268TH COMMENCEMENT

— MAY 20, 2024 —

Franklin's Enduring Spirit

Welcome to the University of Pennsylvania's 268th Commencement ceremony. Penn proudly recognizes our graduates with this, one of our most cherished and venerable traditions. Today, we celebrate the ideals of our founder, Benjamin Franklin, and the extraordinary students who inherit his legacy.

Above all, Franklin was endlessly curious. One of his many biographers, Edmund Morgan, called Franklin's lifelong pursuit of knowledge his "most conspicuous virtue." As Franklin understood, with knowledge comes progress, and the University of Pennsylvania has been at the forefront since its earliest days.

We are the home to many firsts: the nation's first medical school, first hospital, and first business school, as well as the world's first computer, ENIAC. Our ingenuity is alive and well as Penn scientists Drew Weissman and Katalin Karikó made clear just months ago, winning the Nobel Prize for their mRNA technology that saved untold lives during the pandemic and promises to unlock many more frontiers in medicine. Our distinguished scholars continue Penn's excellence across the humanities, arts, sciences, and professions, contributing powerful insights while preparing students to think deeply, express creatively, and lead in addressing issues of the day.

Like Franklin the statesman, our students value the bonds of community. Their Penn years have provided unsurpassed opportunity to engage, work, and play with individuals from many walks of life, from all over the world. Learning to live with others, to listen to differing opinions, to advocate for their own ideas, and to respect diverse points of view—invaluable lessons for this moment in time.

Franklin believed that the ultimate purpose of education is to contribute to the common good—one of his guiding principles in founding the University. Generations of Penn graduates have upheld that principle in countless ways, improving countless lives. To be sure, many challenges and opportunities await, and today's graduates will meet them head on.

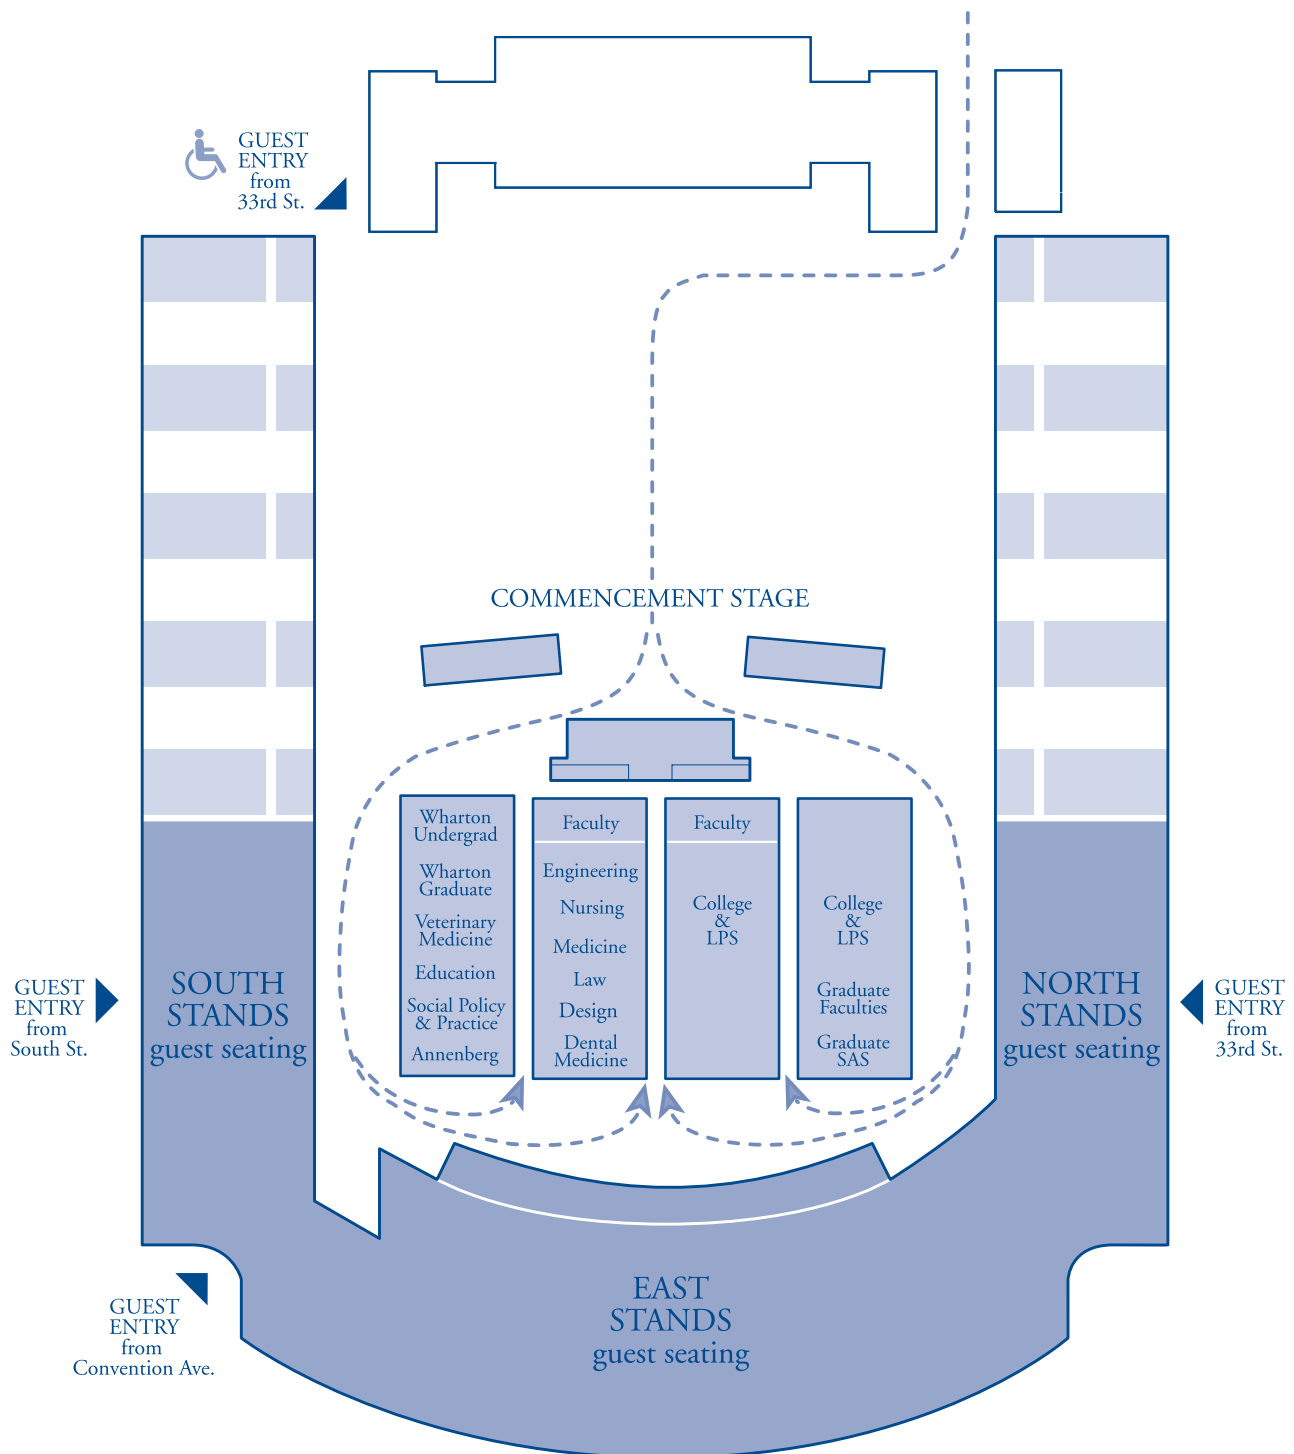

For our newest alumni, may they keep a firm grasp on these core tenets: curiosity, community, and the common good. Franklin's spirit will serve them well. As they join a long, proud line of Penn graduates, we wish them all the very best.

Congratulations to the Class of 2024.

Commencement Seating

Guests will find this diagram helpful in locating the approximate seating of the degree candidates. The sequence in which the candidates are presented for degrees is shown on the next page. The list on page 6, detailing the colors of the candidates' hoods according to their fields of study, may further assist guests in identifying the locations of the various schools.

In case of emergency, evacuation procedures will be announced.

Megan E. Higgins, C’24
Oh, say, can you see, by the dawn’s early light,
What so proudly we hailed at the twilight’s last gleaming?
Whose broad stripes and bright stars, thro’ the perilous fight
O’er the ramparts we watched, were so gallantly streaming.
And the rockets’ red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there.
Oh, say, does that star-spangled banner yet wave
O’er the land of the free and the home of the brave?

The Red and Blue

By William J. Goeckel, Class of 1896, and Harry E. Westervelt, Class of 1898

Come all ye loyal classmates now, in hall and campus through,

Lift up your hearts and voices for the royal Red and Blue.

Fair Harvard has her crimson, old Yale her colors too,

But for dear Pennsylvania, we wear the Red and Blue.

(Chorus)

Hurrah! Hurrah! Pennsylvania!

Hurrah for the Red and the Blue;

Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!

Hurrah for the Red and the Blue.

Academic Regalia and Traditions

May 20, 2024 – the University of Pennsylvania’s 268th Commencement. Penn traces its origins to a deed of trust executed in 1740 and is celebrating its 284th birthday this year. Bachelor’s, master’s, and doctoral degrees will be conferred upon some 6,000 graduates of the University’s 12 schools. Honorary degrees will be awarded to six individuals of distinction in varied fields, as you will note on pages 11-13 of this program.

The practice of sporting signs on caps and gowns as a form of public proclamation at Commencement dates to the early 1760s and recalls an even more ancient tradition, originating in the practice of medieval universities. Penn’s archives contain several 18th century broadsides, printed in Latin, which were distributed to Commencement guests along with the regular programs. The broadsides contain a series of propositions classified under various academic headings. Presumably, the graduating students were willing to defend these theses against any assertions to the contrary. On the eve of the Revolution, however, statements such as “the rights of the people are as divine as the rights of their rulers” must have met with widespread sympathy.

Academic Ceremony and Regalia

Commencement exercises at American universities and colleges traditionally are composed of three essential elements: the Academic Procession, the conferring of degrees, and the Commencement address. This practice has been codified since 1895, when a national conference on academic costume and ceremony was proposed and a plan known initially as the “Intercollegiate System” was formally adopted. The Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania incorporated this code into the Statutes of the University in November 1896. Now under the aegis of the American Council on Education, the “Academic Costume Code and Academic Ceremony Guide” was revised in 1932 and 1960.* Throughout the 20th century, and today, Commencement at Penn has, with minor modifications, followed the dictates of the code and its revisions.

By 1896, however, Penn had been granting degrees for nearly 140 years. Like other American colonial colleges, Penn borrowed its 18th century Commencement rituals directly from the English universities. In England the history of academic dress reaches back to the early days of the oldest schools. As early as the second half of the 14th century, the statutes of certain colleges prohibited “excess in apparel” and required the wearing of a long gown. It is still an open question as to whether academic dress finds its sources chiefly in ecclesiastical or in civilian dress. It is often suggested that gowns and hoods were the simplest, most effective method of staying warm in the unheated, stone buildings that housed medieval scholars. In any case, academic regalia had evolved to contemporary familiarity by the time Benjamin Franklin was awarded an honorary Doctor of Laws by the University of St. Andrews in 1759.

Traditions and Current Practice at Penn

In April 1887, on the recommendation of a committee of the faculty, the Trustees adopted the “‘Pennsylvania’ System of Academic Costume.” The colors and trimmings of hoods and caps were regularized according to faculty and degree. Beginning with the Commencement of 1887, the “‘Pennsylvania’ System” was published in each year’s program and adherence to its rules was expected of Trustees, faculty, and students alike. Beginning in 1896, the “‘Pennsylvania’ System” was superseded by the “Intercollegiate System,” which has continued in effect to the present time.

The gowns used in American academic ceremonies vary according to the highest degree awarded to the wearer. The gown for the bachelor’s degree has pointed sleeves; it is designed to be worn closed. The gown for the master’s degree has an oblong sleeve, open at the wrist. The sleeve base hangs down in the traditional manner. The rear part of its oblong shape is square cut and the front has an arc cut away. The master’s gown may be worn open or closed. The doctoral gown is a more elaborate costume faced down the front with black velvet and across the sleeves with three bars of the same; these facings and crossbars may be of velvet of the color distinctive to the field of study to which the degree pertains. The doctoral gown has bell-shaped sleeves and may be worn open or closed. Some institutions have authorized doctoral gowns in colors other than the customary black; holders of the University of Pennsylvania doctorate may wear red and blue gowns.

The hoods are lined in silk with the official color or colors of the college or university which granted the highest degree held by the wearer; more than one color is shown by division of the field color in a variety of ways, such as by chevron or chevrons. The binding or edging of the hood is in velvet, with widths of two inches, three inches, and five inches for the bachelor’s, master’s, and doctoral degrees, respectively. The color of the border indicates the field of study to which the degree pertains. University of Pennsylvania graduates wear a hood lined in red with a blue chevron. The mortarboard cap is standard, though soft square-topped caps are permissible. Recipients of doctorates may wear a gold tassel fastened to the middle point of the top of the cap; all others wear black.

Degrees shall be conferred today according to the following order:

Arts & Letters, white
Science, golden yellow
Business Administration, mustard
Nursing, apricot
Medicine, green
Law, purple
Fine Arts (including Design), brown
Dental Medicine, lilac
Veterinary Medicine, gray
Education, light blue
Social Work, citron
Philosophy, dark blue

*This and additional material which follows is taken from “An Academic Costume Code and Academic Ceremony Guide” in American Council on Education, American Universities and Colleges, 14th ed. (New York: Walter de Gruyter, 1992).

Academic Procession

The order for today's Academic Procession is as follows:

- Mace Bearer
- Interim President and Provost
- Chair, Board of Trustees
- Commencement Speaker
- Candidates for Honorary Degrees
- Deans
- Trustees
- Officers of the University
- Faculty
- Advisors

University Mace

The Secretary of the University carries the University mace, the symbol of authority of the University, at the head of the Academic Procession. It was a gift from the family of William Murray Gordon, MD 1910. It is adorned with the seal and arms of the University, the Penn and Franklin coats-of-arms, a depiction of the Rittenhouse Orrery, and a thistle symbolizing the early ties of the University with Scotland.

President's Badge of Office

The President's badge of office is a silver medallion of which one face is engraved, like the mace, with the University seal. The obverse of the President's medal bears the "orrery seal," designed in 1782 by Francis Hopkinson, AB 1757, a signer of the Declaration of Independence. The medal, suspended on a chain composed of silver links, was given by the late Trustee Thomas Sovereign Gates, Jr., AB 1928, LLD 1956, on the occasion of Sheldon Hackney's inauguration as President in October 1981.

UNIVERSITY SEAL AND SYMBOLS

SEAL OF THE CORPORATION

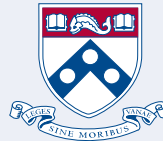

The Trustees of the University have an official seal that is, in effect, the signature of the Corporation. It had its origin at a meeting of the Board of Trustees in 1753 with Benjamin Franklin as Chair. Though the seal underwent changes over the years, the most recent design, approved in 1932 and adopted in 1933, returned it to virtually its original form.

The seal is composed of seven books stacked on a slanted desktop, with the books bearing the following titles, representing the curricula of the day: Theolog, Astronom, Philosoph, Mathemat, Logica, Rhetorica, Grammatica. On the periphery of the stack of books appears the University motto, Leges Sine Moribus Vanæ, and the whole is encircled with the inscription, Universitatis Pennsylvaniae.

MOTTO: LEGES SINE MORIBUS VANÆ

The motto of the University, Leges Sine Moribus Vanæ, means "Laws without morals are useless." It comes from the longer quotation from Horace, "Quid leges sine moribus vanæ proficiunt?" the sense of which is "Of what avail are empty laws without (good) morals?"

PENN COAT-OF-ARMS

The Penn coat-of-arms was derived by combining the coat-of-arms of Benjamin Franklin and that of William Penn's family. The dolphin on the red chief was part of Franklin's coat-of-arms and the three silver plates on a blue chevron were part of Penn's. The two were combined on a white shield along with two open volumes representing the University's educational purpose.

SCHOOL COLORS

Eighteenth century American academic institutions did not have colors. The earliest known representation of the combined Penn colors, red and blue, is on the incised lid of the 1871 College Hall cornerstone.

One legend traces their origins to an early track meet at Saratoga, New York, between Penn, Harvard, and Yale. When asked by the officials what colors would be representing the Penn team, the Pennsylvania captain reportedly replied, "We're going to be wearing the colors of the teams we beat," i.e., Harvard Crimson and Yale Blue. We shall assume that Penn was victorious and thus remained loyal to the Red and Blue.

Schools of the University

School of Arts and Sciences (1755)

The School of Arts and Sciences (SAS) is the direct descendant of the College of Philadelphia, where Benjamin Franklin established the first modern arts and sciences curriculum in the English colonies. Undergraduate programs for men date to the chartering of the College in 1755; the College of Liberal Arts for Women was founded in 1933. The Graduate School was established in 1882 with the appointment of a Faculty of Philosophy. The College of Liberal and Professional Studies (lifelong learning) traces its roots to 1892. The School of Arts and Sciences was born in 1974 with the merger of the College of Arts and Sciences, the College for Women, the Graduate School, and four social science departments from Wharton. Today, SAS is the largest of the University's 12 schools, providing a liberal arts education for all Penn undergraduates and supporting graduate studies, basic research, and continuing education across the full range of the humanities, natural sciences, and social sciences. The School has 28 departments with 515 standing faculty, 28 research centers, five interschool institutes, and 11,000 students.

Perelman School of Medicine (1765)

Established in 1765 as the nation's first medical school, what is now known as the Raymond and Ruth Perelman School of Medicine at the University of Pennsylvania continues a rich tradition of providing the nation's best medical training and education, with service to its community as a cornerstone. Today, the School honors its longstanding commitment to advancing knowledge and improving health close to home and across the world through research, patient care, and the education of trainees in an inclusive culture that embraces diversity. More than 760 students are pursuing medical degrees in the Perelman School of Medicine, more than 960 are studying toward doctorates in biomedical sciences, (with more than 220 enrolled in joint MD/PhD programs), and more than 680 students are pursuing professional master's degrees. Across the School's affiliated hospitals, 1,490 residents and fellows are completing their medical training. Over the past decade, the Perelman School of Medicine has consistently been among the top recipients of research funding from the National Institutes of Health.

Penn Carey Law School (1790)

Penn's dedication to innovative legal education began in 1790, when founding father James Wilson — signer of the Declaration of Independence, framer of the U.S. Constitution, and one of the original U.S. Supreme Court Justices — delivered a series of lectures to President George Washington and his cabinet. In 1850, George Sharswood established a formal legal instruction program, and in 1900, after several years of holding classes across the city of Philadelphia, the School established its current location at 34th and Chestnut Streets. Today, the University of Pennsylvania Carey Law School provides a cross-disciplinary, globally focused legal education taught by preeminent scholars and internationally renowned experts in their fields. Nearly half of its faculty hold advanced degrees in addition to law, and half hold joint or secondary appointments at schools across the University. In the 2023-24 academic year, Penn Carey Law has slightly more than 1,000 students — many of whom are earning joint degrees and certificates of study in fields outside of the law — and more than 70 full-time faculty. Penn Carey Law awards five degrees: Juris Doctor; Master of Laws for internationally trained lawyers; Master of Comparative Laws; Doctor of the Science of Law; and Master in Law for non-lawyers.

School of Engineering and Applied Science (1852)

Founded in 1852 as the School of Mines, Arts and Manufactures, the School of Engineering and Applied Science (SEAS) is Penn's intellectual home of technology-related teaching and research. For 171 years, Penn Engineering has been a vibrant and collaborative community of innovation.

World-acclaimed faculty, state-of-the-art research laboratories, and highly interdisciplinary curricula offer students an unparalleled learning experience. From the time ENIAC, the world's first computer, was developed and introduced on campus in 1946, Penn Engineering has continued a tradition of leadership and cutting-edge research. Innovation and technology drive every program and Penn engineers play a critical role in posing and answering the questions that will improve the human condition and transform the world. The Penn Engineering community is as robust as it has ever been with 153 tenure-track faculty, 18 Research and Practice Professors, 16 lecturers, 276 staff, approximately 1,912 undergraduates, 1,635 master's students, and 910 doctoral students.

Stuart Weitzman School of Design (1869)

Although the School of Design dates its founding from 1890, architecture courses were first offered at the University of Pennsylvania in 1869, making Penn's architecture program the second oldest in the United States. In 1921, the Department of Architecture joined with the Department of Music and Fine Arts to create an independent undergraduate School of Fine Arts modeled on the French École des Beaux Arts. In 1958, the School was renamed the Graduate School of Fine Arts, reflecting the shift to graduate degree offerings in architecture, city and regional planning, landscape architecture, and fine arts. In the 1980s, a program in historic preservation was added. To more accurately capture the School's sphere of influence, it was renamed the School of Design in 2003. In recognition of both his lifetime philanthropic support of Penn and his active engagement with its academic activities, the School was named for award-winning designer and footwear icon Stuart Weitzman, W'63, in February 2019. Today, with a standing faculty of 43, approximately 189 lecturers and associated faculty, and nearly 800 students, the School prepares students to address complex sociocultural and environmental issues through thoughtful inquiry, creative expression, and innovation.

School of Dental Medicine (1878)

Established in 1878 as the Dental Department of the University of Pennsylvania, the School of Dental Medicine is among the oldest university-affiliated dental institutions in the country with a history deeply rooted in forging precedents in dental education, research, and patient care. In 1897, Thomas W. Evans, a Philadelphia native and clinician who spent most of his life in France as the dentist to European nobility, left his estate to create a dental school that was “second to none.” Evans’ bequest would become one with the University, creating the Thomas W. Evans Museum and Dental Institute, which opened in 1915. Today, the Evans Building remains the site of much of the School’s clinical instruction. The dental campus also includes the Robert Schattner Center and the Leon Levy Center for Oral Health Research, home to the basic sciences and extensive research activities.

Penn Dental Medicine is a major provider of care in West Philadelphia and through outreach clinical programs, students completed 54,356 hours in 2023, providing clinical care at Penn Dental Medicine clinics in the surrounding Philadelphia neighborhoods.

Penn Dental Medicine offers the degrees of Doctor of Dental Medicine (DMD), Master of Science in Oral Biology (MSOB), Master of Oral Health Sciences (MOHS), Master of Advanced Dental Sciences (MADS), Master of Science in Oral and Population Health (MOPH), Doctor of Science in Dentistry (DScD) and trains postdoctoral students in advanced general dentistry, endodontics, oral medicine, oral and maxillofacial surgery, orthodontics, pediatric dentistry, periodontics, periodontics/orthodontics, periodontal/prosthesis and prosthodontics.

In the 2023-2024 academic year, Penn Dental Medicine has 724 DMD students, 43 students in the MSOB program, 8 in the MOHS program, 3 in the MADS program, 2 in the MOPH program, and 7 in the DScD stand-alone program.

Penn Dental Medicine has 508 faculty members, including 101 full-time faculty.

Wharton School (1881)

Founded in 1881 as the world’s first collegiate business school, the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania is shaping the future of business by incubating ideas, driving insights, and creating leaders who change the world. With a faculty of more than 230 renowned professors, Wharton has over 5,000 undergraduate, MBA, executive MBA, and doctoral students. Each year, the School welcomes 13,000 professionals from around the world who advance their careers through Wharton Executive Education’s individual, company-customized, and online programs. Today, more than 100,000 Wharton alumni form a powerful global network of leaders who transform business every day.

School of Veterinary Medicine (1884)

Ranked among the top ten veterinary schools worldwide, the University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine (Penn Vet) is a global leader in veterinary education, research, and clinical care. Founded in 1884, Penn Vet was the first veterinary school developed in association with a medical school. The School is a proud member of the One Health initiative, linking human, animal, and environmental health.

Penn Vet serves a diverse population of animals at its two campuses, which include extensive diagnostic and research laboratories. Ryan Hospital in Philadelphia provides care for dogs, cats, and other domestic/companion animals, handling more than 34,600 patient visits each year. New Bolton Center, Penn Vet’s large-animal hospital on nearly 700 acres in rural Kennett Square, Pennsylvania, cares for horses and livestock/farm animals. The hospital handles more than 6,200 patient visits a year, while New Bolton Center’s ambulatory Field Service made more than 5,500 farm service calls, treating upwards of 25,000 patients at local farms. In addition, New Bolton Center’s campus includes a swine center, working dairy, and poultry unit that provide valuable research for the agriculture industry.

Graduate School of Education (1914)

The University of Pennsylvania Graduate School of Education (Penn GSE) is one of the nation’s premier schools of education, consistently producing top-ranked researchers and educational leaders. The University of Pennsylvania created its first professorship in education in 1894 and established the full-fledged School of Education in 1914. The School’s first graduating class in 1915 comprised three women and three men, who received the School’s first Bachelor of Science in Education degrees. In 1961, the School was restructured and renamed the Graduate School of Education. Penn GSE launched an Administrative Leadership Program in 1971 to prepare school administrators for creative and dynamic leadership. This was the first in a long line of successful leadership programs. Today, Penn GSE offers 39 programs leading to the PhD, EdD, MPhil Ed, and MS Ed degrees in more than 30 fields of education. Reflecting a deep commitment to urban education, Penn GSE’s students and researchers are involved in schools across every catchment area of the School District of Philadelphia, including robust partnerships with two West Philadelphia schools. Penn GSE is also home to the Milken-Penn GSE Education Business Plan Competition, intended to spark innovations that improve education by bringing together entrepreneurs and funders for sustained collaboration, and the Harold W. McGraw, Jr. Prize in Education, which celebrates the innovation and impact of individuals in education. No other education school enjoys a university environment as supportive of practical knowledge-building as Penn GSE.

School of Nursing (1935)

Nursing education at Penn began in 1886 when the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania started a nurse training program. In 1935, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania established a nursing degree program within the School of Education, and in 1950 the School of Nursing was established. The Master of Science in Nursing program was instituted in 1961, the Doctor of Nursing Science program in 1978, the Doctor of Philosophy program in 1984, and the Doctor of Nursing Practice program in 2016. The School added a Master of Science in Nutrition Science degree in 2023. These innovations and a curriculum which progressively reflects changing health care delivery patterns have advanced the School into the first rank of American schools of nursing. The School has two departments, Biobehavioral Health Sciences and Family and Community Health. It is widely recognized for its leadership in nursing research in the areas of health outcomes and policy research, nursing history, biobehavioral health sciences, global women's health, health equity, aging, and transitions in health. It also has a global reputation for innovations in nurse-managed clinical practice and is a World Health Organization Collaborating Center for Nursing and Midwifery Leadership. The School ranks number one in world nursing school rankings. The School of Nursing has 58 standing faculty and 1,171 students.

School of Social Policy & Practice (1948)

The School of Social Policy & Practice has long been known for its dedication to social justice and educating students committed to fighting oppression. It began in 1908 under the Children's Bureau of Philadelphia and became affiliated with the University of Pennsylvania in 1935. The School formally merged with the University in 1948 as the School of Social Work. In 2005, the School's name was changed to the School of Social Policy & Practice (SP2) to reflect a broader mission that today includes five top-ranked degree programs — Master of Social Work, Master of Science in Social Policy, Master of Science in Nonprofit Leadership, Doctorate in Clinical Social Work, and Doctor of Philosophy in Social Welfare — along with certificate programs and dual degrees. Dedicated to producing social change agents — policy makers, practitioners, educators, activists — the rigorous curriculum includes field placements, internships, and practicums across Philadelphia and beyond. Among SP2's transdisciplinary and collaborative research centers and initiatives are the Center for Guaranteed Income Research, the Center for Social Mobility and Prosperity, the Ortner Center on Violence and Abuse, the Field Center for Children's Policy, Practice, & Research, Actionable Intelligence for Social Policy, Health Equity Lab, the Center for Carceral Communities, the Goldring Reentry Initiative, the Center for High Impact Philanthropy, the Center for Social Impact Strategy, SAFElab, and Penn Center on Inclusive Innovation and Technology. The School has 28 standing faculty, 2 research faculty, and approximately 580 students.

Annenberg School for Communication (1959)

Founded through the generosity and vision of diplomat and philanthropist Walter H. Annenberg, the Annenberg School for Communication (ASC) at the University of Pennsylvania is devoted to better understanding the role of communication in public life through research, education, and service. At the School's founding, Ambassador Annenberg identified its unique mission: "Every human advancement or reversal can be understood through communication. The right to free communication carries with it responsibility to respect the dignity of others — and this must be recognized as irreversible. Educating students to effectively communicate this message and to be of service to all people is the enduring mission of this school."

Over the ensuing years, the Annenberg School has remained true to the mission articulated by Ambassador Annenberg while responding to changes in both the nature of communication as a social process and in communication as a discipline and an interdisciplinary field of study.

With strengths in health communication, politics and policy, cultural inquiry, digital media, and computational social science, the Annenberg School is one of the top communication schools in the nation. The School has 25 standing faculty members, 30 additional research and teaching faculty and associates, 71 graduate students, and more than 150 undergraduate communication majors. The School offers a Doctor of Philosophy degree as well as a Bachelor of Arts major, which is run through the College of Arts and Sciences.

The School is also home to the Annenberg Public Policy Center and many other centers, labs, and projects pursuing innovative communication research and teaching.

Honorary Degree Citations

Ingrid Daubechies

The New York Times dubbed you “The Godmother of the Digital Image.” You have been praised as a community-builder, tirelessly bridging fields to find meaningful solutions where other mathematicians see none. Much of how our modern world processes and conveys visual information today is made possible and made better by your interdisciplinary scientific contributions—at once elegant and endlessly practical.

Today you are the James B. Duke Distinguished Professor of Mathematics and Electrical and Computer Engineering at Duke University. You graduated from Vrije Universiteit Brussel with a PhD in theoretical physics and began your career in academic research. You pursued an interest in wavelets, mathematical tools that help process and analyze images. With colleagues, you constructed a brand-new family of wavelets—the “Daubechies wavelet,” as it became known. This creation led to a method of digital image compression without loss of crisp detail, enabling the sharp, high-definition images enjoyed on screens all over the world.

Your curiosity and love of problem-solving have led you to partner with experts across many disciplines, lending your mathematical skills to advance their fields. You have worked with neuroscientists to improve magnetic resonance imaging for more detailed analyses, helped geologists enhance global tomography, assisted biologists in their study of mammalian bones, and helped art historians advance conservation techniques. Perhaps most notably, you helped restore the Ghent Altarpiece, the Renaissance masterpiece in your native Belgium.

In a traditionally male discipline, your pioneering role stands out. As the first female President of the International Mathematical Union, you advocated for a worldwide math community and universal excellence in math instruction. You were the first woman to hold a full math professorship at Princeton University. Among countless honors, you were the first woman to receive the National Academy of Sciences award in mathematics and the first to win the Wolf Prize, one of the field’s most prestigious recognitions.

Always a champion for the joy of your field, you recently led a team of mathematicians and artists in creating a mixed media art installation—Mathemalchemy—that showcases the creativity and fun of math. This enormous yet intricate “living exhibit” now travels to art museums, spreading and celebrating the wonder of math.

With profound appreciation for your lifelong passion and genius for mathematics, which you have used to make trailblazing contributions to wireless communication, engineering, medicine, science, and the fine arts, advancing knowledge for the good of humankind while extolling the beauty of mathematics, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Ingrid Daubechies, the degree of Doctor of Sciences, honoris causa.

Karl Deisseroth

“The brain is wonderfully—and unfortunately—a very complicated place.” So you have said about the inscrutable organ that you study from the vantage of both clinician and basic scientist.

As a psychiatrist, you observe how mental health disorders manifest in your patients. In your bioengineering lab, you lead the creation of new technologies to probe and understand the brain. Each role drives the other forward, and by investigating how behavior and biology are related, you are closing the gap between them to find better treatments.

Your work is revolutionizing neuroscience. Building on previous discoveries, you developed optogenetics, a technology that engineers individual brain cells to be controlled by light, with the goal of modulating behavior. Integrating tools from chemical engineering and bioengineering, you co-created CLARITY, a process that makes non-living, biological tissue transparent to light so that it can be studied as an intact structure, eliminating the need for dissection.

These and other transformative tools have earned you a long list of honors, among them 16 solo awards for optogenetics, from the Betty and David Koetser Award for Brain Research in 2010 to the Japan Prize in 2023. You were selected as a Howard Hughes Medical Institute Investigator in 2013 and are an elected member of the US National Academy of Medicine, the US National Academy of Sciences, and the US National Academy of Engineering.

Growing up in a family of readers, you once considered turning your love for writing and words into a career. Since medical residency, you have kept notes on your patients, and in your acclaimed 2021 book, Projections, A Story of Human Emotions, you tell some of their stories, superbly capturing their experiences, feelings, and humanity.

Your open-minded approach to research and discovery has served you well, and in Projections, you write: “Ideas and influences from unexpected directions are not only important but essential—for medicine, for science, and for all of us in finding and following our trajectories through the world.”

After graduating summa cum laude from Harvard University with a bachelor’s in biochemical sciences, you earned a medical degree and a doctorate in neuroscience from Stanford University, where you also completed postdoctoral training, a medical internship, and an adult psychiatry residency. Today, you are the D.H. Chen Professor of Bioengineering and of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences at Stanford.

For your remarkable innovations in neuroscience, connecting human behavior and human biology to improve the lives of people with mental health disorders, and for sharing the powerful stories that illuminate your important work, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Karl Deisseroth, the degree of Doctor of Sciences, honoris causa.

Kenneth Gamble and
Leon Alexander Huff

It was the mid-1960's when you met by chance in an elevator in the Shubert Building where you both worked in Philadelphia. You were two aspiring musicians—Huff, a pianist and session musician, and Gamble, a singer and record store owner—and the conversation turned to songwriting. Then and there, you agreed to try your hand at writing together, a moment that would launch a solid gold partnership and a sensational new era in music.

As a team, you created a style all your own—a blend of gospel, jazz, and rhythm and blues—that was symphonic, soulful, and inspired by the great joy you found in working together. It came to be known as “The Sound of Philadelphia,” or simply, “The Philly Sound.” In 1971, you combined your talents for music, production, and entrepreneurship and co-founded Philadelphia International Records, which you modeled after Motown. With a distribution deal from CBS and a team of first-class musicians in your house band, MFSB, you took the world by storm with hit after hit.

All told, you have written and produced some 120 albums, and remarkably, more than 40 have achieved gold or platinum status. Indeed, your songs defined the 1970's and include “When Will I See You Again,” by The Three Degrees; “Me and Mrs. Jones” by Billy Paul; “Back Stabbers” by The O’Jays; “If You Don’t Know Me By Now,” by Harold Melvin & the Blue Notes, and many others. You penned the theme song for the popular TV dance show, Soul Train, “TSOP (The Sound of Philadelphia),” which reached number one in 1974.

In 1993, you were inducted, with partner Thom Bell, into the Philadelphia Music Foundation’s Hall of Fame—your long-lasting contributions signified by a brass plaque on Broad Street’s Avenue of the Arts. In 1995, you were installed in the National Academy of Songwriter’s Hall of Fame, and in 1999, you received a Lifetime Achievement Grammy Award. In 2008, the Rock & Roll Hall of Fame added your names to its legendary ranks.

Of your catalog of songs, you have said that the O’Jays’ “Love Train” is your favorite for it sums up the theme of hope and love that you have sought to share through your art. Its call for people around the world to live in harmony is a message that endures, as important today as it was back in 1972.

With deep gratitude for your six-decade collaboration, an enduring musical union that has given the world the “Sound of Philadelphia,” celebrating life and bringing joy to appreciative audiences everywhere, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Kenneth Gamble and Leon Alexander Huff, the degree of Doctor of Music, honoris causa.

Maya Lin

You have rooted your life and art in the natural world. Growing up in a rural Ohio college town, you explored the woods around your family home and nurtured a love of the outdoors. You bring that passion to your work as an artist, designer, and environmentalist—much of it inspired by nature and intended to awaken viewers to its majesty.

“The art doesn’t stop when I make the piece, the art actually begins when you start engaging with it,” you have said.

You gained prominence at a young age when, as an undergraduate at Yale University, you won a design competition for the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington, DC. This outstanding achievement was followed by a political firestorm over the implementation of your creation. That the memorial was built as you had envisioned is a testament to your strength and resilience; since its unveiling in 1982, it has become the most visited memorial on the National Mall and among the most moving.

The fruits of your ensuing career include a prolific array of art, architecture, and memorials—expressions that evoke emotion, invite thought, and expand perspectives. In 1989, you designed the Civil Rights Memorial in Montgomery, Alabama, where the social movement was born. On Yale’s campus sits “The Women’s Table,” a sculpture of stone and water, unveiled in 1993, that reflects on the history of women’s presence at the university. In a powerful illustration of global warming, you created the temporary public artwork, “Ghost Forest,” by transporting 49 dead white cedar trees, decimated by the salt of rising sea levels, from New Jersey to a park in lower Manhattan. There, you assembled an eerie woodland that exposed the cost of a warming planet.

Your redesign of the century-old Neilson Library at Smith College, your mother’s alma mater, holds personal meaning. She would no doubt be proud that this “calmly natural” library, as you have described it, is now one of the nation’s most energy efficient. For the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania, you and your team of artists and engineers created “Decoding the Tree of Life,” a 40-foot centerpiece for the Pavilion’s lobby that evokes the wonder of life and a sense of healing.

A lifelong respect for nature inspired you to launch “What is Missing?” in 2007. This multi-platform project, including a website, encourages the public to think deeply about what climate change has taken from their lives, personalizing the crisis with a hopeful message that the earth is resilient if only we take care of it.

With enormous gratitude for the works you have given to the world—beautiful, purposeful, and rooted in empathy—and for your thoughtful creativity in bringing the magic of the natural world into view and in baring its vulnerability, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Maya Lin, the degree of Doctor of Arts, honoris causa.

Siddhartha Mukherjee

In a time of disinformation and doubt in expertise, your literary contributions as an oncologist and hematologist have opened important popular conversations about human health. You distill complex medical issues through masterful prose, breathing life into the history and significance of science and making it accessible to readers around the globe.

Your trilogy of books began with The Emperor of All Maladies: A Biography of Cancer, for which you won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize. Hailing your work, the Prize committee called it “an elegant inquiry, at once clinical and personal, into the long history of an insidious disease that, despite treatment breakthroughs, still bedevils medical science.”

Next came The Gene: An Intimate History, the story of heredity and a number one bestseller that the New York Times ranked as one of the most influential books of 2016. Both books would be adapted into PBS documentaries by award-winning filmmaker Ken Burns. In 2022's Song of the Cell: An Exploration of Medicine and the New Human, you explain the very basis of life and the importance of understanding cells to unravel the mysteries of disease and create new therapies.

During your boyhood in New Delhi, it was music that took center stage. From the age of seven, you were a serious and talented student, singing ragas, the classical music of India. But in college this passion gave way to science, and you earned a BS in biology from Stanford University, followed by a DPhil in immunology from Oxford University, where you were a Rhodes scholar. Returning to the United States, you earned an MD from Harvard University and completed an internal medicine residency and an oncology fellowship at Massachusetts General Hospital.

As a physician-scientist at Columbia University, you focus on blood cancers—interrogating the biology of cancer cells, caring for patients, mentoring the next generation, and developing new treatments. Among your research projects is a therapy for myeloid leukemia, one of the deadliest cancers. Inspired by Penn's pioneering CAR T cell therapy for a childhood leukemia, you are leading an initiative to manufacture and deliver those same therapies in your native India. Many patients, mostly children, have been successfully treated—and you have thanked Penn for sharing its expertise with the world.

For a life dedicated to discovery, education, and healing, and to bringing hope to patients with cancer, and for your gift as a storyteller, underscoring the tremendous impact of science and its potential for improving human health, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Siddhartha Mukherjee, the degree of Doctor of Sciences, honoris causa.

As final action cannot always be taken by the time this program goes to press, these lists of degree and prize recipients are tentative only. The appearance of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person has received a degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Conversely, the absence of a student's name herein does not necessarily mean that the person has not been awarded a Penn degree. The student's transcript is the official record of the University.

As final action cannot always be taken by the time this program goes to press, these lists of degree and prize recipients are tentative only. The appearance of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person has received a degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Conversely, the absence of a student's name herein does not necessarily mean that the person has not been awarded a Penn degree. The student's transcript is the official record of the University.

As final action cannot always be taken by the time this program goes to press, these lists of degree and prize recipients are tentative only. The appearance of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person has received a degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Conversely, the absence of a student's name herein does not necessarily mean that the person has not been awarded a Penn degree. The student's transcript is the official record of the University.

As final action cannot always be taken by the time this program goes to press, these lists of degree and prize recipients are tentative only. The appearance of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person has received a degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Conversely, the absence of a student's name herein does not necessarily mean that the person has not been awarded a Penn degree. The student's transcript is the official record of the University.

As final action cannot always be taken by the time this program goes to press, these lists of degree and prize recipients are tentative only. The appearance of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person has received a degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Conversely, the absence of a student's name herein does not necessarily mean that the person has not been awarded a Penn degree. The student's transcript is the official record of the University.
