a more perfect university that educates more capable citizens for our democracy.

Penn has embodied and advanced Franklin's revolutionary vision for nearly three centuries. Throughout its history, Penn has extended the frontiers of higher learning and research to produce graduates and scholars whose work has enriched the nation and all of humanity.

The modern liberal arts curriculum as we know it can trace its roots to Franklin's innovation to have Penn students study international commerce and foreign languages.

The first medical and business schools in the United States were launched here.

And the first general-purpose electronic, digital computer –ENIAC –was invented right here at the University of Pennsylvania.

The entire Penn family, including our 330,000 alumni world-wide, shares our commitment to grow inclusion by building a diverse community for living, learning, and service; to spark innovation by inspiring inventive thinking across disciplines; and to accelerate impact by sharing the benefits of new knowledge and discoveries through active engagement with our local and global communities.

Today, Penn proudly graduates a class that has shown the intelligence, drive, integrity, and character to become engaged citizens who will serve humanity with distinction. Our Penn graduates are poised to take their place as productive democratic citizens and as just and humane stewards of our world.

In these challenging and perilous times, a world in need of young people who are willing to shoulder the moral responsibilities of leadership can look to Penn.

Franklin wrote: "We may make these times better if we bestir ourselves. The noblest question in the world is 'What good may I do in it?'"

The answer to this question will be furnished by Franklin's newest heirs, the graduates of 2020.

THE NATIONAL ANTHEM

Oh, say, can you see, by the dawn's early light,
What so proudly we hailed at the twilight's last gleaming?
Whose broad stripes and bright stars, thro' the perilous fight
O'er the ramparts we watched, were so gallantly streaming.
And the rockets' red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there.
Oh, say, does that star-spangled banner yet wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave?

THE RED AND BLUE

By William J. Goeckel, Class of 1896, and Harry E. Westervelt, Class of 1898
Come all ye loyal classmates now, in hall and campus through,
Lift up your hearts and voices for the royal Red and Blue.
Fair Harvard has her crimson, old Yale her colors too,
But for dear Pennsylvania, we wear the Red and Blue.
(Chorus)
Hurrah! Hurrah! Pennsylvania!
Hurrah for the Red and the Blue;
Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!
Hurrah for the Red and the Blue.

RECESSIONAL

Academic Regalia and Traditions

May 18, 2020 – the University of Pennsylvania's 264th Commencement. President Amy Gutmann conferred bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degrees upon some 6,000 graduates of the University's 12 schools. Honorary degrees were awarded to eight individuals of distinction in varied fields, as you will note on pages 10 - 14 in this program.

The practice of sporting signs on caps and gowns as a form of public proclamation at Commencement dates to the early 1760s and recalls an even more ancient tradition, originating in the practice of medieval universities. Penn's archives contain several 18th century broadsides, printed in Latin, which were distributed to Commencement guests along with the regular programs. The broadsides contain a series of propositions classified under various academic headings. Presumably, the graduating students were willing to defend these theses against any assertions to the contrary. On the eve of the Revolution, however, statements such as "the rights of the people are as divine as the rights of their rulers" must have met with widespread sympathy.

ACADEMIC CEREMONY AND REGALIA

Commencement exercises at American universities and colleges traditionally are composed of three essential elements: the Academic Procession, the conferring of degrees, and the Commencement address. This practice has been codified since 1895, when a national conference on academic costume and ceremony was proposed and a plan known initially as the "Intercollegiate System" was formally adopted. The Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania incorporated this code into the Statutes of the University in November 1896. Now under the aegis of the American Council on Education, the "Academic Costume Code and Academic Ceremony Guide" was revised in 1932 and 1960.* Throughout the 20th century, and today, Commencement at Penn has, with minor modifications, followed the dictates of the code and its revisions. By 1896, however, Penn had been granting degrees for nearly 140 years. Like other American colonial colleges, Penn borrowed its 18th century commencement rituals directly from the English universities. In England the history of academic dress reaches back to the early days of the oldest schools. As early as the second half of the 14th century, the statutes of certain colleges prohibited "excess in apparel" and required the wearing of a long gown. It is still an open question as to whether academic dress finds its sources chiefly in ecclesiastical or in civilian dress. It is often suggested that gowns and hoods were the simplest, most effective method of staying warm in the unheated, stone buildings that housed medieval scholars. In any case, academic regalia had evolved to contemporary familiarity by the time Benjamin Franklin was awarded an honorary Doctor of Laws by the University of St. Andrews in 1759.

TRADITIONS AND CURRENT PRACTICE AT PENN

In April 1887, on the recommendation of a committee of the faculty, the Trustees adopted the "'Pennsylvania' System of Academic Costume." The colors and trimmings of hoods and caps were regularized according to faculty and degree. Beginning with the Commencement of 1887, the "'Pennsylvania' System" was published in each year's program and adherence to its rules was expected of trustees, faculty, and students alike. Beginning in 1896, the "'Pennsylvania' System" was superseded by the "Intercollegiate System," which has continued in effect to the present time.

The gowns used in American academic ceremonies vary according to the highest degree awarded to the wearer. The gown for the bachelor's degree has pointed sleeves; it is designed to be worn closed. The gown for the master's degree has an oblong sleeve, open at the wrist. The sleeve base hangs down in the traditional manner. The rear part of its oblong shape is square cut and the front has an arc cut away. The master's gown may be worn open or closed. The doctoral gown is a more elaborate costume faced down the front with black velvet and across the sleeves with three bars of the same; these facings and crossbars may be of velvet of the color distinctive to the field of study to which the degree pertains. The doctoral gown has bell-shaped sleeves and may be worn open or closed. Some institutions have authorized doctoral gowns in colors other than the customary black; holders of the University of Pennsylvania doctorate may wear red and blue gowns.

The hoods are lined in silk with the official color or colors of the college or university which granted the highest degree held by the wearer; more than one color is shown by division of the field color in a variety of ways, such as by chevron or chevrons. The binding or edging of the hood is in velvet, with widths of two inches, three inches, and five inches for the bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degrees, respectively. The color of the border indicates the field of study to which the degree pertains. University of Pennsylvania graduates wear a hood lined in red with a blue chevron. The mortarboard cap is standard, though soft square-topped caps are permissible. Recipients of doctorates may wear a gold tassel fastened to the middle point of the top of the cap; all others wear black.

Degrees shall be conferred today according to the following order:

Arts & Letters, white
 Science, golden yellow
 Business Administration, mustard
 Nursing, apricot

ACADEMIC PROCESSION

The order for today's Academic Procession is as follows:

Mace Bearer
 Interim President and Interim Provost
 Chair, Board of Trustees
 Ceremony Speaker

Deans
 Trustees
 Officers of the University Faculty Advisors

UNIVERSITY MACE

The Secretary of the University carries the University mace, the symbol of authority of the University, at the head of the Academic Procession. It was a gift of the family of William Murray Gordon, M.D. 1910. It is adorned with the seal and arms of the University, the Penn and Franklin coats-of-arms, a depiction of the Rittenhouse Orrery, and a thistle symbolizing the early ties of the University with Scotland.

PRESIDENT'S BADGE OF OFFICE

The President wears as a badge of office a silver medallion of which one face is engraved, like the mace, with the University seal. The obverse of the President's medal bears the "orrery seal," designed in 1782 by Francis Hopkinson, A.B. 1757, a signer of the Declaration of Independence. The medal, suspended on a chain composed of silver links, was given by the late Trustee Thomas Sovereign Gates, Jr., A.B. 1928, LL.D. 1956, on the occasion of Sheldon Hackney's inauguration as President in October 1981.

UNIVERSITY SEAL AND SYMBOLS

SEAL OF THE CORPORATION

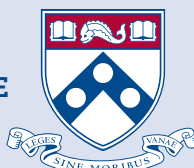

The Trustees of the University have an official seal that is, in effect, the signature of the Corporation. It had its origin at a meeting of the Board of Trustees in 1755 with Benjamin Franklin as Chairman. Though the seal underwent changes over the years, the most recent design, approved in 1932 and adopted in 1933, returned it to virtually its original form.

The seal is composed of seven books stacked on a slanted desktop, with the books bearing the following titles, representing the curricula of the day: Theolog, Astronom, Philosoph, Mathemat, Logica, Rhetorica, Grammatica. On the periphery of the stack of books appears the University motto, Leges Sine Moribus Vanæ, and the whole is encircled with the inscription Universitatis Pennsylvaniensis.

MOTTO: LEGES SINE MORIBUS VANÆ

The motto of the University, Leges Sine Moribus Vanæ, means "Laws without morals are useless." It comes from the longer quotation from Horace, "Quid leges sine moribus vanae proficiunt?" the sense of which is "Of what avail are empty laws without (good) morals?"

PENN COAT-OF-ARMS

The Penn coat-of-arms was derived by combining the coat-of-arms of Benjamin Franklin and that of William Penn's family. The dolphin on the red chief was part of Franklin's coat-of-arms and the three silver plates on a blue chevron were a part of Penn's. The two were combined on a white shield along with two open volumes representing the University's educational purpose.

SCHOOL COLORS

Eighteenth century American academic institutions did not have colors. The earliest known representation of the combined Penn colors, red and blue, is on the incised lid of the 1871 College Hall cornerstone.

One legend traces their origins to an early track meet at Saratoga, New York, between Penn, Harvard, and Yale. When asked by the officials what colors would be representing the Penn team, the Pennsylvania captain reportedly replied, "We're going to be wearing the colors of the teams we beat," i.e., Harvard Crimson and Yale Blue. We shall assume that Penn was victorious and thus remained loyal to the Red and Blue.

* This and additional material which follows is taken from "An Academic Costume Code and Academic Ceremony Guide" in American Council on Education, American Universities and Colleges, 14th ed. (New York: Walter de Gruyter, 1992).

Schools of the University

SCHOOL OF ARTS AND SCIENCES (1755)

The School of Arts and Sciences (SAS) is the direct descendant of the College of Philadelphia, where Benjamin Franklin established the first modern arts and sciences curriculum in the English colonies. Undergraduate programs for men date to the chartering of the College in 1755; the College of Liberal Arts for Women was founded in 1933. The Graduate School was established in 1882 with the appointment of a Faculty of Philosophy. The College of Liberal and Professional Studies (lifelong learning) traces its roots to 1892. The School of Arts and Sciences was born in 1974 with the merger of the College of Arts and Sciences, the College for Women, the Graduate School, and four social science departments from Wharton. SAS is the largest of the University's 12 Schools, providing a liberal arts education for all Penn undergraduates and supporting graduate studies, basic research, and lifelong learning across the full range of the humanities, natural sciences, and social sciences. The School has 27 departments with 509 standing faculty, 30 research centers, four interschool institutes, and 10,000 students.

PERELMAN SCHOOL OF MEDICINE (1765)

Established in 1765 as the nation's first medical school, what is now known as the Raymond and Ruth Perelman School of Medicine at the University of Pennsylvania continues a rich tradition of providing the nation's best medical training and education, with service to its community as a cornerstone. The School, which has been named to the top five research-oriented medical schools in the nation by U.S. News and World Report, honors its long standing commitment to advancing knowledge and improving health close to home and across the world through research, patient care, and the education of trainees in an inclusive culture that embraces diversity. More than 770 students are pursuing medical degrees in the Perelman School of Medicine, more than 960 are studying toward doctorates in biomedical sciences, (with over 215 enrolled in joint MD/PhD programs), and more than 680 students are pursuing professional master's degrees. Across the School's affiliated hospitals, 1,490 residents and fellows are completing their medical training. Over the past decade, the Perelman School of Medicine has consistently been ranked among the top recipients of research funding from the National Institutes of Health.

LAW SCHOOL (1790)

Penn's engagement in legal education began in 1790 with a series of lectures to President Washington and his cabinet by James Wilson, the University's first law professor, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, and one of the original justices of the Supreme Court of the United States. A formal program of instruction in law was established in 1850 under George Sharswood, and innovative legal education has been part of the Penn fabric since that time. In November 2019, the W. P. Carey Foundation made a historic gift, the largest ever to a law school. In recognition of this generosity, the school was named the University of Pennsylvania Carey Law School. The Law School provides a cross-disciplinary, globally focused legal education taught by preeminent scholars, approximately 70 percent of whom hold advanced degrees in fields in addition to law. Students augment the teaching provided by Law faculty with classes taken—and certificates of study and joint degrees earned—in sister schools and departments throughout the University. The Law School has nearly 1,100 students—many of whom simultaneously also earn joint degrees and certificates of study in fields outside of the law—and 94 full-time faculty. The Law School awards five degrees: Juris Doctor; Master of Laws for internationally trained lawyers; Master of Comparative Laws; Doctor of Juridical Science; and Master in Law for non-lawyers.

SCHOOL OF ENGINEERING AND APPLIED SCIENCE (1852)

The School of Engineering and Applied Science is one of the oldest in the United States, tracing its beginnings to the establishment of the School of Mines, Arts and Manufactures in 1852. The first graduate of the School received a Bachelor of Science degree in 1854. For the past 150 years, engineering has been a vibrant and collaborative community of innovation at Penn. Our world-acclaimed faculty, state-of-the-art research laboratories, and highly interdisciplinary curricula offer an experience for students that is unparalleled. From the time ENIAC, the world's first computer, was developed and introduced on campus in 1946, Penn Engineering has continued a tradition of leadership and cutting-edge research. Innovation and technology drive every program and Penn Engineers play a critical role in posing and answering the questions that will improve lives and transform the world. The Penn Engineering community is as robust as it has ever been with 137 tenure-track faculty, 19 Research and Practice Professors, 16 lecturers, 242 staff, approximately 1,872 undergraduates, 1,565 master's students, and 802 doctoral students.

STUART WEITZMAN SCHOOL OF DESIGN (1869)

Although the School of Design dates its founding from 1890, architecture courses were first offered at the University of Pennsylvania in 1869, making Penn's architecture program the second oldest in the United States. In 1921, the Department of Architecture joined with the Department of Music and Fine Arts to create an independent undergraduate School of Fine Arts modeled on the French École des Beaux Arts. In 1958, the School was renamed the Graduate School of Fine Arts, reflecting the shift to graduate degree offerings in architecture, city and regional planning, landscape architecture, and fine arts. In the 1980s, a program in historic preservation was added. To more accurately capture the School's sphere of influence, it was renamed the School of Design in 2003. In recognition of both his lifetime philanthropic support of Penn and his active engagement with its academic activities, the School was named for award-winning designer and footwear icon Stuart Weitzman, Wharton Class of 1963, in February of 2019. With a standing faculty of 43, approximately 189 lecturers and associated faculty, and nearly 800 students, the School prepares students to address complex sociocultural and environmental issues through thoughtful inquiry, creative expression, and innovation.

SCHOOL OF DENTAL MEDICINE (1878)

Established in 1878 as the Dental Department of the University of Pennsylvania, the School of Dental Medicine is among the oldest university-affiliated dental institutions in the country with a history deeply rooted in forging precedents in dental education, research, and patient care. In 1897, Thomas W. Evans, a Philadelphia native and clinician who spent most of his life in France as the dentist to European nobility, left his estate to create a dental school that was “second to none.” Evans’ bequest would become one with the University, creating the Thomas W. Evans Museum and Dental Institute, which opened in 1915. Today, the Evans Building remains the site of much of the School’s clinical instruction. The dental campus also includes the Robert Schattner Center and the Leon Levy Center for Oral Health Research, home to the basic sciences and extensive research activities. Penn Dental Medicine is a major provider of care in West Philadelphia and through outreach programs, students log nearly 13,100 hours each year serving approximately 15,200 residents in the surrounding Philadelphia neighborhoods. The School offers the degrees of Doctor of Dental Medicine, Master of Science in Oral Biology, and Doctor of Science in Dentistry, and trains postdoctoral students in endodontics, oral medicine, oral and maxillofacial surgery, orthodontics, pediatric dentistry, periodontics, periodontics/orthodontics, periodontal/prosthesis and prosthodontics. Penn Dental Medicine has 674 DMD students, 139 in the Graduate & Advanced Dental Education programs, 127 in the specialty programs, 12 in the DScD plus certificate program, 8 in the DScD stand-alone program, 40 in the MSOB plus certificate program, and 4 in the MOHS programs. Penn Dental Medicine has 490 faculty members, including 99 full-time faculty.

WHARTON SCHOOL (1881)

Founded in 1881 as the world’s first collegiate business school, the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania is shaping the future of business by incubating ideas, driving insights, and creating leaders who change the world. With a faculty of more than 241 renowned professors, Wharton has 5,063 undergraduate, MBA, executive MBA, and doctoral students. Each year 13,000 professionals from around the world advance their careers through Wharton Executive Education’s individual, company-customized, and online programs. More than 100,000 Wharton alumni form a powerful global network of leaders who transform business every day.

SCHOOL OF VETERINARY MEDICINE (1884)

Ranked among the top 10 veterinary schools worldwide, the University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine (Penn Vet) is a global leader in veterinary education, research, and clinical care. Founded in 1884, Penn Vet was the first veterinary school developed in association with a medical school. The School is a proud member of the One Health initiative, linking human, animal, and environmental health. Penn Vet serves a diverse population of animals at its two campuses, which include extensive diagnostic and research laboratories. Ryan Hospital in Philadelphia provides care for dogs, cats, and other domestic/companion animals, handling nearly 35,300 patient visits a year. New Bolton Center, Penn Vet’s large-animal hospital on nearly 700 acres in rural Kennett Square, cares for horses and livestock/farm animals. The hospital handles more than 6,200 patient visits a year, while Field Services makes more than 5,500 farm service calls, treating some 18,700 patients at local farms. In addition, New Bolton Center’s campus includes a swine center, working dairy, and poultry unit that provide valuable research for the agriculture industry.

GRADUATE SCHOOL OF EDUCATION (1914)

The University of Pennsylvania Graduate School of Education (Penn GSE) is one of the nation’s premier schools of education, consistently producing top-ranked researchers and educational leaders. The University of Pennsylvania created its first professorship in education in 1894 and established the full-fledged School of Education in 1914. The School’s first graduating class in 1915 comprised three women and three men, who received the School’s first Bachelor of Science in Education degrees. In 1961, the School was restructured and renamed the Graduate School of Education. Penn GSE launched an Administrative Leadership Program in 1971 to prepare school administrators for creative and dynamic leadership. This was the first in a long line of successful leadership programs. Penn GSE offers 37 programs leading to the PhD, EdD, MPhil Ed, and MS Ed degrees in more than 30 fields of education. Reflecting a deep commitment to urban education, Penn GSE’s students and researchers are involved in schools across every catchment area of the School District of Philadelphia, including robust partnerships with two West Philadelphia schools. Penn GSE is also home to the Milken-Penn GSE Education Business Plan Competition, intended to spark innovations that improve education by bringing together entrepreneurs and funders for sustained collaboration. No other education school enjoys a university environment as supportive of practical knowledge-building as Penn GSE.

SCHOOL OF NURSING (1935)

Nursing education at Penn began in 1886 when the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania started a nurse training program. In 1935, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania established a nursing degree program within the School of Education, and in 1950 the School of Nursing was established. The Master of Science in Nursing program was instituted in 1961, the Doctor of Nursing Science program in 1978, the Doctor of Philosophy program in 1984, and the Doctor of Nursing Practice program in 2016. These innovations and a curriculum which progressively reflects changing health care delivery patterns have advanced the School into the first rank of American schools of nursing. The School has two departments, Biobehavioral Health Sciences and Family and Community Health. It is widely recognized for its leadership in nursing research in the areas of health outcomes and policy research, nursing history, biobehavioral health sciences, global women's health, health equity, aging, and transitions in health. It also has a global reputation for innovations in nurse-managed clinical practice and is a World Health Organization Collaborating Center for Nursing and Midwifery Leadership. The School of Nursing has 56 standing faculty and 1,269 students.

SCHOOL OF SOCIAL POLICY & PRACTICE (1948)

The School of Social Policy & Practice began in 1908 as a private school that opened its doors to five students in the field of child welfare. The School affiliated itself with the University in 1935 and became a formal school in 1948. In 2005, it changed its name from the School of Social Work to the School of Social Policy & Practice. The School offers the Master of Social Work, Master of Science in Nonprofit Leadership, Master of Science in Social Policy, Doctor of Philosophy in Social Welfare, and Doctor of Social Work degrees. The School is devoted to advancing human welfare, promoting social justice, and developing effective societal responses to global human need. Building on the School's more than century-long commitment to social work and social change, the School educates clinicians, policymakers, scholars, researchers, and leaders who work to advance the human welfare of local, national, and global communities. The School houses a number of research centers and programs, including: Center for Guaranteed Income Research; Center for High Impact Philanthropy; Health Equity Lab; Center for Social Impact Strategy; Field Center for Children's Policy Practice & Research; Ortner Center on Violence & Abuse; Center for Social Mobility and Prosperity; Center for Carceral Communities; Actionable Intelligence for Social Policy; Goldring Reentry Initiative; and the Institute in Critical Quantitative, Computational & Mixed Methodologies. The School has 26 standing faculty and 660 students.

ANNENBERG SCHOOL FOR COMMUNICATION (1959)

Founded through the generosity and vision of diplomat and philanthropist Walter Annenberg, the Annenberg School for Communication (ASC) at the University of Pennsylvania is devoted to furthering the understanding of the role of communication in public life through research, education, and service. At the School's founding, Ambassador Annenberg identified its unique mission: "Every human advancement or reversal can be understood through communication. The right to free communication carries with it responsibility to respect the dignity of others—and this must be recognized as irreversible. Educating students to effectively communicate this message and to be of service to all people is the enduring mission of this school." With strengths in health communication, political communication, culture and communication, media institutions, digital media, visual communication, and global communication, ASC is one of the top communication schools in the nation. The Annenberg School has 21 standing faculty members, 30 additional research and teaching faculty and associates, 70 graduate students, and more than 150 undergraduate Communication majors. The School offers the degree of Doctor of Philosophy as well as a Bachelor of Arts major offered through the College of Arts and Sciences. The School is home to the Addiction, Health, and Adolescence Lab; Annenberg Public Policy Center; Center for Advanced Research in Global Communication; Center for Media at Risk; Center on Digital Culture and Society; Communication Neuroscience Lab; Computational Social Science Lab; Health Communication and Equity Lab; Institute for Public Service; Institute for the Study of Citizens and Politics; Media, Inequality and Change Center; Network Dynamics Group; the Peace and Conflict Neuroscience Lab; and the Social Action Lab, among many other projects pursuing innovative communication research and teaching.

Honorary Degree Recipients

CHIMAMANDA NGOZI ADICHIE

Your earliest works drew on the childhood books you loved, though stories of apple eating and snow days bore no resemblance to your life and home in Nigeria. You soon found a voice completely your own, to the joy of your many devoted readers around the globe. Today, you are the widely acclaimed author of three award-winning novels as well as many short stories and nonfiction. Across a range of media, you offer clarity and fresh perspectives on matters as diverse as love, religion, politics, and feminism. Essays in leading publications have clearly established your role as a thought leader. In 2013, Foreign Policy magazine named you one of its “Top Global Thinkers,” and in 2015, you were named one of Time Magazine’s “100 Most Influential People.”

Born the fifth of six children in a very close family, you grew up on the campus of the University of Nigeria, Nsukka, where your father was a professor and your mother was the school’s first female registrar. Following secondary school, you studied medicine for a year at Nsukka, but at nineteen left for the United States, completing your undergraduate studies in communication and political science at Eastern Connecticut State University, and later receiving a master’s degree in creative writing at Johns Hopkins University, and a Master of Arts in African history from Yale University.

You began work on your first novel, the critically acclaimed Purple Hibiscus, while still an undergraduate. You were awarded the Commonwealth Writers’ Prize for Best First Book in 2005. Your second novel, Half of a Yellow Sun (2006), related the violence-torn story of Biafra’s 1960s struggle to establish an independent republic in Nigeria. Winner of the Orange Prize, Half of a Yellow Sun was interpreted in a well-regarded 2013 film.

A fellowship at the Radcliffe Institute for Advanced Study, Harvard University, allowed you to finalize your third novel, Americanah, which would win the National Book Critics Circle Award.

Your overwhelmingly popular TED and TED X offerings have been viewed millions of times. 2009’s The Danger of a Single Story calls out stereotyping while ably illustrating the complex, overlapping stories that reflect the whole of a person. Your 2013 talk We Should All be Feminists was sampled by Beyoncé for the hit song Flawless, garnering a Grammy nomination. Demonstrating its international appeal, the talk was also distributed in book form to every 16-year-old in Sweden. Your 2017 work, Dear Ijeawele, or a Feminist Manifesto in Fifteen Suggestions, grew from advice you had given to a friend on raising a daughter as a feminist.

In 2008, you were named a MacArthur Fellow and in 2009 received the International Nonino Prize. Among your many honors are the Andrew Carnegie Medal for Excellence in Fiction, the “Le Grand Prix de l’héroïne Madame Figaro,” and the PEN Pinter Prize. You also hold membership in the American Academy of Arts and Letters and the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

For your compelling works of literature that broaden our perspectives on life, and for the enlightening voice you bring to the global discourse on society and culture, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie, the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

ANTHONY M. KENNEDY

In June 2015, a pivotal moment in United States judicial history, you first authored the U.S. Supreme Court’s watershed majority opinion clearing the way for same-sex marriage nationwide. You noted, “They ask for equal dignity in the eyes of the law. The Constitution grants them that right.” The very next day, you voted to uphold a key component of the 2010 Affordable Care Act. Though just two examples, they amply illustrate the sterling service you have rendered our country.

Your many U.S. Supreme Court opinions on some of the most significant issues of our time include legal treatment of gays, lesbians, and transgender people; abortion; the death penalty; voting rights; gun control; and campaign spending. Eschewing liberal or conservative labels, you granted every case before the Court the same scrupulous process of meticulous reading, listening, and enthusiastic discussion. Quite often the critical swing vote, your impactful judicial opinions will also guide the Court’s and the country’s future.

A California native and graduate of Stanford University, you attended the London School of Economics and received your Juris Doctor degree from Harvard Law School. After practicing law in San Francisco and Sacramento, you were appointed by President Gerald Ford to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit in 1975, making you at the time the country’s youngest federal appeals court judge. In 1988, President Ronald Reagan nominated you as the 93rd Associate Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court, where you served until retirement in 2018.

Your interest in education has never waned. A lecturer in law schools and universities worldwide, you taught an evening course in Constitutional Law at the University of the Pacific McGeorge School of Law from 1963 until 1988. The first sitting justice to visit China and to speak there about the rule of law, you helped develop an educational program for Iraqi judges and, with the American Bar Association, an online program exploring American values and civics used by more than one million American high school students. So that future generations will know and understand the value of freedom, you famously compiled a reading list—Understanding Freedom’s Heritage: How to Keep and Defend Liberty—whose selections range from Sophocles to Ronald Reagan.

You have served on the board of the Federal Judicial Center and on committees of the Judicial Conference of the United States, including the Advisory Panel on Financial Disclosure Reports and Judicial Activities, now the Advisory Committee on Codes of Conduct. You also represented the United States on the United Nations Commission for the Legal Empowerment of the Poor.

Well-known for your abiding civility to all and devotion to your family, you have also received the most prestigious awards of your field. In your honor, endowed chairs have been established at the Law School of the University of Virginia and at the University of the Pacific McGeorge School of Law. The Kennedy Lectureship was also established at Lewis and Clark Law School.

In recognition of your astute, steadfast leadership over a lifetime of public service and stewardship of our country's foundations, freedoms, and the law, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Anthony M. Kennedy, the degree of Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.

JHUMPA LAHIRI

Your work as an award-winning author and translator eloquently addresses both belonging and otherness, born of your own life experience. A native of London and raised in the United States from a young age by Bengali parents, you were drawn early to expression through the written word and to a creative career. You write empathically on immigration, identity, and dislocation arising from inhabiting many cultures yet not feeling bound to one. It has deeply informed your translations, your nonfiction reflections, and has lent your fictional characters an authenticity and relevance that resonate deeply with our world today.

A tireless learner, you completed your undergraduate studies at Barnard College, also earning multiple master's degrees there, and received your Ph.D. at Boston University. Today, as the director of the Lewis Center for the Arts' Program in Creative Writing at Princeton University and a Professor of Creative Writing, where you have been since 2015, you inspire students on their own journeys of expression.

In adulthood, you did not limit yourself to expression in one language, learning through immersion to speak and write in Italian. Though you came to excel at translating the works of others, you at first expressed hesitance in translating your own into English and how best to reconcile the very different selves that multilingual writing revealed. For many years now, you have found creative homes in Italy and the United States.

With an ever-widening audience, you have authored three novels and numerous short fiction and nonfiction works. Your 2000 debut story collection, Interpreter of Maladies, earned the Pulitzer Prize for Fiction. The collection Unaccustomed Earth received the 2008 Frank O'Connor International Short Story Award. The Lowland won the DSC award for South Asian Literature and was a finalist for the Man Booker Prize and the National Book Award in fiction. Your 2016 autobiographical essays, In Altre Parole (In Other Words), recounts your experience in Italy and was published as a single volume in both English and Italian. You have also published The Clothing of Books and the novel Dove Mi Trovo, whose English translation is forthcoming. In 2019, your translation of the works of 40 Italian writers was published in the Penguin Book of Italian Short Stories.

You have garnered a host of coveted accolades, including the National Humanities Medal, the PEN/Hemingway Award, the O. Henry Prize, the American Academy of Arts and Letters' Addison Metcalf Award, the Vallombrosa Von Rezzori Prize, the Asian American Literary Award, and the 2017 PEN/Malamud Award for Excellence in the Short Story. A well-received 2006 film came from your novel, The Namesake. In recognition of your creative talents, you have held Guggenheim Foundation and National Endowment for the Arts fellowships.

For your own works and the eloquent translation of the works of others, and for insights spanning cultures that reveal compelling universal truths of home and place, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Jhumpa Lahiri, the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

JILL LEPORE

You once said: "Writing for me is a complete and total joy." Your numerous devoted readers say the joy is all theirs. In earlier years, you challenged yourself to write an opinion piece each day, resulting in a drawers-full record of your efforts. Today, your works engage millions worldwide in vital conversations about American history, law, literature, politics, truth and untruth, populism, social movements, and more.

Following your undergraduate and graduate studies at Tufts University, the University of Michigan, and Yale, you joined Harvard's history department in 2003 where for years you chaired the History and Literature Program. In 2012, you were named a Harvard College Professor, the David Woods Kemper '41 Professor of American History. An award-winning educator, your 2009 How to Write a Paper for This Class exemplifies your enthusiastic dedication to new generations of learners.

An esteemed scholar of the history of history itself, you have authored more than a dozen bestselling books. Your 2018 work, These Truths: A History of the United States, is hailed as a completely new American history and has been translated and published around the world. Considered to be the first solo-authored, single-volume American history written by a woman, it illuminates those whose experiences and politics had been ignored and shatters a comfortable, older story of America. With unstinting clarity and vivid depictions of the blood and horror that is part of American history, your narrative helps us to make better sense of our shared heritage and experience.

A longtime contributor for The New Yorker, you exhibit a prodigious range of expertise as you inform, entertain, and challenge your readers. Your work also appears in the New York Times, the Times Literary Supplement, the Journal of American History, Foreign Affairs, Yale Law Journal, American Scholar, and the American Quarterly.

Your award-winning works include 2019's This America: The Case for the Nation; The Name of War: King Philip's War and the Origins of American Identity, winner of the Bancroft and Berkshire prizes and the Ralph Waldo Emerson Award; New York Burning: Liberty, Slavery and Conspiracy in Eighteenth-Century Manhattan, recipient of the Anisfield-Wolf Award for best nonfiction book on race; and Book of Ages: The Life and Opinions of Jane Franklin, Time Magazine's Best Nonfiction Book of the Year and winner of the Mark Lynton History Prize. 2014's revealing The Secret History of Wonder Woman received the American History Book Prize.

A past president of the Society of American Historians and a former Commissioner of the Smithsonian's National Portrait Gallery, you also count among your many honors election to the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and to the American Philosophical Society. In 2021, you received the Hannah Arendt Prize for Political Thought.

In recognition of your passion for innovative, meticulous scholarship and your enlightened storytelling that offers us a fuller understanding of our history, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Jill Lepore, the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

STANLEY A. PLOTKIN

In 1964, an unprecedented epidemic of rubella—German measles—swept our country, infecting millions. For most, symptoms were mild, but congenital infection was devastating. To the anguish of parents, tens of thousands of infants were born with serious birth defects.

That same year, at Philadelphia's Wistar Institute, you developed a life-saving rubella vaccine — now the “R” in MMR, shorthand for the measles, mumps, and rubella vaccine that has saved countless lives the world over. In 2015, rubella was declared eliminated in the Western Hemisphere.

A New York City native, you set your path at age 15 to be a physician and research scientist. A graduate of New York University, you received your medical degree at Downstate Medical Center in Brooklyn. Your career began with the Epidemic Intelligence Service of the Centers for Disease Control, where you worked on the oral polio vaccine and on the efficacy of a vaccine for anthrax.

From 1963, you served as Professor of Pediatrics and Microbiology at the University of Pennsylvania, now emeritus; Professor of Virology at the Wistar Institute, and for years as Director of Infectious Diseases and Senior Physician at Children's Hospital of Philadelphia. Today, you continue to consult with vaccine manufacturers and biotechnology and non-profit research organizations.

You are a towering figure in the field of vaccinology, working for seven decades on vaccine development and application, including for varicella, anthrax, polio, rabies, and rotavirus, a mortal danger to infants in underdeveloped countries. You also champion efforts against cytomegalovirus, the largest infectious cause of congenital malformations and a grave danger to transplant patients.

Guided always by outstanding science, the worldwide impact of your extraordinary leadership in your field is immeasurable. You have chaired both the Infectious Diseases Committee and the AIDS Task Force of the American Academy of Pediatrics, as well as the Microbiology and Infectious Diseases Research Committee of the National Institutes of Health. You have educated generations of vaccine specialists and health professionals through editorship of many scientific publications, authorship of more than 800 articles, and your field-defining textbook, Plotkin's Vaccines.

Your numerous accolades reflect the depth of your peers' respect. You are the recipient of the French Legion of Honor Medal, the Sabin Gold Medal, and the Marshall Award from the European Society for Pediatric Infectious Diseases. Children's Hospital of Philadelphia bestowed on you their Gold Medal and a professorship in your name. A Founder and Fellow of the Pediatric Infectious Diseases Society, you have received a great many lifetime honors from the academies and societies to which you have earned membership.

For your tireless scientific rigor in pursuit of lifesaving vaccines and your profound advocacy for the good health of all people, especially children, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Stanley A. Plotkin, the degree of Doctor of Sciences, honoris causa.

SISTER MARY SCULLION

In 2008, as Penn's Baccalaureate speaker, you passionately urged our graduates to be living expressions of truth, human dignity, and social justice. These words have been the foundation of your life's work in service and advocacy for those who are homeless and in need. As you have said, “Whatever affects one directly affects all of us indirectly. If there is homelessness in our society... we are all diminished.”

Your work began when you joined the Congregation of the Sisters of Mercy in 1972, with vows to care for the poor, sick, and uneducated. In 1985, you co-founded Women of Hope to provide permanent residences and support for homeless, mentally ill women. Not long after came the Outreach Coordination Center, the nation's first program networking private and public agencies' efforts to assist the homeless. Along the way, you graduated from Saint Joseph's University and earned your Master of Social Work from Temple University.

In 1989, you co-founded Philadelphia's Project HOME as an emergency winter shelter. Today, as President and Executive Director, you have overseen Project HOME's expansion to more than 900 housing units, absolutely essential but not sufficient to end the cycle of chronic homelessness. With the Stephen Klein Wellness Center, Honickman Learning Center, and state-of-the-art Comcast Technology Labs, you provide comprehensive services: integrated medicine, education and training, employment, and more. These are all aimed at growing a supportive community that respects the dignity of every person. Though you would never claim credit, Philadelphia's homeless rate is significantly lower than peer cities; the great majority of those helped by Project HOME have avoided a return to homelessness.

Your personal commitment is legendary. You have lived on the streets to better understand those at society's forgotten reaches. You climbed through manholes and ventured back alleys to meet the homeless. Four times you were arrested for refusing to back down in your work.

Through your national advocacy, homeless persons are guaranteed the right to vote and a landmark federal court decision supported fair housing rights of persons with disabilities. You continue to call for innovative public policy to address root causes of homelessness: scarcity of living wage work, absence of affordable housing, domestic violence, lack of health care access, substance abuse, and mental illness.

Among your many awards and honors, Time selected you as one of the World's Most Influential People in 2009, and the Philadelphia Inquirer named you its 2011 Citizen of the Year. You have received the Philadelphia Award, the University of Notre Dame's Laetare Medal, and the Eisenhower Fellowship's Distinguished Alumnus Award. And for so many in this city, you are simply known as Philadelphia's "Mother Teresa."

In recognition of your exemplary service and your transformational vision for support, self-empowerment, and community to end recurring homelessness, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Sister Mary Scullion, the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

GREGG L. SEMENZA

Upon hearing that you would be a joint recipient of the 2019 Nobel Prize for Physiology or Medicine, you extolled the critical importance of basic science to translational breakthroughs and clinical successes. "That's the real prize," you stated.

You are one of the world's foremost researchers on the molecular mechanisms of oxygen regulation, illuminating the workings of a key oxygen sensing pathway in cells, how cells adapt to changes of availability of that most critical resource, and the molecular regulators that control genetic response.

Your laboratory has led the field in uncovering just how cells adapt to changing oxygen levels with the discovery, cloning, and characterization of hypoxia-inducible factor 1 (HIF-1), a member of a family of master regulators found in virtually all metazoan species. These regulators have been shown to play important roles in cardiovascular disorders, cancer, diabetes, and more. Pivotal discoveries such as these have already led to a new drug to fight anemia and may lead to new treatments for cancer as well as some of the most common causes for mortality in the United States, including lung disease.

A native of the state of New York, you completed undergraduate studies at Harvard University and earned your M.D. and Ph.D. degrees in the University of Pennsylvania's Medical Scientist Training Program. Following postdoctoral research in medical genetics at the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine, you joined its faculty in 1990. At Johns Hopkins, you are the C. Michael Armstrong Professor of Genetic Medicine, with multiple appointments across the university, and the founding director of the preeminent Vascular Program in the Johns Hopkins Institute for Cell Engineering.

A founding Fellow of the American College of Medical Genetics, your many honors include election to the Association of American Physicians, the National Academy of Medicine, and the National Academy of Sciences. Your work has garnered you a great number of awards, including the Lefoulon-Delalande Grand Prize from the Institut de France, the Stanley J. Korsmeyer Award, the E. Mead Johnson Award for Research in Pediatrics, the Jean and Nicholas Leone Award from the Children's Brain Tumor Foundation, the Established Investigator Award from the American Heart Association, and the Lucille P. Markey Scholar Award in Biomedical Science. You have also received the Canada-Gairdner International Award, Wiley Prize in Biomedical Sciences, Albert Lasker Basic Medical Research Award, and the Massry Prize. In 2012, you were elected to the Institute of Medicine.

A former editor-in-chief of the Journal of Molecular Medicine, you serve on the editorial boards of many professional journals. You have published more than 400 papers and your research has been cited well over 100,000 times.

For your curiosity and passion for scientific discovery leading to a greater understanding of the mechanisms of disease, and ultimately, improved health for patients everywhere, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Gregg L. Semenza, the degree of Doctor of Sciences, honoris causa.

HENRY THREADGILL

You have said that a powerful streak of "do it yourself" runs through your music, that both composer and musician must "figure everything out themselves." Your no-holds-barred, freedom-seeking approach to musical experimentation and discovery refuses the bounds of genre. You call it "creative improvised music," a kinetic new language rising from its time and place and redefining the act of jazz improvisation itself. Long eschewing traditional music theory in favor of your own vision, the results have led to significant critical acclaim and your being named one of the most original voices in American music.

Your family and your native Chicago's South Side provided a childhood immersed in music. You began piano at three, learning boogie-woogie from the radio and absorbing music from all corners of your community, including Eastern European, gospel, and nascent experimental jazz. You studied piano, composition, and flute at the American Conservatory in Chicago and also played percussion, baritone, and alto saxophone. At 17, you joined Muhal Richard Abrams' Experimental Band and later were a founding member of the Association for the Advancement of Creative Musicians, celebrating the performance of its members' original music. A Vietnam veteran, you played with the U.S. Army Concert band.

Through five decades, you have led, performed, and recorded with numerous ensembles, producing more than 30 critically acclaimed albums. But it is with Zooid, your longest collaboration, that you crafted In for a Penny, In for a Pound, garnering the Pulitzer Prize for Music in 2016. It is one of only three jazz compositions to ever be so honored.

An extraordinary multi-instrumentalist, your works encompass an incredible instrumental range of reeds, horns, strings, voice, and percussion, including your self-invented hubkaphone, a vibraphone of hubcaps. Though always fiercely original, your unparalleled understanding of musical histories is evident across your work, reflecting inspirations as diverse as Scott Joplin, Charlie Parker, Jelly Roll Morton, John Philip Sousa, and Stephen Foster, as well as avant-garde classical and world music.

Your unique compositional voice has been sought in dozens of worldwide commissions through the years. In 2019, your work 6 to 5, 5 to 6 soulfully heralded the groundbreaking for the Whitney Museum of American Art's newest public artwork sited at New York's Hudson River Park.

Among your many accolades are a Guggenheim Fellowship and the Doris Duke Impact Award. Down Beat magazine's International Jazz Critics Poll has five times distinguished you with its Best Composer Award. In 2009, you were the first Black non-classical musician to receive a Copland House Residency Award.

For your fearless experimentation and boundless passion for exploring and defining new worlds of music, deepening the experience of both performer and enthusiast, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Henry Threadgill, the degree of Doctor of Music, honoris causa.
