269TH COMMENCEMENT

MAY 19, 2025

Leaders for a Changing World

A Message from President J. Larry Jameson, MD, PhD

Welcome to the University of Pennsylvania's 269th Commencement ceremony. Penn proudly recognizes our graduates with this, one of our most venerable traditions. Today, we celebrate these extraordinary students who exemplify Penn's values, uphold its missions, and inherit the enduring legacy of our founder, Benjamin Franklin.

As valued members of Penn's scholarly community, the Class of 2025 embraces excellence, freedom of inquiry and expression, and respect. They are open-minded and curious, inventive and practical, exhibiting brilliance across fields, imperfect but self-improving, and relentlessly focused on enhancing social good. Today's graduates share these enduring values with their alma mater, and we enthusiastically present these graduates as a positive force – thoughtful and passionate leaders who are ready to navigate and improve our rapidly changing world.

They have learned, researched, invented, competed, cared, served, and grown within an academic community second to none. Our eminent faculty advance Penn's excellence across the humanities, arts, sciences, and professions, contributing powerful insights while preparing students to think critically, creatively, and to lead on issues of our time and all time.

In their years here, these students have forged a community of peers from many walks of life and from all over the world. They have learned by living with others, listening to different opinions, advocating for their ideas, and respecting diverse points of view—all invaluable preparation for this moment in time and for life.

Today, Penn's newest alumni join centuries of proud graduates who came before and have in countless positive ways helped create the world we know today. May they continue holding tight to our values of curiosity, community, and the common good. Their Penn education will serve them well, and we wish them all the very best.

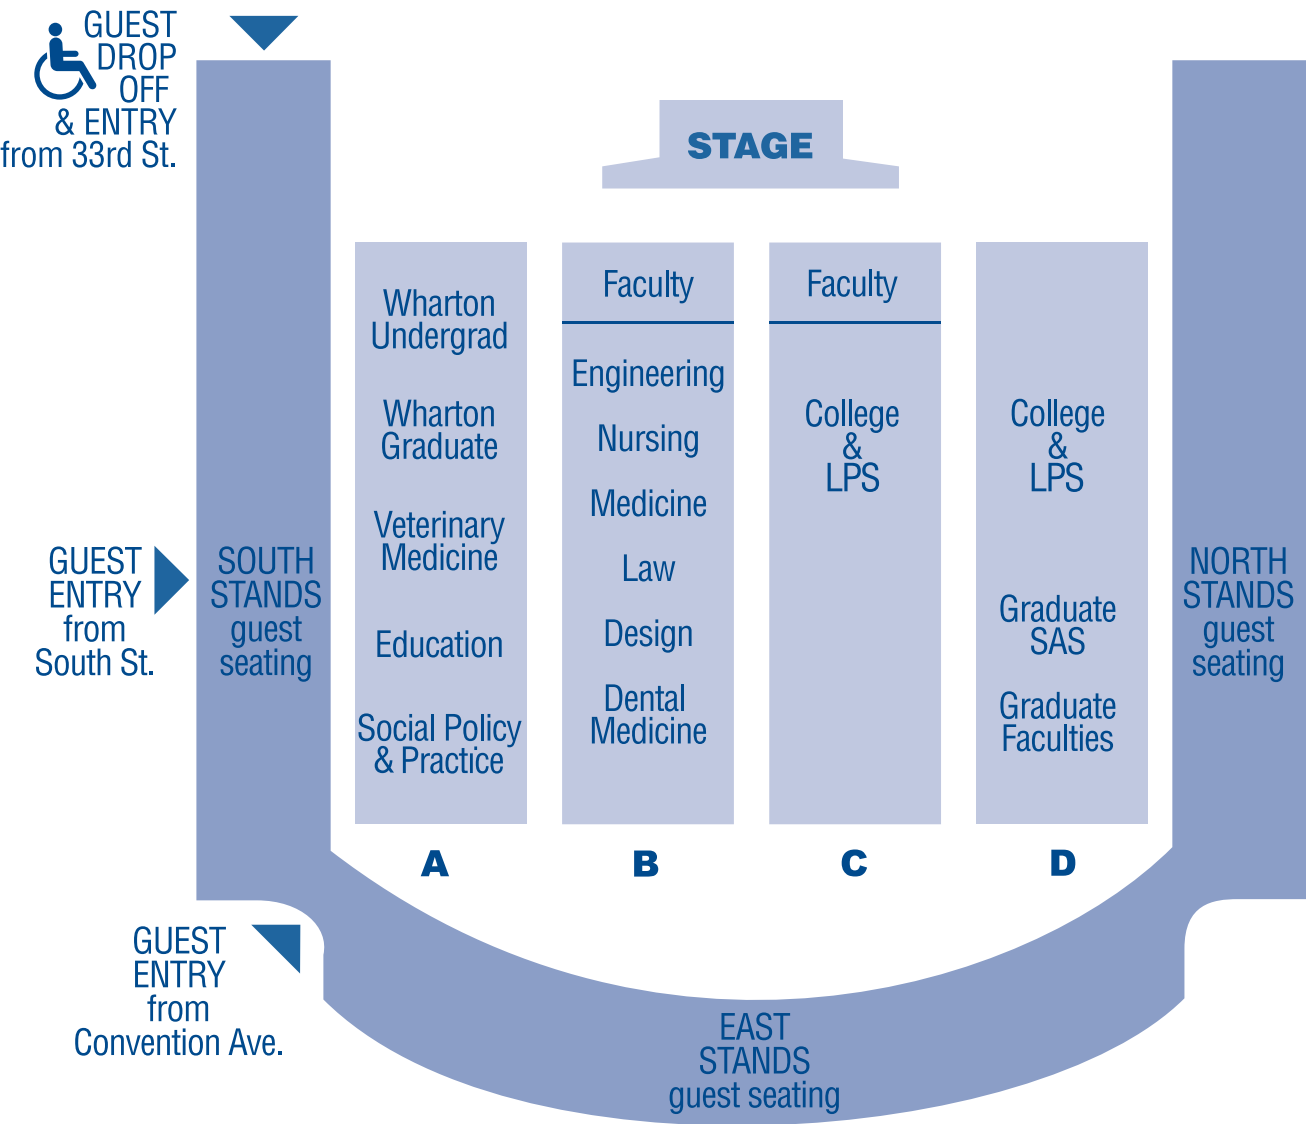

Congratulations to the Class of 2025.

Commencement Seating

Guests will find this diagram helpful in locating the approximate seating of the degree candidates. The sequence in which the candidates are presented for degrees is shown on the next page. The list on page 6, detailing the colors of the candidates' hoods according to their fields of study, may further assist guests in identifying the locations of the various schools.

In case of emergency, evacuation procedures will be announced.

The National Anthem
Carlee “Lee” Reid, W’25
Oh, say, can you see, by the dawn’s early light,
What so proudly we hailed at the twilight’s last gleaming?
Whose broad stripes and bright stars, thro’ the perilous fight
O’er the ramparts we watched, were so gallantly streaming.
And the rockets’ red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there.
Oh, say, does that star-spangled banner yet wave
O’er the land of the free and the home of the brave?

The Red and Blue

By William J. Goeckel, Class of 1896, and Harry E. Westervelt, Class of 1898

Come all ye loyal classmates now, in hall and campus through,

Lift up your hearts and voices for the royal Red and Blue.

Fair Harvard has her crimson, old Yale her colors too,

But for dear Pennsylvania, we wear the Red and Blue.

(Chorus)

Hurrah! Hurrah! Pennsylvania!

Hurrah for the Red and the Blue;

Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!

Hurrah for the Red and the Blue.

Academic Regalia and Traditions

May 19, 2025 – the University of Pennsylvania’s 269th Commencement. Penn traces its origins to a deed of trust executed in 1740 and is celebrating its 285th birthday this year. Bachelor’s, master’s, and doctoral degrees will be conferred upon some 6,000 graduates of the University’s 12 schools. Honorary degrees will be awarded to four individuals of distinction in varied fields, as you will note on pages 11-12 of this program.

The practice of sporting signs on caps and gowns as a form of public proclamation at Commencement dates to the early 1760s and recalls an even more ancient tradition, originating in the practice of medieval universities. Penn’s archives contain several 18th century broadsides, printed in Latin, which were distributed to Commencement guests along with the regular programs. The broadsides contain a series of propositions classified under various academic headings. Presumably, the graduating students were willing to defend these theses against any assertions to the contrary. On the eve of the Revolution, however, statements such as “the rights of the people are as divine as the rights of their rulers” must have met with widespread sympathy.

Academic Ceremony and Regalia

Commencement exercises at American universities and colleges traditionally are composed of three essential elements: the Academic Procession, the conferring of degrees, and the Commencement address. This practice has been codified since 1895, when a national conference on academic costume and ceremony was proposed and a plan known initially as the “Intercollegiate System” was formally adopted. The Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania incorporated this code into the Statutes of the University in November 1896. Now under the aegis of the American Council on Education, the “Academic Costume Code and Academic Ceremony Guide” was revised in 1932 and 1960.* Throughout the 20th century, and today, Commencement at Penn has, with minor modifications, followed the dictates of the code and its revisions.

By 1896, however, Penn had been granting degrees for nearly 140 years. Like other American colonial colleges, Penn borrowed its 18th century Commencement rituals directly from the English universities. In England the history of academic dress reaches back to the early days of the oldest schools. As early as the second half of the 14th century, the statutes of certain colleges prohibited “excess in apparel” and required the wearing of a long gown. It is still an open question as to whether academic dress finds its sources chiefly in ecclesiastical or in civilian dress. It is often suggested that gowns and hoods were the simplest, most effective method of staying warm in the unheated, stone buildings that housed medieval scholars. In any case, academic regalia had evolved to contemporary familiarity by the time Benjamin Franklin was awarded an honorary Doctor of Laws by the University of St. Andrews in 1759.

Traditions and Current Practice at Penn

In April 1887, on the recommendation of a committee of the faculty, the Trustees adopted the “‘Pennsylvania’ System of Academic Costume.” The colors and trimmings of hoods and caps were regularized according to faculty and degree. Beginning with the Commencement of 1887, the “‘Pennsylvania’ System” was published in each year’s program and adherence to its rules was expected of Trustees, faculty, and students alike. Beginning in 1896, the “‘Pennsylvania’ System” was superseded by the “Intercollegiate System,” which has continued in effect to the present time.

The gowns used in American academic ceremonies vary according to the highest degree awarded to the wearer. The gown for the bachelor’s degree has pointed sleeves; it is designed to be worn closed. The gown for the master’s degree has an oblong sleeve, open at the wrist. The sleeve base hangs down in the traditional manner. The rear part of its oblong shape is square cut and the front has an arc cut away. The master’s gown may be worn open or closed. The doctoral gown is a more elaborate costume faced down the front with black velvet and across the sleeves with three bars of the same; these facings and crossbars may be of velvet of the color distinctive to the field of study to which the degree pertains. The doctoral gown has bell-shaped sleeves and may be worn open or closed. Some institutions have authorized doctoral gowns in colors other than the customary black; holders of the University of Pennsylvania doctorate may wear red and blue gowns.

The hoods are lined in silk with the official color or colors of the college or university which granted the highest degree held by the wearer; more than one color is shown by division of the field color in a variety of ways, such as by chevron or chevrons. The binding or edging of the hood is in velvet, with widths of two inches, three inches, and five inches for the bachelor’s, master’s, and doctoral degrees, respectively. The color of the border indicates the field of study to which the degree pertains. University of Pennsylvania graduates wear a hood lined in red with a blue chevron. The mortarboard cap is standard, though soft square-topped caps are permissible. Recipients of doctorates may wear a gold tassel fastened to the middle point of the top of the cap; all others wear black.

Degrees shall be conferred today according to the following order:

Arts & Letters, white
Science, golden yellow
Business Administration, mustard
Nursing, apricot
Medicine, green
Law, purple
Fine Arts (including Design), brown
Dental Medicine, lilac
Veterinary Medicine, gray
Education, light blue
Social Work, citron
Philosophy, dark blue

*This and additional material which follows is taken from “An Academic Costume Code and Academic Ceremony Guide” in American Council on Education, American Universities and Colleges, 14th ed. (New York: Walter de Gruyter, 1992).

Academic Procession

The order for today's Academic Procession is as follows:

- Mace Bearer
- President and Provost
- Chair, Board of Trustees
- Commencement Speaker
- Candidates for Honorary Degrees
- Deans
- Trustees
- Officers of the University
- Faculty
- Advisors

University Mace

The Secretary of the University carries the University mace, the symbol of authority of the University, at the head of the Academic Procession. It was a gift from the family of William Murray Gordon, MD 1910. It is adorned with the seal and arms of the University, the Penn and Franklin coats-of-arms, a depiction of the Rittenhouse Orrery, and a thistle symbolizing the early ties of the University with Scotland.

President's Badge of Office

The President's badge of office is a silver medallion of which one face is engraved, like the mace, with the University seal. The obverse of the President's medal bears the "orrery seal," designed in 1782 by Francis Hopkinson, AB 1757, a signer of the Declaration of Independence. The medal, suspended on a chain composed of silver links, was given by the late Trustee Thomas Sovereign Gates, Jr., AB 1928, LLD 1956, on the occasion of Sheldon Hackney's inauguration as President in October 1981.

UNIVERSITY SEAL AND SYMBOLS

SEAL OF THE CORPORATION

The Trustees of the University have an official seal that is, in effect, the signature of the Corporation. It had its origin at a meeting of the Board of Trustees in 1755 with Benjamin Franklin as Chair. Though the seal underwent changes over the years, the most recent design, approved in 1932 and adopted in 1933, returned it to virtually its original form.

The seal is composed of seven books stacked on a slanted desktop, with the books bearing the following titles, representing the curricula of the day: Theolog, Astronom, Philosoph, Mathemat, Logica, Rhetorica, Grammatica. On the periphery of the stack of books appears the University motto, Leges Sine Moribus Vanæ, and the whole is encircled with the inscription, Universitatis Pennsylvaniae.

MOTTO: LEGES SINE MORIBUS VANÆ

The motto of the University, Leges Sine Moribus Vanæ, means "Laws without morals are useless." It comes from the longer quotation from Horace, "Quid leges sine moribus vanae proficiunt?" the sense of which is "Of what avail are empty laws without (good) morals?"

PENN COAT-OF-ARMS

The Penn coat-of-arms was derived by combining the coat-of-arms of Benjamin Franklin and that of William Penn's family. The dolphin on the red chief was part of Franklin's coat-of-arms and the three silver plates on a blue chevron were part of Penn's. The two were combined on a white shield along with two open volumes representing the University's educational purpose.

SCHOOL COLORS

Eighteenth century American academic institutions did not have colors. The earliest known representation of the combined Penn colors, red and blue, is on the incised lid of the 1871 College Hall cornerstone.

One legend traces their origins to an early track meet at Saratoga, New York, between Penn, Harvard, and Yale. When asked by the officials what colors would be representing the Penn team, the Pennsylvania captain reportedly replied, "We're going to be wearing the colors of the teams we beat," i.e., Harvard Crimson and Yale Blue. We shall assume that Penn was victorious and thus remained loyal to the Red and Blue.

Schools of the University

School of Arts and Sciences (1755)

The School of Arts and Sciences (SAS) is the direct descendant of the College of Philadelphia, where Benjamin Franklin established the first modern arts and sciences curriculum in the English colonies. Undergraduate programs for men date to the chartering of the College in 1755; the College of Liberal Arts for Women was founded in 1933. The Graduate School was established in 1882 with the appointment of a Faculty of Philosophy. The College of Liberal and Professional Studies (lifelong learning) traces its roots to 1892. The School of Arts and Sciences was born in 1974 with the merger of the College of Arts and Sciences, the College for Women, the Graduate School, and four social science departments from Wharton. Today, SAS is the largest of the University's 12 schools, providing a liberal arts education for all Penn undergraduates and supporting graduate studies, basic research, and continuing education across the full range of the humanities, natural sciences, and social sciences. The School has 28 departments with 517 standing faculty, 34 research centers, six interschool institutes, and 10,855 students.

Perelman School of Medicine (1765)

Established in 1765 as the nation's first medical school, what is now known as the Raymond and Ruth Perelman School of Medicine at the University of Pennsylvania continues a rich tradition of providing the nation's best medical training and education, with service to its community as a cornerstone. Today, the School honors its longstanding commitment to advancing knowledge and improving health close to home and across the world through research, patient care, and the education of trainees in a community that fosters innovation, stimulates critical thinking, embraces equal opportunity, and supports lifelong learning. More than 760 students are pursuing medical degrees in the Perelman School of Medicine, more than 1,060 are studying toward doctorates in biomedical sciences, (with more than 240 enrolled in joint MD/PhD programs), and more than 620 students are pursuing professional master's degrees. Across the School's affiliated hospitals, 1,445 residents and fellows are completing their medical training. Over the past decade, the Perelman School of Medicine has consistently been among the top recipients of research funding from the National Institutes of Health.

Penn Carey Law School (1790)

Penn's dedication to innovative legal education began in 1790, when founding father James Wilson — signer of the Declaration of Independence, framer of the U.S. Constitution, and one of the original U.S. Supreme Court Justices — delivered a series of lectures to President George Washington and his cabinet. In 1850, George Sharswood established a formal legal instruction program, and in 1900, after several years of holding classes across the city of Philadelphia, the School established its current location at 34th and Chestnut Streets. Today, the University of Pennsylvania Carey Law School provides a cross-disciplinary, globally focused legal education taught by preeminent scholars and internationally renowned experts in their fields. Nearly half of its faculty hold advanced degrees in addition to law, and half hold joint or secondary appointments at schools across the University. In the 2024-25 academic year, Penn Carey Law has close to 1,000 students — many of whom are earning joint degrees and certificates of study in fields outside of the law — and more than 70 full-time faculty. Penn Carey Law awards five degrees: Juris Doctor; Master of Laws for internationally trained lawyers; Master of Comparative Laws; Doctor of the Science of Law; and Master in Law for non-lawyers.

School of Engineering and Applied Science (1852)

Founded in 1852 as the School of Mines, Arts and Manufactures, the School of Engineering and Applied Science (SEAS) is Penn's intellectual home of technology-related teaching and research. For 172 years, Penn Engineering has been a vibrant and collaborative community of innovation. World-acclaimed faculty, state-of-the-art research laboratories, and highly interdisciplinary curricula offer students an unparalleled learning experience.

From the time ENIAC, the world's first computer, was developed and introduced on campus in 1946, Penn Engineering has continued a tradition of leadership and cutting-edge research. Innovation and technology drive our every program and Penn Engineers play a critical role in posing and answering the questions that will improve the human condition and transform our world. The Penn Engineering community is as robust as it has ever been with 157 tenure-track faculty, 21 Research and Practice Professors, 17 lecturers, 238 staff, approximately 1899 undergraduates, 1870 master's students, and 988 doctoral students.

Stuart Weitzman School of Design (1869)

Although the School of Design dates its founding from 1890, architecture courses were first offered at the University of Pennsylvania in 1869, making Penn's architecture program the second oldest in the United States. In 1921, the Department of Architecture joined with the Department of Music and Fine Arts to create an independent undergraduate School of Fine Arts modeled on the French École des Beaux Arts. In 1958, the School was renamed the Graduate School of Fine Arts, reflecting the shift to graduate degree offerings in architecture, city and regional planning, landscape architecture, and fine arts. In the 1980s, a program in historic preservation was added. To more accurately capture the School's sphere of influence, it was renamed the School of Design in 2003. In recognition of both his lifetime philanthropic support of Penn and his engagement with its academic activities, the School was named for award-winning designer and footwear icon Stuart Weitzman, W'63, in February of 2019. Today, with a standing faculty of 55, more than 150 lecturers and associated faculty, and nearly 700 students, the School prepares students to address complex sociocultural and environmental issues through thoughtful inquiry, creative expression, and innovation.

School of Dental Medicine (1878)

Established in 1878 as the Dental Department of the University of Pennsylvania, the School of Dental Medicine is among the oldest university-affiliated dental institutions in the country with a history deeply rooted in forging precedents in dental education, research, and patient care. In 1897, Thomas W. Evans, a Philadelphia native and clinician who spent most of his life in France as the dentist to European nobility, left his estate to create a dental school that was “second to none.” Evans’ bequest would become one with the University, creating the Thomas W. Evans Museum and Dental Institute, which opened in 1915. Today, the Evans Building remains the site of much of the school’s clinical instruction. The dental campus also includes the Robert Schattner Center and the Leon Levy Center for Oral Health Research, home to the basic sciences and extensive research activities.

Penn Dental Medicine (PDM) is a major provider of care in West Philadelphia and through outreach clinical programs, students completed 67,080 hours in 2024 providing clinical care at PDM clinics in the surrounding Philadelphia neighborhoods.

Penn Dental Medicine offers the degrees of Doctor of Dental Medicine (DMD), Master of Science in Oral Biology (MSOB), Master of Oral Health Sciences (MOHS), Master of Advanced Dental Sciences (MADS), Master of Science in Oral and Population Health (MOPH), and Doctor of Science in Dentistry (DScD) and trains postdoctoral students in advanced general dentistry, endodontics, oral medicine, oral and maxillofacial surgery, orthodontics, pediatric dentistry, periodontics, periodontics/orthodontics, periodontal/prosthesis, and prosthodontics.

In the 2024-2025 academic year, Penn Dental Medicine has 749 DMD students, 41 students in the MSOB program, 5 in the MOHS program, 1 in the MADS program, 2 in the MOPH program, 7 in the DScD stand-alone program and 13 in the DScD plus certificate programs.

Penn Dental Medicine has over 500 faculty members, including 108 full-time faculty.

Wharton School (1881)

Founded in 1881 as the world’s first collegiate business school, the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania is shaping the future of business by incubating ideas, driving insights, and creating leaders who change the world. With a faculty of more than 230 renowned professors, Wharton has over 5,000 undergraduate, MBA, executive MBA, and doctoral students. Each year, the School welcomes 13,000 professionals from around the world who advance their careers through Wharton Executive Education’s individual, company-customized, and online programs. Today, more than 100,000 Wharton alumni form a powerful global network of leaders who transform business every day.

School of Veterinary Medicine (1884)

Ranked among the top ten veterinary schools worldwide, the University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine (Penn Vet) is a global leader in veterinary education, research, and clinical care. Founded in 1884, Penn Vet is the first veterinary school developed in association with a medical school. The school is a proud member of the One Health initiative, linking human, animal, and environmental health.

Penn Vet serves a diverse population of animals at its two campuses, which include extensive diagnostic and research laboratories. Ryan Hospital in Philadelphia provides care for dogs, cats, and other domestic/companion animals, handling more than 34,600 patient visits each year. New Bolton Center, Penn Vet’s large-animal hospital on nearly 700 acres in rural Kennett Square, Pennsylvania, cares for horses and livestock/farm animals. The hospital handles nearly 6,800 patient visits a year, while New Bolton Center’s ambulatory Field Service made more than 5,500 farm service calls, treating more than 23,000 patients at local farms. In addition, New Bolton Center’s campus includes a swine center, working dairy, and poultry unit that provide valuable research for the agriculture industry.

Graduate School of Education (1914)

The University of Pennsylvania Graduate School of Education (Penn GSE) is one of the nation’s premier schools of education, consistently producing top-ranked researchers and educational leaders. The University of Pennsylvania created its first professorship in education in 1894 and established the full-fledged School of Education in 1914. The School’s first graduating class in 1915 comprised three women and three men, who received the School’s first Bachelor of Science in Education degrees. In 1961, the School was restructured and renamed the Graduate School of Education. Penn GSE launched an Administrative Leadership Program in 1971 to prepare school administrators for creative and dynamic leadership. This was the first in a long line of successful leadership programs. Today, Penn GSE offers 39 programs leading to the PhD, EdD, MPhil Ed, and MS Ed degrees in more than 30 fields of education. Reflecting a deep commitment to urban education, Penn GSE’s students and researchers are involved in schools across every catchment area of the School District of Philadelphia, including robust partnerships with two West Philadelphia schools. Penn GSE is also home to the Milken-Penn GSE Education Business Plan Competition, intended to spark innovations that improve education by bringing together entrepreneurs and funders for sustained collaboration, and the Harold W. McGraw, Jr. Prize in Education, which celebrates the innovation and impact of individuals in education. No other education school enjoys a university environment as supportive of practical knowledge-building as Penn GSE.

School of Nursing (1935)

Nursing education at Penn began in 1886 when the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania started a nurse training program. In 1935, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania established a nursing degree program within the School of Education, and in 1950 the School of Nursing was established. The Master of Science in Nursing program was instituted in 1961, the Doctor of Nursing Science program in 1978, the Doctor of Philosophy program in 1984, and the Doctor of Nursing Practice program in 2016. The School added a Master of Science in Nutrition Science degree in 2023. In order to accelerate a path to a career in nursing for non-nurses, the School added the Master of Professional Nursing degree in 2024. These innovations and a curriculum which progressively reflects changing health care delivery patterns have advanced the School into the first rank of American schools of nursing. The School has two departments, Biobehavioral Health Sciences and Family and Community Health. It is widely recognized for its leadership in nursing research in the areas of health outcomes and policy research, nursing history, biobehavioral health sciences, global women's health, health equity, aging, and transitions in health. It also has a global reputation for innovations in nurse-managed clinical practice and is a World Health Organization Collaborating Center for Nursing and Midwifery Leadership. The School ranks number one in world nursing school rankings. The School of Nursing has 66 standing faculty and 1,214 students.

School of Social Policy & Practice (1948)

The School of Social Policy & Practice has long been known for its dedication to education, practice, and research for social good, advancing well-being for all. The School began in 1908 under the Children's Bureau of Philadelphia and became affiliated with the University of Pennsylvania in 1935. The School formally merged with the University in 1948 as the School of Social Work. In 2005, the School's name was changed to the School of Social Policy & Practice (SP2) to reflect a broader mission that today includes five top-ranked degree programs — Master of Social Work, Master of Science in Social Policy, Master of Science in Nonprofit Leadership, Doctorate in Clinical Social Work, and Doctor of Philosophy in Social Welfare — along with certificate programs and dual degrees. Dedicated to producing social change agents — policy makers, practitioners, educators, activists — the rigorous curriculum includes field placements, internships, and practicums across Philadelphia and beyond. Among SP2's transdisciplinary and collaborative research centers and initiatives are the Center for Guaranteed Income Research, the Center for Public Service and Mobility, the Ortner Center on Violence and Abuse, the Field Center for Children's Policy, Practice, & Research, Actionable Intelligence for Social Policy, Health Equity Lab, the Center for Carceral Communities, the Center for High Impact Philanthropy, the Center for Social Impact Strategy, SAFElab, and Penn Center on Inclusive Innovation and Technology. The School has 28 standing faculty, two research faculty, and approximately 580 students.

Annenberg School for Communication (1959)

Founded through the generosity and vision of diplomat and philanthropist Walter H. Annenberg, the Annenberg School for Communication (ASC) at the University of Pennsylvania is devoted to furthering the understanding of the role of communication in public life through research, education, and service. At the School's founding, Ambassador Annenberg identified its unique mission: "Every human advancement or reversal can be understood through communication. The right to free communication carries with it responsibility to respect the dignity of others — and this must be recognized as irreversible. Educating students to communicate this message effectively and to serve all people is the enduring mission of this school."

The Annenberg School has remained true to the mission articulated by Ambassador Annenberg while responding to changes in both the nature of communication as a social process and in communication as a discipline and an interdisciplinary field of study.

With strengths in health communication, politics and policy, cultural inquiry, digital media, and computational social science, the Annenberg School is one of the top communication schools in the nation. The School has 25 standing faculty members, 30 additional research and teaching faculty and associates, 71 graduate students, and over 150 undergraduate communication majors. The School offers a Doctor of Philosophy degree and a Bachelor of Arts major, which is run through the College of Arts and Sciences.

The School is also home to the Annenberg Public Policy Center and many other centers, labs, and projects pursuing innovative communication research and teaching.

Honorary Degree Citations

Elizabeth Banks

In 1996, you graduated magna cum laude from the University of Pennsylvania's School of Arts and Sciences. Today, you stand before the Class of 2025 as a fellow Quaker whose path has led to Hollywood acclaim as a beloved and prolific actor, producer, and director in American film, television, and theater.

Your skill and versatility as a performer are inspiring. Following Penn, you attended the American Conservatory Theater in San Francisco where you trained in the classics. Plentiful work in commercials honed your gift for comedy, and it was not long before opportunities in film came your way.

One of the first was for Seabiscuit, the 2003 film that garnered seven Academy Award nominations and which you have described as “a big launching pad” for your career. You received glowing reviews for playing Effie Trinket in the Hunger Games movies, former First Lady Laura Bush in W, and Melinda Ledbetter in Love & Mercy. Recurring roles in television's popular 30 Rock and Modern Family earned you three Emmy nominations.

An advocate for empowering women in the entertainment industry, you have led by example by adding producer and director to your credits. With your husband, Max Handelman, a Penn alumnus you met your first day on campus, you created Brownstone Productions. Since its founding in 2002, Brownstone has helmed projects such as Shrill, Bottoms, and, a particular fan favorite, Pitch Perfect.

In 2015, you made a big impression with your debut as the director of Pitch Perfect 2, which set box-office records as the highest opening weekend for a musical, the biggest opener for a first-time director, and the second-largest opening for a female director. You starred in and produced Pitch Perfect 3 (2017) and later directed Charlie's Angels (2019) and the hit comedy-thriller Cocaine Bear (2023).

The first in your family to attend college, you grew up in a western Massachusetts town where a deep sense of community informed a life-long spirit of giving. You have supported causes such as the Center for Reproductive Rights as Chair of the Creative Council, Planned Parenthood, Heifer International, and the Intrepid Fallen Heroes Fund.

With appreciation for your talent, artistry in bringing the wonder of stories to screens large and small, boldly driving the narrative of your own career as a director and producer, and carrying forward the centuries-old Penn tradition of doing good in the world, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Elizabeth Banks, the degree of Doctor of Arts, honoris causa.

Lonnie G. Bunch III

Historian, educator, writer, and curator, you devoted your life's work to history, which you have described as “the fundamental force that shapes who we are today.” You bring this reverence to your service as the Smithsonian Institution's fourteenth Secretary. You are the first African American and first historian to lead this vast national treasure, founded by Congress in 1846 to enlighten citizens about the arts, culture, and science.

Both your parents were teachers who impressed upon you the value of education. But it was your paternal grandfather who, when you were four years old, began reading history books to you. A sharecropper by day who studied dentistry at night, your grandfather taught you the importance of remembering people and their past.

His lessons inspired in you a love of history and the drive to share it with the world. In the 1980s, you assembled award-winning exhibitions as curator at the California African American Museum in Los Angeles. In 2001, you became the President of the Chicago Historical Society. Later, you served as founding Director of the National Museum of African American History and Culture, one of Washington D.C.'s most significant and popular landmarks.

As Secretary, you lead the Smithsonian's 21 museums, 21 libraries, the National Zoo, and multiple centers dedicated to research and education. You espouse a “full embrace of history,” illuminating the good, the bad, and the “challenges that remind us that we have a lot to do.” For example, you adopted the Shared Stewardship and Ethical Returns Policy, focused on returning unethically acquired artwork to their places of origin, and you spearheaded the creation of the Slave Wrecks Project to conduct scholarly maritime archeology on sunken slave ships, among other such efforts.

Time and again, your expertise has been sought and your achievements recognized, including appointments to the Committee for the Preservation of the White House by President George W. Bush and President Barack Obama. The Roosevelt Institute granted you the Freedom Medal for your contributions to American culture as a historian and storyteller. The Hutchins Center at Harvard University recognized you with the W.E.B. Du Bois Medal. Tel Aviv University also gave you the Dan David Prize, and these are by no means an exhaustive list of your honors.

With gratitude for your leadership in safeguarding the nation's past so that future generations will understand and appreciate their heritage, and for your exceptional stewardship of the Smithsonian Institution, a beloved resource and powerful symbol of our shared American culture, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Lonnie G. Bunch III, the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

Lene Vestergaard Hau

In 1676, your Danish compatriot and fellow physicist, Ole Roemer, made the revolutionary discovery that the speed of light can be measured—now known to be 186,000 miles per second. More than three centuries later, you led a team that achieved the seemingly impossible: slowing light to an extraordinary 15 miles per hour and eventually stopping light altogether and restarting it in a different location.

As an expert in the field of quantum optics, you explore the interactions of light and matter at the most minute levels known. Your success in manipulating light has significance for quantum information science and poses the potential to accelerate the development of quantum computers.

When you were a young student, you loved math and physics, and at the university level found a passion for quantum mechanics. After earning your PhD at the University of Aarhus in 1991, you spent seven months at CERN, the European Lab for Particle Physics near Geneva. You moved to the United States for a post-doctoral program at Harvard and then worked as a Senior Scientist at the Rowland Institute for Science in Cambridge, Massachusetts, before joining the Harvard faculty in 1999.

Today, you are the Mallinckrodt Professor of Physics and of Applied Physics at Harvard. A scientist, teacher, and mentor, you contribute to a wide variety of fields and inspire the next generation, cultivating promising young physicists who learn from your example to believe in oneself, value perseverance, and respect the importance of team science. Your protégés are among the world's future leaders in academia, research, and industry.

For your groundbreaking work, you have received many prestigious honors, including a 2001 MacArthur Fellowship. In 2010, you were designated "World Dane" by Danes Worldwide "for emphatically and persistently placing Denmark on the world map." You were elected to the American Philosophical Society, the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences, and the Royal Danish Academy of Sciences and Letters.

In recognition of your remarkable discoveries, forging brand new possibilities for the future of quantum optics and quantum computers, and pursuing your scientific inquiry with unrelenting curiosity and creative vision, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Lene Vestergaard Hau, the degree of Doctor of Sciences, honoris causa.

Barbara D. Savage

As the Geraldine R. Segal Professor Emerita of American Social Thought at the University of Pennsylvania, you have greatly advanced the scholarship of African American history and notably contributed to the University's standing as one of the nation's premier institutions for research and education in the field.

You joined Penn's History Department in 1995 and for the next quarter century inspired graduate and undergraduate students as a teacher and mentor, leading courses in twentieth century African American history; the history of American religious and social reform movements; the history of the relationship between media and politics; and Black women's political and intellectual history. You served as inaugural Chair of the Department of Africana Studies, from which you retired in 2020.

You are the author of three award-winning books, the most recent a 2023 biography of a twentieth century intellectual whose trailblazing story had never been told: Merze Tate: The Global Odyssey of a Black Woman Scholar. In 2008, you published Your Spirits Walk Beside Us: The Politics of Black Religion, and in 1999, Broadcasting Freedom: Radio, War, and the Politics of Race, 1938-1948. You co-edited two collections, including Toward an Intellectual History of Black Women (2015) and Women and Religion in the African Diaspora (2006), and you have lectured widely.

Beyond Penn, you have shared your knowledge as a Fellow at the Smithsonian Institution, the Radcliffe Institute for Advanced Studies at Harvard University, the Princeton University Center for the Study of Religion, and the Scholars-in-Residence Program at the Schomburg Center on Black Culture of the New York Public Library. In 2018-2019, you were the Vyvyan Harmsworth Visiting Professor of American History at the University of Oxford, where a thesis prize in Black history was established in your honor at Oxford's Rothermere American Institute, which is dedicated to the study of the United States and its place in the world.

Educated in a segregated school system in Virginia, you were a first-generation college student, receiving a bachelor's degree from the University of Virginia as a member of its first undergraduate class to include women. Later, you earned a law degree from Georgetown University and a PhD in history from Yale University.

For a distinguished life dedicated to the exploration of African American history, which has broadened our understanding of the African American experience and its place in the nation's past and present, and for your important role as an exemplar for a new generation of academic historians, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Barbara D. Savage, the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

As final action cannot always be taken by the time this program goes to press, these lists of degree recipients are tentative only. The appearance of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person has received a degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Conversely, the absence of a student's name herein does not necessarily mean that the person has not been awarded a Penn degree. The student's transcript is the official record of the University.

As final action cannot always be taken by the time this program goes to press, these lists of degree recipients are tentative only. The appearance of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person has received a degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Conversely, the absence of a student's name herein does not necessarily mean that the person has not been awarded a Penn degree. The student's transcript is the official record of the University.

As final action cannot always be taken by the time this program goes to press, these lists of degree recipients are tentative only. The appearance of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person has received a degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Conversely, the absence of a student's name herein does not necessarily mean that the person has not been awarded a Penn degree. The student's transcript is the official record of the University.

As final action cannot always be taken by the time this program goes to press, these lists of degree recipients are tentative only. The appearance of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person has received a degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Conversely, the absence of a student's name herein does not necessarily mean that the person has not been awarded a Penn degree. The student's transcript is the official record of the University.

As final action cannot always be taken by the time this program goes to press, these lists of degree recipients are tentative only. The appearance of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person has received a degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Conversely, the absence of a student's name herein does not necessarily mean that the person has not been awarded a Penn degree. The student's transcript is the official record of the University.
